BRITISH CABINET CRISIS IS ENDED BY COMPROMISE

After a Cabinet Meeting Lloyd George Summons Rebels in Commons to Confer.

HIS EXPLANATION ACCEPTED

CARSON AGAIN CONSPICUOUS

Vote Generally Described as an Effort by the Commons to Assert Their Supremacy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 25.—The Daily Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent writes:

"The Alien bill 'crisis' is over. Today the Prime Minister took it in hand, and by a timely conference with half a dozen of the leading rebels of Thursday night succeeded in smoothing the way to a compromise. It is of such a nature as to save the bill and insure the adoption in amended form of the provision which was so ruthlessly rejected on Thursday under a mistaken idea that the Home Secretary was whittling away an important clause which the Grand Committee had adopted.

"The Cabinet met this morning, and an hour later invitations were flashed to some of the ringleaders in the revolt to come and talk the situation over with the Prime Minister. It is understood that a full and friendly talk resulted in the clearing away of much misunderstanding as to the import of the Government's amendment, and that it was made abundantly clear by Mr. Lloyd George and his colleagues how important it was that existing obligation to our French allies in the matter of pilotage facilities at certain ports should be continued in some such form as the Home Secretary had proposed by the amendment which the House rejected.

"In the light of additional explanations which the Prime Minister and his colleagues were enabled to give, the conference had no difficulty in agreeing to the principles involved.

"It is further understood that the opportunity was taken to go over the remaining amendments, some of which might have given as much trouble as the pilotage clause, and to come to a general understanding as to how the House should be recommended to deal with them."

Meaning of the Vote.

LONDON, Oct. 24 (Associated Press).—Political experts and editorial utterances in the papers today generally expressed the view that no one expects the Government to resign as a result of the adverse vote in the House of Commons yesterday and that the circumstances of the defeat of the Pilots' amendment in nowise need entail such a step. The incident, however, is regarded on all sides as one which has given the Ministry a severe shock, a repetition of which it could hardly survive.

The vote of 185 to 113 against the Ministry is generally described as an assertion of the independence of the House of Commons and a revolt against the alleged dictation of Ministers—a determination to reassert the supremacy which the Commons surrendered to the Cabinet during the war.

More than one hundred supporters of the Coalition, among whom Sir Edward Carson was conspicuous, voted against the Government. These represented the intense anti-alien feeling prevailing among the conservative Coalitionists and the fear that the Government is trying in the present stage of the bill to annul amendments which those hostile to aliens secured in the committee stage. Some surprise is expressed that the labor members and the so-called Free Liberals joined in the vote against the Government on this issue, thereby identifying themselves with the anti-alien faction, contrary to the avowed principles of their leaders.

It is believed in some quarters that the Government on Monday will ask the House to reconsider the vote, and in view of certain circumstances it is regarded as possible that the House may comply. These circumstances concern the convention entered into between Great Britain and France in 1913, in which it was agreed that French pilots might bring French ships into certain English ports and that English pilots should be granted a reciprocal privilege in French ports. It is contended that unless the House of Commons revises yesterday's vote the Government will be compelled to denounce the convention and incur the reproach of treating the compact as "a scrap of paper."

To this the anti-alien reply is that the convention was concluded secretly, and that information about it was only dragged from a reluctant Government during yesterday's debate.

Dissatisfaction is also expressed at the way in which Edward Shortt, Home Secretary, handled the bill in the Commons, strengthening the belief that he will probably resign.

Ex-Kaiser Threatens Suicide on Day Entente Demands Him

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 24.—I learn from a reliable diplomatic source that the ex-Kaiser recently went through the solemn ceremony of loading his revolver in the presence of the members of his family, including his eldest son, and declared that the day the Entente demanded his extradition from the Dutch Government he would shoot himself.

VOTE TO EXCLUDE BERGER FROM SEAT

House Committee Find the Wisconsin Member-Elect Was Disloyal During the War.

AGAINST HIM BY 8 TO 1

Socialism Not an Issue, Says the Report, for Socialists in Other Countries Were Loyal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—By a vote of 8 to 1 the Special House Committee considering the case of Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin, recommended that he be excluded from membership of the House, and declared the seat in the Fifth Wisconsin district vacant, asserting in the report "that Victor L. Berger was disloyal to the United States of America, at a time when its existence as a free and independent nation was at stake, there cannot be the slightest doubt."

The report also characterized his acts as treasonable in character during the war.

Representative Rodenberg of Illinois, filed a minority report, in which he argued that the House should delay its decision until Mr. Berger's appeal had been disposed of by the Court of Appeals. The Seventh United States District Court had decided that his writings were disloyal, and Mr. Berger had appealed from that decision.

The committee recommends the adoption of this resolution:

Resolved, That under the facts and circumstances of this case, Victor L. Berger is not entitled to take oath of office as a Representative in this House from the Fifth Congressional District of the State of Wisconsin or to hold a seat therein as such Representative.

Summarizing the case, the committee reported as follows:

"The House of Representatives has always insisted upon its right to exclude members-elect and has also consistently refused to expel a member once he has been sworn in for an offense committed by him previous to his becoming a member, on the ground that the constitutional power of expulsion is limited in its application to the conduct of members of the House during their term of office.

"A mass of testimony was introduced at the hearings showing the nature and history of socialism, with which we have no concern, the intimation being that an attempt was being made to exclude Representative-elect Berger because he is a Socialist. The fact that in 1911, when he had been elected as a Socialist to the Sixty-second Congress, no objection was made to his being seated, and the further fact that in December, 1915, when the Sixty-fifth Congress convened, no objection was made to the admission of Representative-elect Meyer London of New York, who had also been elected as a Socialist, is a sufficient answer to such an intimation.

"The only question of fact at issue in this case is whether or not Victor L. Berger was disloyal to the United States during the war between this country and the Imperial German Government, and gave aid or comfort to its enemies. The contention was made by him and his counsel that he opposed our war with Germany because of the opposition of the international Socialists to war in general. As a matter of fact, the Socialist parties of other countries, including that of Germany, supported their Governments, and the Socialist Party in the United States might have done the same if it had not been for the efforts of Mr. Berger and his assistants.

"Furthermore, in a book entitled 'Some Anti-Socialist Voices of the Press,' published by him in 1911, he declared that if war should break out between this country and Japan 'the great mass of the Socialists would stand by the country to the last ditch.' Moreover, both at the Chicago trial and before your committee Mr. Berger admitted that the German submarine warfare was an invasion of the rights of everybody, including American rights.

"In other words, the testimony is conclusive that Mr. Berger was in favor of protecting American rights except when they were invaded by the Imperial German Government."

CONSULT WITH MARSHALL

ALLIES VOICE DISAPPROVAL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Wilson will have the final word as to whether Administration Democrats are to vote for rejection of the treaty in case the reservations now proposed by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are included in the resolution of ratification, according to the general belief here tonight.

Senator Hitchcock and Senator Swanson, leaders of the Administration forces, both denied that any definite program had been determined upon, but Republican Senators are authority for the statement that the decision as to the final vote will rest with the White House. Democratic members of the Foreign Relations Committee are said to have made this statement to Republican members.

Democratic Senators have conferred at length with Vice President Marshall, it was disclosed today, and every detail of the procedure to be followed when the resolution of ratification comes before the Senate has been gone over. Senators Hitchcock and Swanson participated in the conference. Their purpose is to know in advance just how the Chair will rule on the various manoeuvres in which both sides will engage when the treaty enters its last stage. Senator Lodge has also consulted with Mr. Marshall on this matter.

All interest at the Capitol today was centred on this approaching contest over the resolution of ratification. As a parliamentary battle it is expected to exceed in spectacular floor work anything which has taken place in the Senate since civil war days.

Each of the reservations reported out by Senator Lodge, with the approval of the Foreign Relations Committee, will be voted on separately, according to the majority leader. The preamble requiring the assent of three of the leading allied powers will likewise be voted on separately, as an amendment to the resolution of ratification.

Administration Senators are said to have decided that when the individual proposals have been acted upon and the resolution of ratification stands in its amended form, ready for final adoption, the President will be brought in on the play. The crucial question for Democratic Senators will be whether the treaty is to be accepted with the reservations agreed to or whether the resolution of ratification shall be rejected. This question, it is said, is one which President Wilson must decide, and his decision must be made in the brief interval before the final roll call begins.

It is too great a responsibility to be assumed by any one but the President himself, according to the belief of many Democratic Senators. In this connection, it was recalled that in a recent letter to Dr. Grayson Senator Hitchcock said no conferences with the President would be necessary for a week or ten days. By that time it is expected, the reservation question will be practically decided, and it is thought this is what Senator Hitchcock may have had in mind.

Senator Hitchcock has been fearful that Republican leaders might be able to force a vote en bloc on the reservations approved by the committee; but Republican leaders said today that no such plan was contemplated. Inclusion of the sweeping Reed reservation might defeat the entire reservation project under this method, it was pointed out. This amendment, suggested by Senator Reed of Missouri, one of the Democratic opponents of the League of Nations, provides that the United States

President Continues to Gain Strength; "Dry" Enforcement Bill Awaits Action

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Wilson continues to gain in strength, according to announcement made by his physicians today, and no new complications have developed. During the day the President did a little work, acting on six pardon cases, and dictating the letter to the miners and operators urging them to settle their difficulties or submit them to arbitration in order to avert the threatened coal strike. His appeal was written within three hours after the deadlock in the conference was brought to his attention this afternoon.

Tonight's bulletin read:

White House, Oct 24, 10 P. M.
The President has had a good day.
GRAYSON.

White House, Oct. 24, 11:15 A. M.
The President continues slowly to gain in strength. There is nothing additional to report this morning.
GRAYSON.
STITT.

The prohibition enforcement bill, as well as Attorney General Palmer's opinion of the measure's constitutionality, both of which have reached the White House, was not laid before the President for action today. The President has until next Tuesday during which to sign or veto the bill, or permit it to become law without his signature. Dr. Grayson was unwilling to have any more bills submitted to the President today. So far as can be learned, no ill effects have resulted from the work the President did this week, although one night he was very tired. However, Dr. Grayson is trying as much as possible to keep work away from him.

Bill Provides Penal Colony in Philippines for Anarchists

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—One of the Philippine Islands would be an anarchists' penal colony, to which persons convicted of attempting to overthrow the Government would be deported, under a bill introduced today by Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, a member of the Senate committee investigating the steel strike. Senator McKellar introduced another bill providing for the deportation of aliens within five years unless they become naturalized.

HYLAN'S STRIKE CONFERENCE FAILS

Both Sides Firm, but O'Connor Predicts End of Port Tieup by Tomorrow.

MAY APPEAL FOR MILITIA

Longshoremen's Strike Has Cost Shipowners $4,000,000 —495 Vessels in Harbor.

With the local officials of the United States Shipping Board announcing last night that there was nothing concrete in the report from that body on Thursday that an ultimatum had been given the longshoremen that unless they were at work by 5:30 o'clock yesterday an appeal would be made to the War Department for troops for this work, the strike of the longshoremen remained virtually unchanged as the result of yesterday's developments, which included a meeting among Mayor Hylan, the Chairman of the Special Federal Conciliation Commission, and representatives of the United States Shipping Board and the shipping interests of the port.

T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Longshoremen's Association, declared last night that he thought the strike would be over by Sunday. He added that he did not know what Mayor Hylan was trying to do except to prolong the strike.

When the shipowners left the conference with the Mayor, after a session lasting an hour and a half, Frederick Toppin, Vice President of the International Mercantile Marine, and spokesmen for the shipping interests said that the shipowners were unmoved in their position to stand by the award of the National Adjustment Commission.

Stevedores Leave in a Huff.

About fifteen contracting stevedores left the City Hall in a huff when they were asked by Mayor Hylan to leave the conference with the shipowners and go up stairs to the Board of Estimate chamber, where he would meet them later. At least one stevedore who does regular work for the shipowners remained in the conference, his name having been included in the list which Mr. Toppin had furnished to the Mayor as those the shipowners desired in the meeting. Later Mayor Hylan sent for the stevedores, and a committee of three returned and held a conference with the Mayor, who asked that they return at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon with 50 or 75 of their members to see what could be done to settle the strike. The Mayor also had a conference scheduled for 5:30 o'clock with "Dick" Butler and his Grievance Committee, representing the insurgent longshoremen, and this was postponed until 10 o'clock this morning.

Approximately 3,000 longshoremen were at work in the Port of New York yesterday, according to the United States Transport Service. At the army base in Brooklyn 640 were reported working; Staten Island, 500; Bush Terminal, 300; Piers 23 and 25, East River, Munson Line, 450; United Fruit Company docks, East River, all working; Ward Line, all working. Shipowners consider the number of longshoremen at work as negligible.

Eighteen steamers and two sailing vessels were cleared yesterday for early sailing. Of the number clearing, only four were for transatlantic voyages, the others being for coastwise or Mexican and Central American ports.

Nearly 500 Ships Tied Up.

There are 495 ships, aggregating 1,693,700 tons, tied up in the harbor as a result of the strike. Of this number 180 are anchored down the bay, being unable to find a berth at the piers. Of the total number tied up sixty-five are passenger vessels, twenty-five being transatlantic liners. Five of the seven liners of the French Line are docked here. The Lorraine of that line will arrive tomorrow and the seventh of the fleet, the Niagara, is expected next week.

Although shipowners admit that they have already lost upward of $4,000,000 as a result of the strike, they assert that they are as determined as ever to make no concessions whatever, but to stand absolutely by the award of the National Adjustment Commission. While no statement has been given out as to what occurred at the conference with Mayor Hylan yesterday, it is believed that they could not consider any other position.

Major Gen. F. T. Hines of the United States Army arrived here yesterday from Washington to co-ordinate the work of the army in conjunction with the Shipping Board. He made no announcement of his plans.

It was learned at the office of the United States Shipping Board, 45 Broadway, that no steps had yet been taken to protect longshoremen at work from the intimidations of the radicals who do not want to go to work. An official said that in the event of military aid being required the Governor of the State would be appealed to for the militia. Captain Ryland Drennan of

MINERS UNMOVED BY PRESIDENT'S PLEA; GOMPERS SUMMONS ALL UNION CHIEFS; NEW PLAN FOR CONCILIATORY BODY

PARLEY ON LABOR ENDS

But Public Group Recommends Calling Another Similar Gathering.

MAKE REPORT TO PRESIDENT

Committee, Headed by J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., Finds Hope of Agreement in Future.

GOMPERS CALL TO LABOR

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Despite the ending of the Industrial Conference as called by President Wilson today by the sine die adjournment of the public group composing the only delegates left after the withdrawal of the labor and employer groups, there is every prospect that another conference, embracing similar groups and meeting for the purposes originally set forth by President Wilson, will be called.

In adjourning the public group sent to the President a letter recommending the reconvening of new groups representing the public, labor, and employers, and, in view of his expressed desire to have the conference continue, it is taken for granted that he will approve the recommendation.

Another development incident to the failure of the Industrial Conference was the announcement by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, that the Executive Council of the Federation had decided to call a conference of organized labor in Washington for an early date to consider ways and means by which labor would deal with the present industrial situation. This decision was based on a request of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, in session at Peoria, that a special convention of the American Federation of Labor be held in Washington to perfect an alliance of international labor unions of the United States and Canada, "more effectively to fight out the life and death struggle of the workers now in progress."

Statements by Mr. Gompers and Dr. Charles W. Eliot, a member of the public group, that the Gompers collective bargaining resolution to which the employers refused to agree had been defeated by only one vote, were denied today in a statement issued by Harry A. Wheeler, chairman of the employers' group.

Conference Results Summarized.

Late tonight Bernard M. Baruch gave out a statement at the White House, in which he summarized the results of the Conference.

The main features of the report presented pursuant to instructions yesterday by the committee headed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., were that the industrial Conference should cease to exist, that experts should be appointed to study the entire industrial situation and that the work of the Conference should be carried on by new groups.

In the statement which he gave to the press at the White House tonight Mr. Baruch said:

"The Industrial Conference, as originally constituted, accomplished far more than appears on the surface before it finally was dissolved.

"First—It brought the issues involved home to the entire nation.

"Second—It demonstrated the great difficulties of a solution.

"Third—Its discussions have had the effect of setting the entire people thinking, and from this thought will come the solution.

"Fourth—There was brought home to all participants the intimate relations that exist between the farming interests and all industrial questions.

"Fifth—What was not brought out clearly was that both capital and labor owe to society—which is inclusive of capital and labor—a duty to produce in quantity at the lowest possible cost commensurate with the protection of both capital and labor, all of the 'things' that are necessary to keep up the proper, just, and humane standards of modern life.

"As the result of what transpired at the Conference sessions the people now realize that the industrial problem affects every one in every walk of life. I feel certain that the farmer will attain his proper place in the solution yet to be reached. All of the questions suggested go, not alone to the man or woman who works with his or her hands, but to all salaried people. These include, for instance, firemen, policemen, postal employes, and other workers in Governmental, State and municipal lines, as well as the school teachers of the country. It is evident that the teacher has more to do with the upbringing and final moulding of good citizenship than any one else. All workers want not alone proper financial treatment, but

Text of President's Message to Secretary of Labor Urging Coal Miners and Operators to Arbitrate

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The text of President Wilson's message to Secretary of Labor Wilson on the threatened coal strike as embodied in a letter from Secretary Tumulty follows:

The White House, Washington, Oct. 24, 1919.

My Dear Mr. Secretary: The President desires me to say that he has been watching with the deepest interest your efforts to bring about an adjustment of the impending strike in the bituminous coal fields of the country and was glad to have your report of the status of the negotiations now being carried on under your direction.

He requests me to convey the following message to you:

"I have been watching with deep and sincere interest your efforts to bring about a just settlement of the differences between the operators and the coal miners in the bituminous coal fields of the country. It is to be hoped that the good judgment that has been exercised by both operators and miners in years gone by in the adjustment of their differences will again prevail in the present crisis.

"All organized society is dependent upon the maintenance of the fuel supply for the continuance of its existence. The Government has appealed with success to other classes of workers to postpone similar questions until a reasonable adjustment could be arrived at.

"With the parties of this controversy rests the responsibility of seeing that the fuel supply of the nation is maintained. At this time when the world is in need of more supplies it would be a cruel neglect of our high duty to humanity to fail them.

"I have read with interest the suggestion made by you that the wage scale committees of the operators and miners go into conference without reservation for the purpose of negotiating an agreement as though no demands had been made or rejected, having due regard to the interests of their respective groups. I am in accord with that suggestion.

"No body of men knows better the details, intricacies, and technicalities of mining than do the miners and operators. No body of men can work out the details of the wage scale on a more equitable basis. Their judgment would undoubtedly be based upon a sum total of knowledge of the industry. Whatever their differences may be, no matter how widely divergent their viewpoints may be from each other, it is a duty that they owe society to make an earnest effort to negotiate those differences and to keep the mines of our country in operation.

"After all, the public interest in this vital matter is the paramount consideration of the Government and admits of no other action than that of consideration of a peaceful settlement of the matter as suggested by you. If for any reason the miners and operators fail to come to a mutual understanding the interests of the public are of such vital importance in connection with the production of coal that it is incumbent upon them to refer the matter in dispute to a board of arbitration for determination and to continue the operation of the mines pending the decision of the board."

Sincerely yours,
J. P. TUMULTY, Secretary to the President.

Hon. William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor.

REVEALS PLOTTING OF GARY RADICALS

"RED BIBLE" IS CIRCULATED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The story of radical activities in the Gary (Ind.) steel district as disclosed by the investigation of the military intelligence officers was told to the Senate Committee on Labor and Education today by Lieutenant Donald C. Van Buren, who was in charge of the Military Intelligence Service at Gary.

He said that one room in the department headquarters at Chicago was piled almost ceiling high with documentary evidence of I. W. W., Bolshevist and other radical activities in Gary, a mass so great that it will take months to translate it all and get it in order.

That the "Red" propaganda has found a fertile field in Gary's big foreign element—there are ten foreigners to one American in the city, Lieutenant Van Buren estimated—has been conclusively proved, asserted Lieutenant Van Buren. He produced a mass of documentary evidence to substantiate his assertions, and read from the stenographic reports of the examination of alien steel workers, who almost without exception admitted connection with the I. W. W. as well as membership in the American Federation of Labor. Even some of the local strike officials, these stenographic reports indicated, are extreme radicals, one of them, Richard Verhagen, Vice President and Treasurer of the Strike Committee in Gary, frankly admitting that he favors a Bolshevist form of Government for the United States.

A pleasing feature of the investigation, Lieutenant Van Buren said, was the fact that among all the radicals examined, not one was an American-born citizen. They are for the most part Russians, Hungarians, and Austrians. These three nationalities predominated with the Russians far in the lead.

Lieutenant Van Buren said that in every meeting hall in Gary which was visited by the military authorities they found great quantities of the most extremely radical literature. Thousands upon thousands of copies of what he described as the "Red Bible" of the Bolsheviki were confiscated. The investigation showed that this document,

GARY SEES MENACE IN THE CLOSED SHOP

Tells Iron and Steel Institute Rights of Workers Not in Unions Must Be Protected.

REVIEWS THE STEEL STRIKE

Urges Members to Fight Bolshevism and Other Un-American Propaganda.

Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, declared yesterday at a meeting here of the American Iron and Steel Institute that the "open shop" was the greatest question confronting the world. He explained the proceedings of the Industrial Conference at Washington and the differences that led to its discontinuance. He predicted "beneficial recommendations" by the group representing the public, which did not leave the conference with the groups representing employers and employes.

Judge Gary was warmly praised by the Institute in resolutions adopted at the day meeting when he made his address in the evening he was again cheered at a dinner at the Commodore by 1,000 diners.

King Albert of Belgium and the Crown Prince were the guests of honor at the dinner. When the King entered the ballroom the steel men rose and cheered him for several minutes, waving small Belgian flags and napkins.

Eugene Schneider, a French steel manufacturer, referred to the spread of Bolshevism in Europe and Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon said that Judge Gary was "a great leader against industrial Bolshevism."

Gaston Liebert, French Consul General, said he considered Bolshevism as a real danger, but Judge Gary, who made no formal speech at the dinner, declared after Mr. Liebert's speech that he did not believe Bolshevism was to be feared. "It is to be feared, of course, in the same sense that a burglar or bandit is to be feared," he said, "but in this country, where the citizens are in the main loyal and patriotic, there is no danger of Bolshevism when it concerns the welfare of the nation."

In his address before the Institute, after viewing the labor union movements to bring about a strike in the steel industry and the calling of the strike, Mr. Gary said:

"In many, if not most of the mills, the larger number of employes continued to work without interruption. At the beginning many of the workmen who attempted to continue their work and others who had remained at home through fear and attempted to return, were confronted in the public streets and

600,000 COAL MEN TO QUIT

President Intervenes When Secretary Fails to Adjust Differences.

APPEALS FOR ARBITRATION

MINERS ACCUSE EMPLOYERS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A direct appeal by President Wilson from his sickbed late this afternoon failed to bring the soft coal miners and operators into agreement in the face of the threatened strike of 600,000 bituminous coal miners called for Nov. 1.

After the latest propositions submitted by Secretary of Labor Wilson in a desperate effort to effect an agreement had been rejected a final appeal was made by Secretary Wilson this afternoon to the President to intervene. The President dictated a letter, in which he made three proposals. These were:

First—That the representatives of the miners and operators resume negotiations in an effort to reach a peaceful settlement.

Second—If for any reason the miners and operators failed to come to a mutual understanding, then to refer the matters in dispute to a board of arbitration for determination.

Third—To call off the strike and continue the operation of the mines pending the decision of the board.

The President's proposals as embodied in a letter which was delivered through Secretary Tumulty to Secretary Wilson, was placed in the hands of Secretary Wilson at 4 o'clock. Half an hour later Secretary Wilson was meeting representatives of both the miners and the operators behind closed doors in the American Red Cross Building, where he presented the President's letter and made an urgent appeal for acceptance.

The operators agreed to accept the President's proposals and announced their willingness to resume negotiations, but the coal miners refused to agree to anything or to call off the strike unless assured in advance that the negotiations would be successful. The miners' representatives were firm in their determination not to accept the President's proposal, and no appeal or argument by Secretary Wilson was able to sway them from their position. Realizing that it was absolutely impossible to bring the operators and miners together after the eleventh hour appeal of the President had failed, Secretary Wilson adjourned the conference sine die.

Operators Accept Proposal.

When the President's letter was first read to both sides it caused a debate, during which the pros and cons were discussed at great length. Each side asked and received permission to withdraw from the conference hall to consider its decision. The operators returned and declared their willingness to accept the President's proposal in its entirety. They added that they awaited the call of Secretary Wilson and withdrew from the conference. Secretary Wilson remained in session for some time with the coal miners' representatives. The miners declared that they considered it futile to consider negotiations and were unwilling to agree to arbitration or to call off the strike. Then it was that Secretary Wilson called off the conference as a flat failure.

"The miners' representatives," said Secretary Wilson, "declared that they regretted that negotiations could not proceed, but that they could not enter upon negotiations until it was known definitely in advance whether the result would be successful or unsuccessful.

"That ended the conference. I have adjourned it sine die, but I will not give up my hope and efforts until the last minute to try to avert the strike."

Thomas W. Brewster, Chairman of the operators' scale committee of the Central Competitive District, said:

"The operators accepted the President's proposition in toto, and are awaiting the call of the Secretary of Labor, whenever he cares to issue it, to resume negotiations."

Miners Blame Operators.

John L. Lewis, acting President of the United Mine Workers of America, said:

"The operators bolted the conference, without the Secretary's consent. We have tried in every way to avert a strike and the responsibilities are wholly upon the operators. The strike order is still effective and the strike will begin Nov. 1.

"It appeals to every soft coal miner in the United States. It will affect 450,000 soft coal operators in the central field and 150,000 operators in the rest of the United States, making a total of 600,000 men."

The miners are striking for a six-hour day instead of an eight-hour day, and for five days a week. They want an increase in wages of about 60 per cent.

President Wilson was urged to intervene in the dispute only after Secretary

Wilson, who has been in conference with both sides since Friday a week ago, had made four different propositions in that time to the miners, in an effort to adjust the dispute. The last of his propositions was submitted to the two groups this morning. It was as follows:

"That the pick-mining price be advanced 15 cents per ton.

"That machine mining, yardage, deadweight, and day wages be advanced in the same ratio.

"That the day work shall be eight hours from bank to bank.

"That with these changes the existing agreement continues in effect until March 31, 1922.

"That, while the legal termination of the war will not take place until some unknown time in the future, the increase in the cost of living is an existing fact. Therefore these changes will go into effect as of Nov. 1, 1919."

This proposal was rejected, and when Secretary Wilson saw that he had gone as far as possible in his own personal efforts at compromise and that the conference was on the verge of a break, he pleaded with both sides to remain while he got in touch with the White House. Secretary Wilson went to the White House, where he was in conference with Secretary Tumulty for some time. Secretary Tumulty reported the situation to the President, who dictated a letter, which was delivered by Mr. Tumulty to Secretary Wilson, to be submitted to the conference.

Next Step Undetermined.

Just what will be the next step was undetermined tonight.

Unless the President or Congress is able to take some action before Saturday morning of next week the strike will go into effect. One suggestion tonight is that the President might revive the fuel administration in all its activities, but how this would settle the controversy is not clear. There have been suggestions also that the Government might take over the mines and thus confront the miners with the proposition of striking against the Federal Government, but Secretary Lane, under whose jurisdiction is the Bureau of Mines, said yesterday that he knew of no plan or suggestion for the Government to take over the mines.

Following the breaking up of the conference the following statement was issued by J. L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America:

"When the coal operators walked out of the conference with Secretary of Labor Wilson in such an abrupt, discourteous and offensive manner, they did exactly what they set out deliberately to do in the first place; they forced the bituminous coal miners of the United States to strike. The operators proved by their action that they did not want and did not intend to make a new wage agreement with the miners. That the operators were fully determined from the start to prevent the making of a new agreement was known to the miners, but the miners were hopeful throughout that something might develope that would break down the stone wall attitude of the operators and result in negotiations which would avert the strike.

"Time after time in the conference at Buffalo, at Philadelphia and in Washington the miners offered to enter into negotiations with the operators for the making of an agreement that would have protected the public against inconvenience and possible suffering. The miners offered in the conference with Secretary Wilson and the operators to enter upon negotiations without reservations of any kind with a sincere desire to negotiate a contract, but the operators flatly refused to do so.

"Therefore, we charge that the full responsibility for whatever may be the result or the consequences must rest on the operators, because of their stubborn determination that no new agreement should be reached.

"Knowing that the operators were dead set against the making of a new agreement, we knew that if both sides accepted the two propositions made by President Wilson—one for negotiation, and the other for arbitration—the operators would prevent a contract by negotiation, and then throw the entire matter into arbitration. Such arbitration would be a long drawn out proceeding, deliberately made so by the operators, and during all of the early weeks and months which would be consumed by the arbitration, the miners would be compelled to work at the present wholly inadequate wages, and under the present unbearable working conditions.

KANAWHA MINERS DISBAND.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 24.—A conference of Kanawha field miners at Cabin Creek Junction ended abruptly tonight when the coal workers heeded telegrams from officers of the United Mine Workers of America to return to work. They left immediately on the Cabin Creek train for their homes.

According to reports from Governor John J. Cornwell's office, the miners were to consider at tonight's session the question of forcing unionization on the Guyan coal fields, in Logan County. When the miners gathered, however, telegrams from C. F. Keeney, District President, and John L. Lewis, Acting International President of the Miners' Union, urging the men to return to work were read, and the several hundred in attendance expressed their willingness to obey the orders of their executives.

The Governor earlier in the day sent a message to Acting President Lewis, in which he expressed the fear that the miners would make a second attempt to march on the Guyan coal fields, and said that arms and ammunition had been distributed to the workers. He added that he intended to maintain peace and order.

SENDS ORDERS TO TROOPS.

Gen. Wood Believed to Have Sent Call to Camp Taylor.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 24.—Orders have been received at Camp Zachary Taylor from the War Department, it was learned today, to hold four provisional battalions of infantry and machine gunners of the famous First Division ready for riot and strike duty. The battalions will number 2,500 men.

Colonel Peabody, Chief of Staff, is quoted as having said no actual entraining order had been received, but the order to hold the troops in readiness indicates that the battalions might be sent to West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Field rations, it was stated, have been issued to the four battalions, which was taken as evidence that an order to entrain was imminent.

Staff officers were reticent about discussing the source of the orders, but active preparations to carry them out were pointed to as evidence that they had been issued by a responsible authority.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—War Department officials said today they had sent no orders to Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., for the holding of troops there in readiness for riot and strike duty. It was suggested that if any orders had been received at the camp they were issued by Major General Wood, commanding the Central Department, with headquarters at Chicago.

recognition of their position as part of the foundation of society itself. This recognition must come, not as a privilege granted, but as a matter of inherent right.

"The outcome of this conference must be, in my opinion, that there will be manifest and increasing effort on the part of empolyers to see that, not alone proper wages are paid but that the human rights of the workers are considered. The employer has certain rights which must be recognized and protected. Coupled with these rights is the obligation to see that all of his employes are accorded just treatment."

Statement from Employers.

The statement issued by Chairman Wheeler of the employers' group was as follows:

"Mr. Gompers and the other representatives of organized labor who bolted the National Industrial Conference are showing a poor spirit of sportsmanship. Neither Mr. Gompers nor President Elliot can becloud the issue by assuming that they correctly stated the vote of the employers' group on the Gompers resolution and neither told the truth. The Gompers resolution was defeated under the rule of the conference on group voting. Group voting was the unanimous recommendation of the Rules Committee at a time when no opportunity had been afforded for each group to size up the others' mental processes and opinions. President Eliot was not in favor of group voting, but Mr. Gompers and the labor group voted for it unanimously.

"The employers' group did not defeat the Gompers resolution by a majority of one. The employers' group consisted of seventeen members, three farmers, two bankers, two railroad executives, and ten business men. When the vote on the Gompers resolution was taken the two members named by the Investment Bankers' Association and one representative from the business men were absent from Washington. Fourteen votes were cast. Ten votes were cast against the resolution, four in favor of it.

"What Mr. Gompers had in mind to accomplish by a misstatement of the facts and without any effort to ascertain the truth the public may judge."

At the White House today, Edward N. Hurley, of Illinois, former Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, and a large employer of labor, approved the action of the labor group in withdrawing from the Conference. He said he did not see how President Gompers could have taken any other course and added that Mr. Gompers had done the best thing from his standpoint and probably the best thing for the country.

The Letter to the President.

Late tonight the White House made public the text of the letter to President Wilson from the public group. It was signed by Mr. Baruch as Chairman. The letter read:

"To the President of the United States:

"The delegates appointed by you as representatives of the general public of the industrial conference beg to submit the following report:

"The conference proper opened on Oct. 6 and terminated on Oct. 23, sitting in all thirteen days. The public group held twenty-three meetings for the discussion of the various matters brought before the conference.

"The public group, as was intended, differed from the other groups representing labor and capital, in one important particular, and that is the homogeneity of interests of either of these groups; it represented, rather, a cross section of American life. Among its members were employers of labor, large and small, farmers, capital, representatives of labor, editors, and professional students of industrial problems. Notwithstanding this diversity of interests and relation, there was manifested throughout an astonishing amount of agreement upon the most vital subjects, a most encouraging and a most hopeful sign for the future, and an evidence of the possibility of a united action in the interests of the entire nation.

"The existence of the steel strike had the effect of focusing interest and attention upon the process of conflict as against constructive measures and agreement for the future, and made the calm discussion of such constructive measures difficult. Because it was manifestly impossible to dispose of this subject by agreement under the rules of the conference, which require concurrence of at least a majority of each of the three groups, the conference decided to defer action upon the question until the subject of collective bargaining was passed upon.

"After several days of earnest endeavor and numerous attempts at adjustment, between the points of view of the several groups, the conference failed to agree upon this issue.

"In this connection we deem it important to emphasize the fact that the conference did not, at any time, reject the principle of the right of workers to organize and to bargain collectively with their employers. Neither the conference as a whole nor any other group in the conference opposed that right. The difficulty that arose and the issue upon which the conference failed to agree was not upon the principle involved but upon the method of making it effective.

"In our judgment even this difficulty would not have been insurmountable had the conference approached its task in another way.

"Obviously the important principle of collective bargaining cannot be sharply separated from other elements in the great problem of the relation of employer and employe. The right of organization, the protection in the exercise of their lawful rights, of those who seek to organize the workers; the careful definition of the various forms of organization through which the right may be exercised, and the machinery necessary for the adjusting of disputes arising in connection with that right must all be taken into account in their proper relation.

"We believe that the experience of this conference, and of similar conferences elsewhere, clearly showed the futility of attempting to deal with this great question in a piecemeal way by adopting detached and unrelated resolutions. The only efficient method in our judgment is that of formulating a comprehensive and systematically developed program.

"We believe that the right of workers to organize for the purpose of collectively bargaining with their employers through representatives of their own choosing, cannot be denied or assailed. As representatives of the public we can interpret this right only in the sense that wage-earners must be free to choose what organization or association, if any, they will join for this purpose.

"In the recognition of the right of workers to organize, to be represented by representatives of their own choice, difficulties will from time to time arise. We believe that it will be possible for a properly constituted arbitral authority to adjust such difficulties with justice and fairness to all parties concerned.

"The abrupt termination of the conference prevented any discussion in the conference of the important matter of the right of the workers to strike and of the methods whereby, without destroying or impairing that right, the public interest may be adequately considered and protected.

"We are deeply impressed by the necessity of setting up some machinery for effecting the speedy adjustment of disputes arising between workers and employers, whether the latter be private individuals or firms or public and governmental authorities. In this connection there was submitted to the conference by the Secretary of Labor, W. B. Wilson, a well-considered plan for establishing the necessary machinery of conciliation and arbitration. Because this plan was not considered by the conference, owing to the manner of its termination, we do not here express any judgment upon it, further than to say that we believe it affords a possible basis for a solution of the immediate problem and deserves serious consideration and study.

"It is impossible to discuss in detail the numerous schemes for affording to workers representation in the regulation of the conditions of labor, the plans for profit-sharing, the many forms of shop councils, and the like. We respectfully suggest that a very great service could be rendered to the nation, to employers and employes alike, if in the Department of Labor there were established a bureau for the purpose of gathering and making available accurate information concerning all such experiments and their results. Such a bureau could give expert advice and assistance to any person desiring to undertake plans for bettering labor conditions in particular establishments.

"As representatives of the general public we are of the opinion that the standard relating to the employment of women and children, advocated by the Woman's Division and the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, should be favorably considered.

"We do not believe that this group can at this time with advantage further proceed with the discussion of the great questions with which it has been dealing. It may well be, however, that a small committee, selected by you, composed of persons of various interests and points of approach could take up these matters and prepare along some such lines as herein indicated, a program which will be of present value. Upon the presentation of the report of such a committee steps should be taken to give it practical effect through another conference, representing capital, labor and the public, if in the circumstances then existing it should seem to you to be wise.

"In closing this report and terminating our labors we desire to give expression to our conviction that the conference has been of very real educational value to all those privileged to participate in it. The frank and sincere interchange of opinions and views and experience, both within the groups and between them through individual contact, has given, we believe, to every member of the conference a broader vision and understanding and helped each to see the problems of the other.

"Assuring you of our profound respect, and solicitude for your recovery, we have the honor to be,

"Very truly yours,

"The Group Representing the Public,

"BERNARD M. BARUCH,

"Chairman."

Those who participated in the conference of the public group were Bernard M. Baruch, Robert S. Brookings, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., John Spargo, C. H. Bradfute, Ward M. Burgess, Owen Young, Thomas L. Chadbourne, Henry S. Dennison, H. B. Endicott, Paul L. Feiss, George R. James, Thomas D. Jones, Gavin McNab, L. D. Sweet, Louis Titus, Edward Rumely and Gertrude Barnum and Ida M. Tarbell.

"The committee which prepared the report was composed of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Chairman; Ward M. Burgess, Thomas D. Jones, John Spargo and Ida M. Tarbell.

Gompers Calls Labor Chiefs.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24, (Associated Press).—What may prove one of the greatest industrial battles in history was believed by some observers here to be forecast by the announcement today of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, that a conference of the heads of 112 international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor would be held in Washington in the "near future" to discuss present and impending disputes.

Co-operation of the four big railroad brotherhoods and the farmers of the country as well as the labor organizations of Canada probably will be sought, it was said, in furthering whatever program the union chiefs decide on.

Mr. Gompers's announcement was contained in a telegram to the Illinois Federation of Labor at Peoria. This message was in reply to one in which the Illinois organization asked that a special convention of the American Federation of Labor be called to perfect an alliance of the international unions of the United States and Canada and the railroad brotherhoods, "more effectively to fight out the life-and-death struggle of the workers now in progress."

Federation officials also pointed out that the Illinois branch proposed that the aid of the farmers be enlisted and that assessments aggregating one-fourth of the net earnings of organized workers be made "until the objects of this drive be accomplished."

Whether there was any connection between the proposed conference and the notice given to the Railroad Administration by Timothy Shea of the Firemen's Brotherhood that the railroad workers would fight for general increases in pay before the Government relinquished control of the roads was not disclosed.

Preparations were being made today at American Federation of Labor headquarters here of letters to the affiliated unions all over the country, urging moral and financial support to the striking steel workers.

PLACES EMBARGO ON RICE.

Government Acts in Philippine Scarcity—Crime Increases.

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 24, (Correspondence of Associated Press.)—So acute has become the rice situation in the Philippine Islands that the Government has placed an embargo on the cereal and is attempting to import 3,000 tons from French Saigon at high prices to reduce the shortage.

The shortage is said to be the result of hoarding by Filipino middlemen and to the lack of proper facilities for distributing the cereal in non-producing areas.

The Government has fixed retail prices for rice, taken over the stocks on the basis of those prices, and is handling the distribution.

Crime has increased since the shortage became acute.

GARY SEES MENACE IN THE CLOSED SHOP

elsewhere by strikers, or pickets, and importuned to engage in the strike; and many were assaulted and seriously injured. After protection was afforded by the police, sheriffs' deputies, State constabulary and, in some cases, State or national troops, the numbers resuming work increased appreciably from day to day until in many places operations are about normal. Taken as a whole, the situation at present is good and steadily improving.

"Without discussing for the present the merit or demerit of labor unions it may be observed that union labor leaders openly state that they seek to unionize or, as they say, 'organize' the whole industry of this country. Those who do not contract or deal with unions, although they do not combat them, insist upon absolute freedom to both employer and employe in regard to employment and the management of the shops. The non-union employers and employes both stand for the open shop. The unions argue for the closed shop or, as the leaders now insist, 'the right of collective bargaining through labor union leaders.'

"Every proposition contended for by the labor unions at the National Industrial Conference at Washington led to domination of the shops and of the men by the union labor leaders. Every position taken by the other side centred on the open shop. This is the great question confronting the American people and, in fact, the world public. From 80 per cent. to 90 per cent. or more of labor in this country is non-union. It is for them and the employers generally and the large class of men and women who are not, strictly speaking, employers or wage earners, to determine whether or not it is best for the whole community to have industry totally organized. Judging by experience, we believe it is for the best interest of employer and employe and the general public to have a business conducted on the basis of what we term the 'open shop,' thus permitting any man to engage in any line of employment, or any employer to secure the services of any workman on terms agreed upon between the two, whether the workman is or is not connected with a labor union. The verdict of the people at large will finally decide this question, and the decision will be right.

"I think the fundamental question submitted to the conference for recommendation to industries was the open shop. This question apparently could not be decided by majority vote for the reason that the conference was organized into three groups called Labor, Employers and Public. No affirmative action on the constitution or adopted rules could be taken except by the unanimous vote of the three groups, each of which voted by a majority of all its members. It was necessary to have such a condition as otherwise there could be no conference in which there would be an agreement between capital and labor, so-called.

"The union labor advocates stand for collective bargaining through the unions. The others favor collective bargaining through representatives selected by the employes themselves from their own numbers.

"All through the conference whenever the question of collective bargaining was discussed, it was apparent that the union leaders would not support any resolution in favor of collective bargaining except on the basis that collective bargaining meant bargaining through labor unions.

"The unions claim that collective bargaining through different forms of shop organization made up of the employes tends to limit the extension of unions by increasing their numbers. The non-union employes and their employers insist that collective bargaining through labor unions means that employes are forced to join the unions, as otherwise they could not be represented. So it is perfectly clear that the whole argument returns to the main proposition of open or closed shop.

"In the conference there was no objection offered by any one to a form of collective bargaining as between employes and employers, provided both were free from outside representation and direction.

"The labor group, so-called, was made up of union labor leaders, leaving unorganized labor without special representation. The same mistake seems to have been made by a large portion of the public which was created about the war, namely, that organized labor really represents the workmen or wage earners, notwithstanding, as a matter of fact, at least 85 per cent. are non-union and not members of any union organization. The employers' group, in which were men first-class in every respect, included men connected with large and important lines of industry, and also included several others, some of whom at least should have been with the labor group. In selecting the public group there were overlooked thousands of vocations, professions, artisans, and other lines of industry, all of whom are more or less affected by the cost of production, the expense of living, and, therefore, the control and conditions of both labor and capital.

"However, it would seem there were many objects which might appropriately have been considered by the conference and conclusions for recommendations arrived at by unanimous consent which would be advantageous to the public good and, therefore, to all mankind, such as working hours, living and working conditions, women's work, child labor, recreation, medical and surgical treatment, pensions, relief in times of stress, rates of compensation, schools, churches, and other educational facilities. With the right disposition and intelligence the public group, sole survivor of the conference, can agree upon recommendations to the industrial world which should be of substantial benefit. All of us are in favor of these principles and of any others that may be suggested which we believe will be of real benefit to the wage earners and to the general public.

"Considerable has been said in public of late concerning the attempt to spread the doctrine of Bolshevism in this country. All of us have known for some time that this disease is persistent and that there has been some inoculation even in this best of countries. Still we deny that there is danger of serious trouble. There is only one way to treat this disease and that is to stamp it out, to meet it boldly wherever it can be found, to expose it and give it no chance for development. In this free country, with its reasonable laws wisely administered, its golden harvests, healthful climate, peace-loving inhabitants who are generous in contributions for relief and protection, schools, churches, and hospitals, there is no room except in the prisons for the anarchist, the Bolshevist, or other individual who seeks to substitute the rule of force for the rule of law and reason. If there are slinking, desperate, murderous Bolsheviki in this country, even in small numbers, I believe the Secret Service Department of the Government should detect and expose them and that the iron hand of justice should punish them as they deserve, and as I have faith in this country and in its institutions, I believe this will be done and done promptly. Any one who doubts the ability of the proper authorities to protect the persons and property of our people against Bolshevism and other similar doctrines fails to appreciate the courage of our citizens and the terrible force and strength of subdued calmness when they are surrounded by threatened danger.

"For ourselves, let us be fair and just, considerate and determined, hopeful and complacent. We shall emerge from the waves of unrest which naturally follow the demoralization and terrors of war and as a people will be better and stronger than ever."

Following Mr. Gary's speech the meeting adopted the following resolutions approving of his stand as a member of the Industrial Conference:

Whereas, Elbert H. Gary, President of the American Iron and Steel Institute, has rendered to the American people and the American iron and steel industries a service of inestimable value by his course as a representative of the public in the industrial conference at Washington; therefore be it

Resolved, That the American Iron and Steel Institute, assembled in its semi-annual meeting, hereby records its unqualified approval of Mr. Gary's firm stand against any infringement of the rights of the individual in labor or in business, rights fundamental to American industrial supremacy as well as to American liberty; that it admires the vision and courage enabling him to discern and effectively oppose the radicalism injected into trade unionism by unscrupulous leaders, an element especially dangerous under present conditions, when worldwide unrest has created an opportunity for agitation aimed at the perpetuity of institutions under which our country has achieved its strength and our industries attained their efficiency and prosperity.

ADRIATIC FLEETS MOVING.

U. S. Torpedo Boat Leaves Fiume—D'Annunzio Appeal Suppressed.

FIUME, Oct. 23, (Associated Press.)—A lively movement of Allied warcraft stationed in Adriatic ports is in progress. The United States torpedo boat Boyle, which has been stationed here, has been ordered to Spalato, and left this evening for that Dalmatian port. Similar movements of British and French warcraft are occurring.

The Associated Press correspondent was informed today by an American naval commander that the movement was probably connected with the Fiume situation.

ROME, Oct. 23.—A message to America from Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio, leader of the Italian irregular troops which are holding Fiume, is printed in newspapers here. It bears the date of Oct. 12 and was brought from Fiume on Oct. 19 by Whitney Warren, the American architect, who went to that city early in October to offer his services to Captain d'Annunzio. Eight paragraphs of the message were suppressed by the censor. The remainder of the appeal addressed Americans as "brothers," and implored their help for Fiume, which, the message says, "is fighting for liberty."

LOOK TO TIDES FOR POWER.

France to Experiment with Water Because of Coal Shortage.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Experiments to determine the practicality of the use of tidal power to offset the coal shortage under which France is expected to suffer for a long time will be carried out under government auspices in St. Briac Bay, on the north coast of Brittany.

Experiments are also being conducted to determine the possibility of replacing coal wholly or in part on the railways, in gas, water and power plants, and for domestic purposes. The Petit Parisien states that the use of gasoline in the chief gas, water and power plants of the public service is contemplated, and that a daily saving of 4,000 tons of coal for domestic use may result. This would require 60,000 tons of gasoline a month, possibly imported from the United States.

Coal moistened with naphtha may be used in the public service plants this Winter. The necessary installations are expected to be ready by January. The coal is not to be used primarily as fuel but as a holding element for the naphtha, which otherwise could not be burned in the present fireboxes.

Schurman Offers Library to Louvain

President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell University has offered his entire philosophical library to replace the volumes destroyed by the Germans when they burned the library of the University of Louvain, this announcement was made last night by the Executive Committee of the National Committee for the Restoration of the Library of the University of Louvain.

WHITE STAR STAFF LOADS THE ADRIATIC

Office and Pier Force Hustles Food and Baggage on Liner to Sail Today.

STEWARDS' OBJECTION VAIN

Some Refuse to Feed Non-Union Volunteers—Mauretania Is Due Here Monday Morning.

Owing to the untiring zeal of the office and pier staffs of the International Mercantile Marine Company, the White Star liner Adriatic will sail at noon today for Southampton via Cherbourg with 2,200 passengers and 5,000 sacks of mails in spite of the longshoremen's strike. The 3,000 tons of cargo which was brought from England in the ship will be taken back, as none of it has been unloaded in port.

The departure of the Adriatic was made possible by fifteen clerks from the passenger office at 9 Broadway, headed by Thomas Thorn, manager of the Red Star Line, who volunteered to work on the lighters alongside Pier 60 and shovel 100 tons of coal into the traveler which conveys it to the bunkers on the liner. They went to work at 8:30 A. M. and finished by 7 o'clock last night.

Another gang composed of clerks, pursers, chief stewards, and other employes of the International Mercantile Marine loaded 150 tons of meat and other provisions onto the ship and stowed them in the store room. The fish was frozen solid, having come through from the Pacific Coast. The fish cleaners in New York are on strike for $1 an hour, so the supply of the Adriatic had to be brought across the continent in refrigerator cars.

Handle Thousands of Trunks.

A third gang, making about 140 altogether, handled the baggage, and by 7 o'clock had put 2,000 trunks and other pieces of baggage on board. The gang then began an all-night job on the second cabin and steerage baggage, which had been brought to the pier.

The postal authorities sent down motor trucks loaded with mail, and said these would continue through the night until the Adriatic sailed, on account of the congestion at the Post Office.

The stewards on the Adriatic after a consultation with the delegate of their union on board declined to serve meals to the men of the office staff, although they told their company, on the ground they were strike-breakers and because they were covered with coal dust. Victualling Superintendent Spencer got some of the chief stewards and chefs and served meals in the third class dining room to the volunteer coal shovelers and baggage handlers.

After leaving New York today the Adriatic will proceed to Halifax and coal for the voyage home. Some of her 390 first cabin passengers are: Sir William Wiseman, Sir Arthur Shirley Benn, Sir Allen Sykes, Sir Montague Barlow, Sir Frank Warner, Sir Alfred Davies, the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, the Rev. J. H. Jowett, and Sir Humphrey Mackworth.

After the Adriatic sails, the staff will turn its attention to the Celtic, which is scheduled to leave next Tuesday for Liverpool, as the company is determined not to have its entire fleet tied up in New York harbor. The French Line, after the arrival of the Lorraine on Monday, will have its passenger fleet on this side.

Mauretania Due Monday.

The Cunarder Mauretania arrived at Halifax yesterday for coal and is expected here on Monday morning. She will sail at noon the following day for Cherbourg and Southampton, calling again at Halifax for fuel. The Orduna of the same company, coming from Liverpool, is expected in Halifax this morning to take on coal before coming on to this port.

The Italian liner Europa, from Genoa, was ordered yesterday by wireless to proceed to Philadelphia. She was east of Fire Island. The Lamport & Holt liner, Vasari from Montevideo to New York and Liverpool, was ordered by wireless to put into Newport News for coal on her way up the coast.

Foreign Mail Kept Moving.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The strike of the longshoremen in New York City is not seriously embarrassing the sending or receiving of mails to or from foreign countries, according to announcement of the Post Office Department today. The foreign mail station at New York, the statement says, is practically cleared up of all foreign mail. Incoming mails are handled through Halifax, and thence by train to New York.

STEEL STRIKE BROKEN IN THE GARY DISTRICT

Mills Report Operation Nearing Normal and That They Do Not Need Many More Men.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—At practically the end of the fifth week the strike of steel workers appears to be over, so far as the Gary mills are concerned. There are still several thousand men out, but, with the exception of a few unskilled laborers, the mills have all the men they need and all they intend to employ for the next six months. Many unskilled laborers are walking the streets of Gary looking for jobs, but they have been classed as radicals and the mills have refused to take them back.

Newspapermen were permitted to enter the mills for the first time today. Eighteen hundred tons of steel bars were produced during the day by the commercial mills. Twenty-seven of the forty-two open hearth furnaces are in operation, both units of the Duplex Mill are running, and eight blast furnaces are in readiness to be started tomorrow morning. The remaining four blast furnaces, which were banked for a six months' shut-down, are being unbedded and will be running within the next few days.

The present pay roll of the United States Steel Corporation runs above the 7,000 mark, approximately 75 per cent. of the maximum force. Production is now running at 50 per cent.

The American Sheet and Tin Plate officials assert that the company has eight hot mills in operation, one more than for the corresponding time last year, and that they would take on no more men until Jan. 1.

At the same time figures given out for the Indiana Steel Company disclosed that eight blast furnaces were in full operation with 7,000 out of a normal 12,000 men at work, and more returning every day. The Gary Screw and Bolt Works says 65 per cent. of its forces have returned.

An official of the Gary mills said today there was little likelihood of the employment of large numbers of additional steel workers in the face of the threatened walk-out of coal miners.

How dead the strike issue has become is indicated in the fact that not a line concerning the local situation was printed in Gary newspapers today, save the testimony given in Washington before the Senate Committee by Lieutenant Van Buren. Paul Glazer, attorney for the strikers, was interested in that part of Van Buren's testimony which indicated that Department of Justice officials are considering canceling his citizenship papers.

"They can't take my papers away," Glazer said, "unless they can prove I was plotting against the Government at the time the first papers were issued. There is no law against a revolution. The Constitution gives us that right. The Constitution says citizens of the United States may at any time change the Government when that Government becomes unbearable."

Colonel W. S. Mapes announced he had received information that copies of the communist proclamation seized in Gary a week ago are being distributed in the industries about Chicago.

General Wood conferred with Colonel Mapes and Mayor Hodges in the morning. He asked the Mayor if he wanted the troops withdrawn. Hodges replied he did not think the situation had calmed down to the point where his police force would be able to prevent disorder.

STRIKERS BOMB TWO HOMES

Charleroi, Penn., Explosion Does Slight Damage—Six Held in Canton.

CHARLEROI, Penn., Oct. 24.—Two houses were slightly damaged by a bomb explosion here early today. Police believe that the bomb was intended for Richard Harvey, a steel mill engineer, who lives nearby, and that the bomb was misplaced.

CANTON, Ohio, Oct. 24.—Six persons, including a woman picket, are under arrest following disorder near the United Alloy Steel Corporation plant here last night in which hundreds of strikers took part. Special police used clubs freely on a number of strikers. The trouble followed fighting yesterday when strikers stoned street cars and automobiles carrying workmen to the mills.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 24.—Two more plate mills at the Sharon Steel Hoop Company's plant resumed operations today. Observers estimate about 14,000 men are working regularly in the steel mills in the Mahoning Valley.

MILLIONS IN PRIZES IN GERMANY'S LOAN

Lottery Will Create Ten New Millionaires in Marks Every Year for 80 Years.

LOAN IS 5,000,000,000 MARKS

58 Per Cent. of the Five-Million 1,000-Mark Certificates Issued Can Draw Prizes.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Germany is offering to create ten new millionaires yearly for the next eighty years in order to raise money for the nation. That, in brief, is the astounding attraction offered in her new lottery loan, the most gigantic thing of its kind the world has ever seen. The loan is to be one of 5,000,000,000 marks.

Application lists are to be opened in the beginning of November, subscriptions being payable one-half in German 5 per cent. war loan and one-half in cash, and 5,000,000 certificates of 1,000 marks each will be issued. Eighty years is to be the period of the loan with yearly drawings, 3,000,000,000 marks being drawn for payment in the first forty years.

The first surprise comes on learning there is to be no interest, or at least nothing called by that name. There is, however, to be a bonus of 5 per cent. per annum, but this bonus, which is really interest, is not to be paid at stated periods, but is to be held by the Government until the certificates are drawn for payment, when the bonus will be paid out with the principal sum. Thus, a certificate drawn for payment at the end of the first year will be repaid with 60 marks as bonus. If drawn for payment at the end of five years, the bonus would amount to 250 marks.

Twice yearly there are to be lottery drawings at each of which there will be 2,500 prizes with a total prize money of 25,000,000 marks. The prizes vary in quantity and value, the maximum being five prizes of 1,000,000 marks each and the lowest 1,000 prizes of 1,000 marks each, all payable under discount of 10 per cent.

This is certainly something to be going on with, but there is still a two to one chance which offers tempting prizes. Drawings, as said already, take place yearly, (except the lottery drawings,) capital and accrued interest being then repaid, but every second certificate drawn for repayment receives in addition the very considerable bonus of 1,000 marks if drawn during the first thirty years, 2,000 marks if drawn during the ensuing ten years, 4,000 marks if drawn during the ensuing forty years.

Altogether, 58 per cent. of the certificates issued can receive prizes and bonus (apart from interest bonus), while the total prize money distributed during the eighty years' currency of the loan will be for lottery drawings 4,000,000,000 marks and for bonus on every second certificate drawn 5,875,000,000 marks.

When the issue is over, as said, subscribers can demand repayment from the Government and the amount will be repaid at the end of the year at its nominal value plus accrued interest, but under a discount of 30 per cent.

Up to 25,000 marks the loan is not subject to death or succession duties, while increases in capital arising from the operations of the loan and any difference between market and redemption values are not subject to special taxes affecting such changes. Profits arising from lottery drawings and profits arising from sale are not subject to income tax for the year during which the profits were made, or to capital tax.

which was written only a short time ago in Moscow, both Lenin and Trotzky being among those who sign it, is now being published in a dozen or more foreign languages for circulation among workers in all parts of the United States. It is also printed in English.

The witness also told of the discovery of arms and ammunition in some of the homes of the radicals. He cited the case of an Austrian who had an Austrian rifle, a pistol and more than 800 rounds of ammunition.

He also disclosed that evidence had been found of an effort to organize a Russian "Red" regiment in Gary some months ago, the purpose being to equip and drill the foreigners so they would be ready for "duty" when the call for action came.

The first information received at the department headquarters in Chicago regarding radical activities in Gary was given last Spring by Chief of Police Forbis of Gary. Forbis was much alarmed, and an investigation showed that there was good ground for his apprehensions. Among other statements made by Forbis was that a large quantity of gun-cotton was stored near Gary and that owing to an insufficient guard it would be comparatively easy for radicals who seek to accomplish their purpose by violence to get hold of it.

"Our activities," said Lieutenant Van Buren, "have been largely directed along the lines of investigation into the various 'Red' societies in Gary. Any one who speaks of the 'Red' movement, the Bolsheviki, the Communists, and so forth, begins his talk with what I call the 'Red Bible.' It is the work of the Communist International, held in Moscow, March of this year. Every Bolshevik knows more than this 'Red Bible,' this manifesto of the Communist International, than he does about anything else."

"Has that been printed in this country?" asked Senator Kenyon.

"Yes, Sir, in Chicago and in other places, too, and it is printed here in probably every foreign language. I have seen most of them, with the possible exception of Japanese and Chinese. This copy I have is an English translation. In investigating the various halls in Gary we found tons of this Bolshevist literature."

"This document, our investigation showed, is the heart and soul of the Bolshevist movement. It is the rule and guide of the conduct of all the Bolshevists in this country."

"Is it circulated through our mails?" Senator Kenyon asked.

"To some extent. The usual method, I understand, is to send these packages by express, and in that way they are not open to the censor," replied Lieut. Van Buren.

No Law Against Propaganda.

"Is there no law on our statute books by which men who circulate this kind of a book and teach that kind of doctrine can be arrested and punished?" asked Senator McKellar.

"I do not know of any specific law," said Lieut. Van Buren.

"If there is not, there had better be had there not?" Senator Kenyon remarked.

"I will read," added Lieut. Van Buren, "a few sentences from this book. On page 5 it reads:

"'But alongside the dethroned dynasties of the Romanoffs, Hohenzollerns and Hapsburgs, and the capitalistic cliques of these lands, the rulers of France, England, Italy and the United States stand revealed in the light of unfolding events and diplomatic exposures in their immeasurable vileness.'

"On page 17 I read you this:

"'This makes necessary the disarming of the bourgeoisie at the proper time, the arming of the laborers, and the formation of a communist army as the protector of the rule of the proletariat and the inviolability of the social structure. The Soviet army is inseparable from the Soviet state.'

Would Take Over Political Power.

"Then another section is headed, 'Governing Rules of the Communistic International.' Under the sub-heading, 'The Capture of Political Power,' I read:

"'The organized power of the bourgeoisie is in the civil state, with its capitalistic army under control of bourgeois-junker officers, its police and gendarmes, jailers and judges, its priests, Government officials, &c. Conquest of the political power means not merely a change in the personnel of ministries, but annihilation of the enemy's apparatus of government, disarmament of the bourgeoisie, of the counter-revolutionary officers, of the White Guard, arming of the proletariat, the Revolutionary soldiers, the Red Guard of workingmen; displacement of all bourgeois judges and organization of proletarian courts; elimination of control by reactionary government officials and substitution of new organs of management of the proletariat.'"

Lieutenant Van Buren estimated that there are now between 8,000 and 10,000 men on strike in Gary. The smaller mills, he said, are running under normal conditions and he estimated that the larger mills are operating at about 50 to 60 per cent. normal.

Lieutenant Van Buren said that the investigation at Gary had also disclosed the kind of library which is generally to be found in the possession of ignorant aliens. He gave a list of twenty-one radical publications, which appear to be most widely read by the foreign radical element. These twenty-one documents, &c., can be had in any language desired. One of the pamphlets is called "The Communist" and is published by the Soviet of Russian Workers of Philadelphia. It contains an article written by I. Bucharin, an assistant of Leon Trotzky at Moscow. Other radical literature in the list includes I. W. W. articles in various languages.

TROTZKY MOBILIZES ALL PETROGRAD MEN

REDS CLAIM SUCCESSES

Denikin Tells of Lenin's Plans to Move His Government from Moscow to Turkestan.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 24.—Leon Trotzky, Bolshevist Minister of War and Marine, is reported to have arrived at Petrograd to arrange for the defense of the city.

Every available man, including veterans seventy years old, is said to have been mobilized by the Bolsheviki.

The Petrograd theatres are closed and no one is permitted on the street after 8 o'clock at night.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A Bolshevist official report, received by wireless, asserts that the Red troops have recaptured Pavlovak and Tsarskoe Selo (seventeen and fifteen miles south of Petrograd) by a dashing attack.

Many prisoners were taken, the report says, and the advance continues.

The report further states that the Bolsheviki have recaptured Tobolsk, on the Siberian front, from the army of Admiral Kolchak.

It is reported from Helsingfors that all Russians in Finland able to bear arms have been mobilized in compliance with a request from General Yudenitch, the anti-Bolshevist northwestern army commander.

The Bolsheviki are considering the evacuation of Soviet Russia, according to reports reaching General Denikin, a wireless dispatch received today from his headquarters says.

The reported plan is for the removal of the Cabinet to Tashkend, after the abandonment of Moscow, and the withdrawal of the troops on all fronts to Turkestan.

Another wireless dispatch from General Denikin says that two Serbian divisions are proceeding through Odessa to support him.

One thousand prisoners were captured by anti-Bolshevist forces when the city of Kamyshin, in the Volga Valley north of Tsaritsyn was taken, according to another wireless message received here quoting an official statement issued from General Denikin's headquarters. Don Cossacks, the statement says, have occupied Pavlovskaya, a Cossack village in the Province of Kuban, capturing 500 men.

Kolchak Army Near Orenburg.

A summary of events on the Siberian front, dated at Omsk Oct. 12, and given out yesterday by the Siberian Agricultural Co-operative Union here, says:

"Successful flanking operations have been executed by the Kolchak armies. The right flank has passed Tobolsk and is driving the enemy toward Tumen, which is about seventy miles to the west. The Kolchak centre is advancing slowly, eighteen miles east of Yalutorovsk. The left wing of the Siberian forces has approached within thirty miles of Kustany. In the south the Russian forces have carried the fight three miles east of Orenburg.

"Ural Cossacks are driving the Reds before them and are engaged about seven miles from Uralsk. Loyal peasants are harassing the Red rear throughout Siberia, making it difficult to keep lines of communication open. In the Shadrinsk district the peasants have arisen and are conducting a guerrilla warfare on the Bolsheviki. In Turkestan, Kopland, Andizhan, Namanyan, and Golodnossepsk have been wrested from the Reds by armed peasants."

TROTZKY'S HAND SEEN IN EUROPEAN STRIKES

Amply Financed Agents in Germany, Italy, Spain, and Portugal Are Named.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The charge that Bolshevist agents foment strikes outside of Russia has often been made, but there has been little definite evidence to support it. Yet the Bolshevist leaders boast of sending emissaries abroad for this purpose, which forms part of their program of a worldwide proletariat dictatorship. In a statement quoted yesterday from the lips of Radek, former chief of the Bolshevist propaganda, this boast was frank and unconcealed.

I have now received from an unimpeachable source the names of the Bolshevist agents who have fomented strikes in Italy, Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, and Germany. These men are known, and it is reasonable to suppose that similar labor agitation in other countries is produced in a similar way, even though the great majority of laborers on strike are unaware of it. What is more, these agitators are always particularly active in cases where there is just cause for grievance. Public sympathy is thus likely to be on the side of the strikers and this makes the Bolsheviki's underground work very much easier.

When Radek was arrested in Berlin early this year his organization did not suspend its activities. His place was taken by a Russian named Brounski, formerly the head of the Bolshevist "Black Chamber," or secret service. Brounski entered Germany with a passport fraudulently obtained from a neutral power. Amply supplied with funds, he visited Hamburg, Lübeck, Leipsic, and Munich, and wherever he went strikes on a large scale speedily followed.

Moreover, there exists in Berlin, with headquarters at the Hotel Cosmos, an organization of twenty members under direction of a man named Sven, engaged in spreading Bolshevist propaganda and in issuing false passports for the use of Bolshevist agents, who thus pass through Europe with impunity. Last July this body received enormous sums and a mass of very important instructions directly from Trotsky. It is in close relations with a similar organization in Denmark which masquerades as an athletic club. In Switzerland the recent abortive attempt at a general strike was organized by a Russian named Djerchinski. In Italy the serious labor troubles which occurred, especially in the north last Spring, were due to the efforts of a man named Delafare, a former noncommissioned officer of the French mission to Russia, who, like his superior, Captain Sadoul, went over to the Bolsheviki body and soul. Delafare passed from Italy to Spain, and thence to Portugal. In both countries strikes of a grave character followed during the Summer. He, too, obtained his passport in the same way as Brounski and was afterward able to return to Russia undetected.

Regarding Bolshevist work in England I have no definite details yet, but the source from which my information comes has traced its action beyond question and hopes to furnish names soon.

BULGARIA FILES REPLY TO THE ALLIES' TERMS

Supreme Council Will Consider It Today—Rumania's Frontier Demands Rejected.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Bulgaria's reply to the peace terms of the allied and associated powers was handed to Secretary Dutasta of the Peace Conference this morning. The time limit for the presentation of the reply expired today.

The answer comprises three pamphlets, the first relating to the political and labor clauses, the second to the territorial provisions, and the third to the military, naval, aerial and reparations terms.

The Supreme Council is holding no session today. It will meet tomorrow, however, and take cognizance then of the reply.

Rumanian demands for a rectification of the frontiers fixed in the determination of the western borders of Rumania have been refused by the Supreme Council, according to information received from French sources. Rumania, through her Premier, J. J. C. Bratiano, asked that she receive both banks of the Moros River as far as Tisszia, that the cities of Bekes and Osaba be included within her frontiers, and that the boundary between Rumania and Hungary be moved westward to a line fourteen miles west of the railroad running between the cities of Arad and Temesvar.

In its reply the Supreme Council says that it cannot reconsider the clauses of the agreement, which have been communicated to all the allied powers and must be considered final.

Discussing the protection of ethnical minorities, the Supreme Council declared the powers were unanimous in maintaining the general principles which were the basis of peace, but stated that there was no intention to infringe upon the independence of Rumania. That country, the note said, was asked to submit herself to the statutes of the League of Nations, to which she had applied for admission.

Under the territorial settlement Rumania receives the Province of Transylvania, in southeastern Hungary, with an area of 120,000 square kilometers and rich in minerals. If she loses Rumanian residents in cities like Gyula, thirty miles directly north of Arad, or in the country districts accorded to Hungary, she receives cities like Arad, one of the two great railroad centres in Southern Hungary, and Oradiamare, the population of Arad and Oradiamare comprising numerous Hungarians.

On the other hand, Rumania will not retain full control of the Arad-Csaba Railroad, running north from Arad.

The council settled the vexed question of the disposition of the Banat by dividing it between Rumania and Serbia, the frontier being minutely defined in a note communicated to the two States and signed by Secretary Dutasta of the Peace Conference. According to this Serbia gets most of the rich agricultural plain adjoining Serbia on the north, with the towns of Nagy-Kikinda, Nagy-Becskerek, Versecz and Panciova, lying north and northwest of Belgrade. Together with this Serbia receives two-thirds of the waterways of the Banat.

Rumania gets the counties of Temes and Krasso-Szoreny, comprising the eastern half of the Banat, with the towns of Temesvar, Lagos, (famous for its mines and steel works,) Resehitza and Anina.

Foreign Minister Trumbitch of Serbia, who arrived in Paris yesterday from Belgrade, brought with him authorization from his Government to sign the Austrian Peace Treaty, says the Petit Parisien today. The signature, however, may be with reservations, the newspaper adds.

Serbia, like Rumania, failed to sign the Austrian treaty because of objections on the part of the Jugoslavs to the clause in the instrument dealing with racial minorities; but it has been reported in Belgrade advices from time to time that ultimately favorable action with regard to the treaty by the Jugoslav representatives was probable.

ATTACKS FRENCH'S STORY.

Official British Historian Says Commander Lost His Head.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—John William Fortescue, who is writing the official history of the war, has contributed to The Quarterly Review articles dealing with the controversy regarding Field Marshal Viscount French when he was in command of the forces in France.

"The fact, we fear, is," says Mr. Fortescue, "that on the 26th of September, 1914, Lord French and his staff have completely lost their heads, and that in a vain endeavor to conceal this he has taken leave of all sense of accuracy."

Further, referring to General French's treatment of General Sir Horace L. Smith-Dorrien, (commander of the Second Army in France,) Mr. Fortescue says:

"General French has descended to misstatements and misrepresentations of the clumsiest and most ludicrous kind in order to injure the reputation of a subordinate, who is forbidden to defend himself. * * * Coming from one in his high position, this brings shame and dishonor not only upon the Field Marshal himself, but upon the army."

NEW BODY TO TAKE COUNCIL'S WORK

Treaty Enforcement Commission Expected to Tide Over Transition Period.

MAY AID LEAGUE COUNCIL

Its Decisions Will Be Made Effective by Means of the Reparations Commissions.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The Allies appear not to be putting all their eggs into one basket, in planning the conduct of European affairs in the immediate future. One plan which everybody knows about is to make the Council of the League of Nations a sort of clearing house for international affairs. Another plan grows out of the new commission, to be composed of representatives of the five great allied powers, which is to take over the work of the Supreme Council when the Peace Conference adjourns.

This commission was quietly announced a week ago as a co-ordinating committee to which the various committees created by the Versailles Treaty would report from time to time. It has since the day before yesterday changed its name to "the Committee for the Enforcement of the Treaty of Versailles," and today it is learned that not only will this body have to do with the enforcement of the treaty with Germany, but will concern itself with the enforcement of all treaties made by the present Peace Conference.

The question naturally arises as to the relations of this commission to the Council of the League of Nations. The treaty very clearly puts upon the League of Nations the execution of part of the Versailles treaty. It also creates many committees without mentioning the League of Nations. It seems to be the opinion of the members of the Supreme Council that the Council of the League will receive reports from the League committees, while the enforcement commission will receive reports from other committees, or perhaps from all committees. It is the plan of its author that the Enforcement Commission shall have Americans on it; the Peace Conference will be kept in session until the Senate acts, and it is assumed without serious question here that sooner or later the Senate will ratify the Versailles treaty.

The creation of this commission seems due to uncertainty as to just what duties the Council of the League will assume. The idea is to make sure that there shall be some organization which can speak in the name of the Allies if the League does not function smoothly and quickly. Inquiries as to how long the Enforcement Commission will keep at work after the Peace Conference adjourns bring the reply that perhaps it will sit six months, perhaps a year, perhaps longer. If it turns out that the Council of the League can take upon itself the tasks of the Enforcement Commission within some months, those tasks will be turned over to it. If not, the commission will keep going until order has been restored in Europe. It has been created because England, France, and Italy want to take no chances of troubles arising without any one to attend to them in the transition period between the adjournment of the Peace Conference and the establishment of the League on a working basis.

It is not proposed that the new body shall undertake the making of the Turkish treaty. The Peace Conference expects to finish the Bulgarian and Hungarian treaties before adjournment. Turkish problems will be dealt with by another Peace Conference to be called next year.

The weapon by which the Enforcement Commission expects to make its decision effective is the Reparation Commissions, which will be in a position to bring pressure to bear upon the late enemies of the Allies.

NO STATE OF WAR IN FRANCE

Proclamation, However, Relates to Internal, Not Foreign, Relations.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Official publication this morning of the law declaring the state of war to be at an end fixes today as the date from which will run the time limits on moratoriums, excepting those which may be further prolonged by decree.

This publication ends the state of war only as far as concerns internal affairs of France. The nation remains in a state of war with Germany until the treaty of Versailles becomes effective through the deposit of ratifications at the Foreign Office.

LADY ASTOR INVITED TO CONTEST PLYMOUTH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Executive Committee of the Plymouth Unionist Association today resolved to invite Viscountess Astor to accept their nomination as Unionist coalition candidate. The Chairman of the party has been deputed to lay the proposal before her Ladyship, who is now in London. The party is advised that there is no legal obstacle to her election. Polling will take place in the middle of November.

Should Viscountess Astor accept the invitation, her election is regarded as practically assured. Since her husband's association with Plymouth, dating from 1910, she has quite won the heart of this West Country metropolis. Her activity in all branches of social reform is great and she has devoted much time and money to child welfare and maternity work in the town, establishing, among other things, warmly appreciated crèches and a children's country home.

A London dispatch on Tuesday, dealing with the question of the Parliamentary seat held by Major Waldorf Astor, which he is obliged to vacate owing to the death of his father, the late Viscount (William Waldorf) Astor, and his succession to the title, said that it was not impossible that Lady Astor would be a candidate for the seat.

Lady Astor was formerly Mrs. Nannie Langhorne Shaw of Virginia, widow of Robert Gould Shaw. She was married to Mr. Astor in London in 1906.

Should Lady Astor be a successful candidate, she will be the first woman elected to Parliament in England and the first woman ever to take her seat in the House of Commons.

HARBORD SEES POLK.

Will Soon Make a Formal Report on Turkey—Sailing Nov. 2.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The members of the Harbord mission to Turkey arrived in Paris this morning from Constantinople. All the members of the party were well, none having suffered any ill effects from the rather strenuous experiences of the mission in parts of the Ottoman Empire.

Major Gen. James G. Harbord, the chief of the mission, had a short conference with Frank L. Polk, head of the American delegation today, at which the Armenian situation was discussed.

General Harbord and all the other members of the mission are busy preparing a formal report, which will probably be submitted to the members of the American delegation in three of four days. Apparently there is rather sharp difference of opinion between the military and civilian members of the mission as to the advisability of an acceptance by the United States of a mandate for Asiatic Turkey. The officers are generally opposed to the acceptance of a mandate, but some of the civilian members favor it.

The report will embrace a general review of the military, financial, economic, social, and political situations and a discussion of the transportation facilities in the regions visited.

General Harbord refused to discuss his recommendations with newspaper correspondents, saying that the report must be made public through official channels, if the American delegation sees fit.

CHANGE RHINE COMMANDERS

Degoutte Succeeds Fayolle as Head of Interallied Forces.

MAYENCE, Oct. 24.—General Degoutte, who commanded the army, including American troops, which attacked from the Ourcq to the Marne in lead the great counterstroke of July, 1918, today took over command of the inter-allied troops of occupation on the Rhine.

He succeeds General Fayolle, who, it is understood, will be placed at the head of the interallied commission to supervise the disarmament of Germany.

BULGARS LOOTED XANTHI.

Occupation by Allies of Thracian Town Reveals Wholesale Pillaging.

SALONIKI, Oct. 24.—A dispatch from Xanthi, in Western Trace, which was occupied by Allied troops this week, states that the town, formerly a rich centre on account of the tobacco trade, was found in a deplorable state on account of pillaging by Bulgarians.

During the twenty days preceding the evacuation by the Bulgarians, according to the dispatch, several carloads of furniture taken from Greek houses were shipped northward into Bulgaria daily, the shippers having certificates showing that the furniture was Bulgarian property.

LORD MILNER DEFENDS THE BRITISH MINISTRY

Colonial Secretary, in House of Lords, Deprecates "Panicky Views" on Finance.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Opposition to any change in the fiscal policies of Great Britain and a plea for careful consideration of the situation before the country were expressed in the House of Lords today by Viscount Milner, Secretary of State for the Colonies, who replied to criticism of the Government by Lord Buckmaster, who had introduced a resolution calling attention to the "gravity of the financial position," and suggesting the necessity for the imposition of additional taxes.

"I deprecate panicky views which are prevalent regarding the country's financial position," said Viscount Milner, whose statements were considered as the Government view of the situation. "The position, though grave, is far less serious than that in any other great country, with the possible exception of the United States and Japan. It certainly does not justify any rash changes in the fiscal system, and no proof has been given that additional taxation is necessary. Nothing should be done until after deliberate and careful study. Irreparable mischief might be done to the recovery of trade and industry by recourse to such an expedient as a general capital levy, which has been proposed by Lord Buckmaster."

Viscount Milner warmly defended the Government against charges of neglect to care for the financial status of the country.

"There have been a number of adverse circumstances, such as the delay in arranging the terms of peace, troubles in Afghanistan and Egypt, and unsettled conditions in the Near East, which have prevented the curtailing of expenditures," he said. "Our position is regrettable but it is not catastrophic, and the proper way is to regard this year's deficit as a part of the war burden.

"It is quite certain we shall receive several hundred millions next year from the liquidation of war assets and the debits of our Dominions may be regarded as good debts. The amounts recoverable from foreign countries and Germany are certainly speculative, but it would be preposterous to suppose that foreign countries are going to default in their obligations. Such an assumption would be an insult to our great allies."

BERNSTORFF IS CAUTIOUS.

Gives War Testimony with Great Care as Bethmann Listens to It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The reactionary press, apprehending danger to the cause of the monarchy from the investigation by the National Commission, answers the grave evidence given at yesterday's and today's sessions by quoting President Wilson's alleged statement before the Senate that sooner or later the United States would have joined the war against Germany even if there had been no declaration of an unrestricted U-boat war.

"What was the use of all these negotiations concerning peace mediation," exclaim such papers as the Deutsche Zeitung, "when all that time the American mediator was certain that he would join the war anyway?" This alleged statement by Wilson was referred to repeatedly during today's session by Herr Warmuth and other reactionary members and experts, and it was decided to produce the original English report before the committee. Dr. Zinsheimer, who is conducting the examination of witnesses, told THE TIMES correspondent he believed that he could prove to the committee that just because President Wilson saw the impossibility of avoiding being drawn into war, so clearly he was anxious to cut short the war by peace negotiations before the time arrived when America could no longer be kept out.

Bethmann Hollweg, Helfferich, and Zimmermann again occupied reserved seats and, evidently feeling that the evidence was going very much against them, made hasty and copious notes. At one time, when Count von Bernstorff was asked questions that he could not answer from personal knowledge because they pertained to occurrences in Berlin while he was in America, Bethmann Hollweg indicated audibly that he himself would answer those questions when placed in the witness chair. This seemed to double the caution of Bernstorff, who sometimes considered more than a minute, and often consulted papers before he answered questions.

There was great wrangling over the question why definite German peace conditions were never named to President Wilson. Bernstorff's answers did clear up this matter, but there remains the apparent fact that without such positive knowledge the President was ready to mediate.

But all this time, it is asserted, while Bernstorff and Wilson were trying to prepare mediation the German Government was hastening its preparations for unrestricted U-boat war, and in order to gain more time telegraphed to Bernstorff to answer Colonel House, who wished private information concerning the German conditions, "in a dilatory manner," which led Bernstorff to believe that Berlin still wished Wilson's mediation, though it was not "ready to name conditions."

Bernstorff was shocked when, after the revolution, he was permitted to examine papers in the Foreign Office and found among them the telegram from Kaiser Wilhelm, dated Jan. 16, 1917, to Zimmermann, stating that "Wilson's offer was of no consequence whatever."

Asked about the conditions on which Wilson might have urged peace, Bernstorff said "the President would never have asked Germany to accept a peace at the cost of honor and territory."

FOUND GUILTY OF ANARCHY.

Two Finns First to be Convicted Here on Criminal Charge.

Gust Alonen and Carl Piavio were convicted of criminal anarchy early this morning in the Supreme Court. The jury retired at 9:50 o'clock last night and reached a verdict shortly after midnight. The men had been on trial since Oct. 6.

The charges of criminal anarchy were based on articles alleged to have been written or offered for publication by the defendants advocating overthrow of government. Captain Swinburne Hale, their attorney, asserted that Alonen and Piavio, who lived at 864 Cauldwell Avenue, the Bronx, were carpenters and not writers. Testimony was offered by the defense showing that the publication complained of, "The Activity of the Rioting Masses," was merely a reprint in a Finnish language paper from the magazine "Lukkatajsteiu." The defense also submitted testimony in support of an alibi for Alonen, who, it was contended, had been in Philadelphia at the time of the publication of the article.

Alonen had testified that Detectives Cornelius E. J. Brown and Charles Newman beat him when they arrested him and took him to Police Headquarters to force him to make a statement. Brown yesterday swore that he had not "touched the man."

This is the first prosecution in this State on the charge of criminal anarchy. It was brought under the statute enacted in 1902, following the assassination of President McKinley.

EX-CROWN PRINCE PLOTS TO BE KING

HE HAS THE STRONGEST ONE

THE HAGUE, Oct. 24.—There is no doubt that the constant comings and goings of important personages between Germany, Amerongen and Wieringen recently portend an extraordinary renewed activity and optimism of the German Monarchist party, or rather parties, as it is now more correct to state.

From especially well-informed sources I learn there are now four parties, one for the former Crown Prince's eldest son, one for Eitel Fritz or August Wilhelm, one for Prince Henry of Prussia; but the most powerful and best organized party is working hard for the former Crown Prince, although the latter financially is in a difficult position, having no funds.

There are also unofficial groups who still cling to the idea of having the former Kaiser back.

The former Crown Prince and his party are determined to bring about a democratic, constitutional monarchy as quickly as possible, but peaceably. To attain this purpose great hopes are placed in the next Reichstag elections, which are expected to take place next Spring, and if the parties of the Right can then obtain a majority, a monarchy will be proclaimed. It is intended to carry on an energetic, open election campaign throughout Germany, which will be flooded with propaganda in support of the ex-Crown Prince and the monarchy, with photographs of the ex-Crown Prince, proclaiming him as the most calumniated man in Germany, and at the same time explaining his ideas of a democratic monarchy, of mistakes in the past régime and his intention of abolishing all the old reactionary machinery.

The ex-Crown Prince will also proclaim that he will never associate himself with any movement for putting himself forcibly on the throne, but would only accept the throne at the peaceably expressed desire of a majority of the German people.

Military preparations are, however, in readiness, but are likely to play a part only should the majority be opposed by a violent small minority.

The ex-Crown Prince has had serious money difficulties in Holland and has been living on the ex-Kaiser up to the present, who keeps him very "tight." There have been rumors that the ex-Crown Prince has been obliged to sell fur coats in Amsterdam. The estrangement existing between the ex-Kaiser and son Wilhelm has increased and become a gulf during the exile, and the ex-Crown Prince has only received four letters in all from his father, although the former Empress despatches a long weekly letter to the Island of Wieringen. I learn that negotiations are now going on for a settlement of financial questions.

Whether Wieringen will be the ex-Crown Prince's abode until the moment is ripe for his return to the fatherland remains a mystery. During the last few weeks important news has apparently obliged him to change his mind frequently and developments are awaited. In any case he is not intending to leave the island for the time being, although he has looked at houses in the neighborhood of Amerongen, and had definite plans for departure from Holland when peace is ratified. It is possible that his life on the lonely island as a comparative martyr is hoped to serve as an antidote to his former reputation for levity and good living. I learn that he has also been writing quite a serious book on a military subject, and that the book will be published shortly in Germany, although the time is kept very secret.

To some one in his vicinity the ex-Crown Prince recently expressed his political views thus: "I have been thinking since I came to Wieringen about the wonderful achievement of politically ripe English people who succeeded, hunting men, like John Burns and Sir Edward Grey. This is why we should not debar people from positions for which they show ability."

The ex-Crown Prince has also expressed a desire to bring back the old simplicity of court life.

One of the greatest difficulties the ex-Crown Prince's party has to contend with is the influence of the Centre party, which hates the Prince. My informant tells me that a small but powerful group in England, headed by eminent statesmen, is in favor of a German monarchy.

AMERONGEN, Oct. 22, (Associated Press.)—The birthday of the former German Empress Auguste Victoria was celebrated quietly at Bentinck Castle today. The chief guest for the occasion was ex-Prince August William, fourth son of the ex-Emperor and Empress, who came for a visit of a few days to his parents.

LENOIR PUT TO DEATH; CARRIED BY GUARDS

Third Man to Pay the Penalty for Dealing with Germans to Weaken France.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Pierre Lenoir, convicted on a charge of having held intelligence with the enemy, was executed at Santé Prison at 7 o'clock this morning.

Lenoir, who had been ill for some time, suffering from paralysis of both legs, had to be carried to the place of execution. His attorney, M. Molene, asked early today that the prisoner be examined mentally and physically.

The officials, however, decided to proceed with the execution regardless of the protest.

Lenoir was able to sign the register of the prison, but was unable to take a step. The guards carried him out, his attorney crying: "It is a shame to carry a man in this way to his execution."

Pierre Lenoir was the third person to be executed on charges arising out of attempts made by German agents to conduct a "defeatist" campaign in France in 1915 and 1916. The others who met death as a result of revelations made against them were Bolo Pacha, executed on April 17, 1918, and M. Duval, who faced the firing squad on July 17, 1918.

BATHROOM PEACE COUNCIL.

Wilson and Handy Discussed Germany's Last Note Most Informally.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 25.—The story of President Wilson's reception of the last German note before the signing of the Peace Treaty was told recently by Sir George Riddell, says The News of The World.

Sir Maurice Handy, he said, took the note to Mr. Wilson at 5 o'clock in the morning. The President got out of bed and invited Sir Maurice into his bedroom. Then the President said: "This is too cold; let us go into the bathroom—it is warmer."

This they did and sat side by side on the edge of the bath, discussing subjects of world-wide importance.

ITALY STRUGGLES WITH HUGE DEBT

NITTI ENFORCES ECONOMY

Military Attaches of High Rank Abroad First to Suffer Under Policy of Retrenchment.

ROME, Oct. 23.—One of the most difficult problems which now confront Signor Nitti and his Ministers is the payment of interest on the national debt, which is daily being discussed by the Cabinet, in the hopes of finding a way of raising the needed money. If five years ago any one had told the Italians that at the conclusion of hostilities their national debt would amount to $20,000,000,000 they would have thought the person had clean gone off his head. In 1913 Italy had, after many years of hard work and taxation, just succeeded in reaching that degree of prosperity which enabled her to spend money with a little freedom. Before then, if a bridge or road or public building had to be constructed, it was a serious proposition, to be studied with great care. The Ministers hesitated to spend so much money, deliberated for months where a new building was indispensable, and finally brought the project before Parliament to be decided by a vote.

If Americans take these precedents into account, they can form an idea of what a colossal sum $20,000,000,000 seems in the eyes of Italians, and what preoccupations it is causing in all authoritative circles, which are determined to stand by their obligations.

During the early part of 1918, when peace was far from every one's mind, and war had come to seem a habit, several well-known Senators and Deputies were discussing measures which ought to be taken for post-war commerce, agriculture and industry. One celebrated Senator exclaimed: "Well, all I can say is, I hope some one will be at the head of affairs who won't be staggered at our national debt, imposing petty, useless economies benefiting no one, but will spend large sums of money in reconstructing our devastated provinces, turning our war industries into industries for peace work—in fact, doing everything possible to set the country in a state to resume its normal activities. It would be the quickest way of bringing in money for paying our debts. This, however, cannot be brought about by economizing."

What the Senator had feared is perhaps coming to pass. Nitti has given strict injunctions that all Ministries must economize as much as possible in their expenses. The Premier has ordered that all Generals should be recalled who are abroad as Military Attachés to be replaced by capable officers of lower rank, who receive less pay. He has also suppressed all Assistant Military Attachés.

The Epoca, commenting, says:

"The struggle against sinecures is just and dutiful, but one must not forget the reverse of the medal, viz., those branches of the service which ought to be intensified, reorganized, and augmented, especially abroad. Italy cannot possibly face the struggle in the international worldwide field with insufficient and inadequate organization."

WILSON TO DECIDE ON RESERVATIONS

shall reserve the right to decide what questions affect its honor or vital interests and declares that no such question can in any way be submitted to arbitration, under the League or otherwise. Its adoption would "seriously impair the treaty," Senator Hitchcock said today.

Text of the Reed Reservation.

"The United States reserves to itself exclusively the right to decide what questions affect its honor or its vital interests and declares that such questions are not under this treaty to be submitted in any way either to arbitration or to the consideration of the Council or the Assembly of the League of Nations or any agency thereof, or to the decision or recommendation of any other Power."

Senator Spencer of Missouri, one of the so-called "mild reservationists," who is said to support the revised proposals of the Foreign Relations Committee, said that this reservation had a "good American ring," but expressed some doubt as to whether it had been offered in a constructive spirit.

The effect of this reservation, should it be accepted by a majority of the Senate, would be to win the "irreconcilables" over to voting for the treaty, according to some Senators. They would be able to do this and still be consistent, it was pointed out, because the Reed amendment would take from jurisdiction of the League any question which the United States regarded of vital interest and would virtually kill the treaty.

A vote has been expected on the Johnson and Moses amendments to equalize the voting strength in the League, but an extended speech by Senator Gronna of North Dakota and shorter ones by Senators Shields of Tennessee and Hale of Maine prevented action. A vote is expected tomorrow.

Considerable speculation resulted from a poll made up by a prominent Democratic Senator who is known to be hostile to the League of Nations. His estimate of the situation showed that thirty-nine Senators would vote to reject the treaty, assuming that the reservations now proposed should be accepted and that President Wilson should ask rejection of the treaty in preference to accepting them. This would mean the defeat of the treaty, leaving only fifty-five Senators to vote for ratification, nine short of the required two-thirds.

This Senator's poll includes loyal Administration Senators, who he believes would follow the President in this course, and so-called "irreconcilables" who may be expected to vote against the treaty in any event. He made it clear that the poll was based partly on conversations with Senators, and partly on his own judgment of how certain men would vote.

One of the bitterest attacks on the treaty and League of Nations was made in a prepared speech by Senator Gronna today.

He described the League as an "unholy alliance" and said that acceptance of the Shantung provision would make the United States "a party to robbery and theft."

Senator Shields followed with a discussion of the Johnson amendment, which he declared he would support. He said that if Great Britain's dominions and colonies had a vote in the League there was no reason why "sovereign States of the United States" should not have the same right. The King of England exercised absolute power over all foreign relations of the empire, Mr. Shields said.

PARIS CALLS SENATE RESERVATIONS SELFISH

General Agreement That Allies Can't Accept Curb on Reparation Commission.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The one big subject of conversation in all circles of the Peace Conference today is the reservation program adopted by the United States Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. The general tenor of comment among French, British, and Italian delegates is that the reservations exhibit a spirit of selfishness on the part of the United States. But, coming down to the practical considerations, the allied statesmen say that, while some of the reservations are of such a nature that the Allies could accept them, others are absolutely impossible of acceptance.

The one proposed reservation which is attacked by British, French, and Italians, and by American delegates as well, is that which is understood here to mean that the United States will recognize the authority of the Reparation Commission in questions concerning German commerce only with the express consent of Congress. They say that the Allies cannot accept this reservation, because it would mean not only tying up the enforcement of the peace terms with the disposition of the American Congress, but it would mean involving the welfare of all nations in American domestic politics.

It is upon the Reparation Commission that the Allies depend most largely to enforce the treaty. They are counting upon having this commission bring economic pressure to bear upon Germany if she fails to live up to the treaty. To bring economic pressure to bear would be to act with relation to German commerce. Now, it is held to be obvious that in imposing economic restrictions upon German commerce the United States would have to be included in taking action, else there would be endless complications, especially when one bears in mind the doctrine of the freedom of the seas. It is argued here that to accept this reservation would be to annul the power of the Allies to enforce the treaty through the Reparation Commission, in that they would never be free to act until Congress gave its approval.

Those familiar with American politics point out that acceptance of this reservation would maintain for years to come a German question as a factor in American politics. They say that every time the Reparation Commission proposed to regulate German commerce in such a manner as to persuade Germany to live up to the treaty there would be, under this reservation, bitter pro-German and anti-German fights in Washington. The enforcement of the treaty would then become, it is held, an ever-present question of American domestic politics. Allied statesmen seem quite agreed that this reservation cannot be agreed to.

There is no heated objection to the reservation permitting the United States to withdraw from the League of Nations, for, as a matter of fact, if America wanted to do that there would be no one to hinder her.

As for Article X. of the League covenant not binding the United States except by consent of Congress, there would be a possibility of that being accepted if it stood by itself.

The reservation by which the United States preserves the right to decline mandates is regarded as unnecessary, because it is held that if America was unwilling to take a mandate no one could make her do so.

There is no kindly disposition shown toward the reservation entitling the United States to decide what matters concerning it fall within the League's jurisdiction, the only comment being that if every member of the League reserved the same privilege the League would not amount to much. There is no expression of opinion regarding the Monroe Doctrine reservation.

No object is seen in the reservation that the United States shall not help support the League unless Congress appropriates money for that purpose.

The reservation with regard to armaments is regarded as contrary to the spirit back of the League of Nations.

The reservation permitting nationals of the United States to maintain relations with the nationals of a country scorning the League is regarded as being in the same class as the reservation relating to the Reparation Commission—that is, it is regarded as impossible.

Those reservations which construe the attitude of the United States toward the interpretation of the treaty have a chance of acceptance by the Allies. Those which affect the rights of the Allies in enforcing the treaty and holding Germany to her agreements have no chance at all.

PITTSBURGH LABOR TO ENTER POLITICS

WOULD OUST COUNCILMEN

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24.—The Central Committee of the Transportation Brotherhoods, a body created to cooperate with the Steel Strike Committee, announced today the formation of a political party among the employes of the Pennsylvania railroads to be known as the United Railway Employes Political and Legislative Organization of Pennsylvania. The objects of the organization are to secure proper recognition for labor in public office, and to advance the interests of its members "as well as promote the general welfare of the public."

The announcement further says that "through Congressional and legislative bodies is the peaceable way to settle all controversies between capital and labor, employers and employes," and that the railway workers "indorse and pledge our loyal support to the Plumb plan for operating railroads." It adds that "this organization shall co-operate with the Pennsylvanian Federation of Labor in effecting a labor party in Pennsylvania that the aims and objects of this organization may be obtained."

By resolution the Chairman, S. R. Tarner, was directed to co-operate with the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, using all powers of the organization to have the Councilmen of Pittsburgh, alleged to be responsible for denial of the petition made by representatives of 150,000 organized workers of Pittsburgh and vicinity for public investigation of alleged official misconduct and unfairness in connection with the steel strike driven from all public office. Similar directions were given in relation to other public officials charged with being responsible for the alleged denial of the rights of free speech and public assemblage, and for denying regularly constituted labor unions the right of holding secret meetings without the presence of Constabulary and Deputy Sheriffs.

The Brotherhood's committee also adopted a resolution requesting that the protective funds of the international organization be used to support the railroad men while on strike.

One month ago a sermon was preached at St. Brendan's Roman Catholic Church at Braddock by Father Molyneux, in which he called upon his congregation not to heed the strike agitators and to remain true to America and to their employers. The sermon kept a great many men at work, despite the efforts of the organizers to get them out, and today the following letter was received by the priest from Governor William C. Sproul:

My Dear Father Molyneux:

Through the generosity of some unknown friend I have received a booklet containing a copy of the sermon preached by you on Sept. 21 last, and I wish to compliment you for the very good judgment expressed therein, and for your more than generous contribution to our efforts to maintain order and enforce laws.

I heartily agree with your analysis of the present situation. The danger comes not from the English-speaking workmen, but from the foreigners of the community, who have neither sympathy for our policies nor interest in our institutions. Tradition means nothing to them, and lawlessness and disorder are "music to their ears" and a realization of their fanciful dreams.

I wish that there were more clergymen in our commonwealth who not only thought but expressed their thoughts as you do. I wish to thank you sincerely for your efforts of the past and have the courage to express the hope that they will be continued in the future. Very respectfully yours, WILLIAM C. SPROUL.

There was very little change in the strike situation today. The Carnegie Steel Company officials asserted that more men were back in all their mills, and that very soon operations would be normal.

Doctors in Spain Threaten to Strike.

MADRID, Oct. 24.—Failure of the municipality of Xeres to pay the municipal doctors their salaries may precipitate a strike by all the doctors in the province of Seville. The doctors have decided to strike on Nov. 1 unless the overdue salaries of the Xeres physicians are forthcoming before that date.

COURT ASSAILS A. B. LEACH.

Arthur B. Leach of the banking firm of A. B. Leach & Co. was criticised yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court which ruled that Charles T. Brown was entitled to one-third of the profits of an oil land transaction with Richmond Levering & Co. The total profits are estimated at $12,000,000 in negotiable stock.

Justice Page, writing the opinion, said he believed that Mr. Leach did not act with good faith toward Brown as a partner in the enterprise, but that for the purpose of excluding him from participation in the profits which the report of an engineer made "reasonably certain" he ostensibly withdrew from the enterprise knowing that the plaintiff could do nothing without him and that Levering & Co. could not arrange with others to finance it.

SEES NO FALL IN INSURANCE.

Actuary Says New Mortality Table Will Not Reduce Premiums.

At the closing sesion of the Actuarial Society of America in the Hotel Astor yesterday E. E. Cammack expressed the opinion that the adoption of the new mortality table for the calculation of premiums would not result in any lower premium rate. There had been in the past a considerable feeling among the public, Mr. Cammack's paper explained, that if a new mortality were constructed on recent experience it would prove a lower mortality than the standard American experience table and would consequently result in lower premium rates.

Such a table has been constructed by the Actuarial Society, co-operating with the other organizations, from the experiences of all important old-line companies in the United States and Canada, and does show the expected lower mortality, the paper explained. The other result, a lower cost of insurance to the public, does not follow, Mr. Cammack explained, for the reason that the policyholders were already getting the benefit in the cost of their insurance from the savings in the mortality, either in dividends in the participating companies or in lower rates in the non-dividend companies. In other words, Mr. Cammack said that the companies were giving insurance as cheaply as they could anyway.

Mr. Cammack mentioned the fact that the new table does not cover the influenza period with its terrific mortality and which would have shown considerably higher mortality if it had.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO SUPPLANT SWANN

MYSTIFIED AS TO "CRIME"

Urges That Nature of Matter Referred To be Revealed and Promises Consideration.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 24.—Governor Smith, in a letter sent today to Raymond F. Almirall, foreman of the Extraordinary Grand Jury in New York, refused to supersede District Attorney Edward Swann in the investigation of charges that arose from the strike of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company employes.

"The only power I have is that given to me by Section 62 of the Executive Law," the Governor wrote, "to require the Attorney General to attend in person or by one of his deputies any term of the Supreme Court or appear before the Grand Jury thereof for the purpose of managing and conducting in such court or before such jury such criminal actions or proceedings as shall be specified in such requirements. This provision gives me no power to say whether the Attorney General shall appear in person, or what deputy, if he chooses to send a deputy, shall be designated to perform the duties required by virtue of the exercise of this power.

"Should I exercise the power given me by this law, the effect, of course, would be to supersede the District Attorney. This power has seldom been exercised by the Governor and usually only in extreme cases. In my judgment it should be exercised with extreme caution, and only when the Governor is satisfied beyond question that the interests of the public demand such exercise and when the Governor is satisfied beyond question that the District Attorney is either disqualified or is willfully neglecting to perform his duty, or is guilty of corrupt or illegal conduct.

"Holding these views I deemed it my duty to, and I did submit to Judge Swann, the District Attorney of New York County, the letter containing your request and your accusations against him and his office, with the request to him to answer the same. I am enclosing you herewith a copy of his letter to me. The letter, in a great measure, speaks for itself, but I wish particularly to call your attention to the latter part of the letter, wherein Judge Swann states that he is unable to determine what is meant in your communication by the words that 'a crime which completely overshadows that charged by the Mayor may escape detection'; and to if you or your jury will indicate either to him or to myself what 'crime' you refer to in your communication, every available resource of his office will be at your disposal to obtain and present the evidence thereof beforo either of the Grand Juries sitting in the County of New York, which may be designated by the court to hear the same.

"The only way open to me to comply with your request would be to supersede, in the manner above mentioned, the elected District Attorney of New York County by the Attorney General. This, however, is seldom done and only on extreme occasions, and I do not deem this to be such an occasion."

Sobel to Pay $10,000 Alimony.

Leon Sobel, well to do realty owner, who is alleged to have an income of $90,000 from apartment houses and other real estate and $10,000 from securities, agreed in the Supreme Court yesterday to pay $10,000 a year alimony to Mrs. Adelaide Sobel in a suit for divorce. The couple were married in 1888 and have five children. Mrs. Sobel alleges that her husband has treated her cruelly since 1903 and recently tried to put her out of his house.

ETTINGER FILES APPEAL.

Protests Against Board of Education's Policy in School Investigation

City Supt. Ettinger has appealed to State Commissioner of Education Finley against the action of the Board of Education at its meeting on Wednesday last, ordering him to withdraw a letter he had sent on Oct. 21 to the Associate and District Superintendents and directors of departments, asking them to submit to him any correspondence they might receive from Tristram W. Metcalfe, the director of the investigation that is being made into the affairs of the Education Department.

Mr. Ettinger's appeal calls in question the validity of the board's action, and states that its order to Dr. Ettinger interferes with the authority and powers of the City Superintendent. It asks for a stay of proceedings. It contends that the board is without authority to interfere with him in such matters, and that the order is without legal effect.

President Frall of the Board of Education said yesterday that he would await the action of the State Commissioner before he spoke. The board will submit the case to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion.

KING ALBERT BACK; SEES THE EAST SIDE

TO VISIT COLUMBIA TODAY

Ruler Will Receive Degree and May See a Football Game—Gala Concert at Night.

The King and Queen of the Belgians returned to New York yesterday after a three weeks' tour of the country and will remain until Monday, when they will go to Washington to be received by representatives of the American Government. Their stay here will be devoted almost entirely to sightseeing, and when they return from the capital next week they will be ready to board an American transport for the return voyage to Belgium.

Although hundreds of thousands of citizens had seen the King and Queen on their short visit here three weeks ago, throngs were around the Pennsylvania Station when the train of eight cars arrived from the West, completing a tour of more than 8,500 miles. The train was late and did not reach the station until 3:25 o'clock, but the wait increased rather than diminished the crowds. The royal party was cheered as the automobiles sped to the Waldorf, where the King and Queen will occupy the suite on the third floor which was reserved for them on their previous visit.

The royal party had hardly reached the Waldorf before the King and Queen were starting off again on tours of the city. Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by the wife of the Belgian Ambassador, started on a visit to the Bronx Zoological Park. A few minutes later the King climbed into a big touring car, and, taking the wheel himself, drove through the East Side.

After he had driven south as far as the Bowery, the King turned his car north and drove to the Bronx park where he met the Queen and her party. Then the two parties drove through Mount Vernon and other towns in Westchester. On returning to the city the King visited studios in Sixty-seventh Street.

Sightseeing Plans Tentative.

Officials of the State Department who are arranging the King's tour of the city said last night that the plans for sightseeing were only tentative and that many places might be visited without previous notice. Both the King and Queen like to wander about with few companions and without attracting attention and on one of his trips yesterday the King, although dressed in the uniform of a Lieutenant General in the Belgian Army, had only one American Secret Service man with him.

It was said last night by members of the King's party that this afternoon's program would include a visit to Columbia University, where he is to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. This ceremony probably will take place about 4 o'clock. The King also may attend the football game between Columbia and Amherst.

Prince Leopold will leave early this morning for West Point, where he will review the Cadet Corps and attend the war games this afternoon. He will return here in the evening.

The King and Queen and their party are to attend a gala concert at the Metropolitan Opera House this evening given by a committee of women headed by Mrs. Cornelius Vandrebilt. The money is to be used in establishing an institute of medical research in Brussels. Although it was the early intention to restrict the seat sale to those who had been invited, it was decided yesterday to make seats available to the general public. The Committee on Arrangements said it was desired that every ticket holder be seated by 8:30 o'clock and that no one leave the Opera House as long as the royal party remained. Announcement also was made that all the artists on the program had offered their services without charge.

Tomorrow the King will attend mass at 8 o'clock at the Belgian Church of St. Albert, in West Forty-seventh Street, and has planned a trip to the Roosevelt grave at Sagamore Hill. He will return to the hotel for luncheon, and at 3 P. M. he will receive the Belgian Financial Mission. Later he will hold a short reception for officers of the Commission for the Relief of the Belgians.

The Queen will attend mass at 10 o'clock and then leave for the home of Mrs. Henry P. Davison at Glen Cove, L. I., where she will meet a delegation of Red Cross workers. She will return to the Waldorf about 7 o'clock in the evening.

The King has expressed a desire to have Major Gen. William H. Johnston of the 91st Division, and Major Gen. Charles S. Farnsworth of the 37th meet him in Washington. These two American divisions fought on Belgian soil.

After attending a dinner of the Iron and Steel Institute at the Commodore, King Albert went to the "Midnight Frolic" and remained throughout the performance. At 1:30 this morning he returned to the Waldorf.

DISCUSS LIBERTY TRADITION

British Delegates and Some Americans Talk Over Social Questions.

The first two sessions of the conference on "The Anglo-American Tradition of Liberty" were held yesterday afternoon and evening in the Hotel McAlpin, the subjects of discussion being political and civil liberty and their international aspects. J. A. Hobson, an Englishman, emphasized the right of men and women to disagree with the prevailing opinion of a country, and held that when this right is challenged there is no liberty.

Senator Joseph Irwin France of Maryland will speak at the session this afternoon. Others who will talk on "What We Are Aiming At" are Richard and Roberts, B. N. Langdon-Davies and Judah L. Magnes. In the morning P. W. Pethick-Lawrence, H. Austin Simons, Gilbert Cannan, Zechariah Chaffee, Jr., and Sidney Hillman will speak on "Freedom of Thought and Conscience," and "Freedom of Expression and Discussion."

The conference will be closed with a dinner tonight at the Hotel Commodore, at which the British delegation will be the guests of the American delegates.

AT WORK ON PLAN TO GET MORE SUGAR

Food Administrator Sees Need to Protect Men Who Had Bought for Export.

HOPES TO ARRANGE PRICE

Continues Search for Big Supply and Explains Sale by Bush Company.

Convinced that enough sugar which was bought for export and has never been sent away is lying in the warehouses in this city, Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams announced yesterday that he was working with members of the United States Sugar Equalization Board on a plan which will materially relieve the famine in a few days.

His plan is to amend the regulations governing the sale of sugar here so as to allow a dealer who bought it for export, but who is unable to find a market in Europe, to sell his commodity in this city for a small increase over what he paid.

"The Government does not control the price of export sugar and a number of such men have bought with the idea of selling in Europe. They have in many cases as I know paid far more for it than can be charged at either wholesale or retail in New York.

"Our idea, therefore, is to amend our rules so that such bona fide dealers may place this sugar on the market at a price commensurate with what they paid for it. They will have to show what it cost them at the refinery, who has handled it and at what cost, and the basis of profit they themselves are demanding. If they comply with these regulations I see no reason why the city should not benefit from export sugar."

Mr. Williams said last night he had as yet found no trace of the "Roderick Huyler" who offered, through Aber and Dempsey, brokers, some 10,000,000 pounds of sugar at 18¾ cents a pound. He thinks, however, he has found the trail of the 2,000,000 pounds of sugar that one Leo W. Hammel offered him last Tuesday.

Here is the story:

Hearing that the Bush Terminal Company at 100 Broad Street had been contracting to sell sugar at a higher price than that fixed by the Equalization Board, the Food Administrator at once got into touch with the President of the concern, Irving T. Bush. Mr. Bush investigated and then wrote Mr. Williams stating that the sales referred to had been made by F. E. Middleton, in charge of the company's foreign department, who was discharged on account of it. In his letter, Mr. Bush declared that the company's profit was to have been less than 7 per cent. His letter read in part:

"The sugar seems to be one of the mythical lots which your office has been looking for, and we have as yet not been able to locate it. If it comes into our possession, we will turn it over to the purchasers at the price established by the Food Administration, and assume any loss which may be involved.

"This is the first purchase or sale of sugar which has ever been made by anyone representing this company and I am exceedingly distressed that any of our employes should have, without authority, done anything contrary to the regulations established by your office."

This whole transaction bears out the necessity for lending a hand to sugar men who have bought the sugar for export at a high price, and who want to sell it here when their credits abroad fall down," said Mr. Williams. "The Bush people thought they were conferring a favor on the city by putting the sugar out here. They could not afford to sell it at the regulated price, inasmuch as that would have been less than they gave for it. I hope we can get the situation straightened in a few days."

SAYS SUGAR COSTS 25 CENTS

Letter to Governor Accuses Dealers Here of Profiteering.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 24.—In Governor Smith's mail today was a scrawled note which at once enlisted the Governor's sympathy. It was a protest abainst the prices charged for sugar and came from some one apparently in Madison Street, New York City. It elicited from the Governor the exclamation: "That's pretty tough." The note read:

Kindly pay your attention to the people who have grocery stores. The poor people who have little babies, we need sugar, but can't get it for money. The people who own grocery stores charge 25 cents a pound for sugar. In Rivington Street there is man by the name of Marcus who charges 18 cents a pound of brown sugar. Granavetter in Madison and Scammel charges 18 and 20 cents a pound of brown sugar. Julius of Scammel near Madison in a basement charges people who need sugar for babies that use bottles 25 cents. Kindly send out people to find out and try to make the prices lower. By so doing you will oblige,

The People of Madison Street.

Governor Smith sent the letter to Food Administrator Arthur Williams with this note: "I am enclosing a letter signed by residents of Madison Street. While nothing in it indicates the sender, it nevertheless contains the names and addresses of people who seem to be profiteering in sugar. Will you have it looked up?"

NAVY TO RELEASE SUGAR.

Will Sell 3,000,000 Pounds to Its Employes and Hospitals.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Navy Department will sell 3,000,000 pounds of sugar to hospitals and navy employes throughout the country to assist in relieving the sugar shortage, Secretary Daniels announced tonight.

Any hospital can obtain the sugar from navy canteens or by ordering from the Navy Department direct. A limit of two pounds a week is placed on the orders of individuals entitled to buy sugar from navy stores.

INTERNED ALIENS TO GO.

Palmer Discloses Purpose to Deport Majority of Them.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Plans of the Government to deport a majority of the enemy aliens still in custody, with their dependents, were disclosed today in a letter written by Attorney General Palmer to Chairman Colt of the Senate Immigration Committee, urging early action on the House bill empowering the Secretary of Labor to repatriate enemy aliens and aliens convicted of violation of certain specified statutes.

"Three hundred alien enemies, approximately, are now interned in the custody of the War Department at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and Fort Douglas, Utah," Mr. Palmer wrote. "While a few of these men may perhaps be released upon the ratification of the treaty of peace, the records concerning a majority of those now interned indicate that they should be repatriated with their dependents to their native countries."

Where does the wind begin? What keeps the stars up?

If You Are Wise

Your child's mind is like a fertile field. It must be ploughed, it must be enriched, if the seed of knowledge which is planted is to bring forth a hundred-fold. If you send your child to school without having first prepared his mind at home, you can not expect him to progress easily and rapidly. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is a new factor in the home and school which counts tremendously in making the children of today the 100% citizens of tomorrow. If you are wise you will not delay in equipping your home with THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE.

Where do thoughts come from? What makes a watch go?

Curiosity—The Great Teacher

CURIOSITY is the beginning of all knowledge. Do you know any subject about which your child has not asked you a dozen questions? Let him ask as many as he likes, and be sure to answer them correctly. That is the parent's most important and most easily neglected duty. If you discourage your child's curiosity you will injure his mind, and the bright boy or girl becomes stupid or indifferent. Through curiosity Columbus discovered America. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the simplest and most natural method of helping the child to educate himself. IT ANSWERS EVERY QUESTION A CHILD CAN ASK IN PLAIN AND SIMPLE LANGUAGE. So captivating is this great original work to the mind of a child that he absorbs with little effort the profound truths and great facts of the world of knowledge, while reading its delightful pages and looking at the thousands of striking educational pictures.

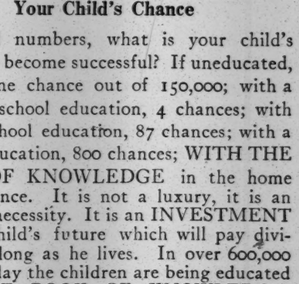
THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE contains the important and essential knowledge of the world in plain and simple language, and illustrated with over 10,000 fascinating educational pictures. This splendid original work was made for the children of the whole world in five different languages. It is so organized and arranged that the child who is fortunate enough to possess it will have a mind stored with valuable information which he can make use of, not a jumble of facts which have failed to make proper connections. IS YOUR CHILD STILL WAITING FOR THE GREATEST EDUCATIONAL HELP OF THE CENTURY?



Why does a stick float? Why do we go to sleep?

Your Child is Unique

Your child is like no other child in the world. He has his own peculiar taste and need for both physical and mental food. If you put a meal before him and let him choose what agrees with him best, he will thrive. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the right kind of nourishing food for the child's mind during the growing years. Give your child this remarkable, original work, and watch carefully which of the 16 Great Departments interests him most, Nature, Science, History, Biography, Astronomy, Physiology, Art, Literature, Poetry, or Manual Training. It will prove THE KEY to his natural bent, and the kind of work or profession in which he will most easily succeed.

Your Child's Chance

In round numbers, what is your child's chance to become successful? If uneducated, he has one chance out of 150,000; with a common school education, 4 chances; with a high school education, 87 chances; with a college education, 800 chances; WITH THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in the home every chance. It is not a luxury, it is an absolute necessity. It is an INVESTMENT in your child's future which will pay dividends as long as he lives. In over 600,000 homes today the children are being educated with THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. Give your child his chance to compete with them.

M'CARVER DENIES LIQUOR GRAFT STORY

Says He Did Not Accept Money Himself or Charge Any One with Bribery.

CHORUS GIRLS WITNESSES

Minton Says Graft Will Exceed $50,000—Brewers Will Stop Delivery Monday.

Charles Pinckney McCarver, a special agent of the Department of Justice, who was indicted with four others on a charge of conspiring to permit a number of well-known cafés to sell whisky and other liquors without interference, denied yesterday that he had made any disclosures incriminating himself.

"I never at any time took from any person any money, property, or anything of value in consideration for violating my duty in connection with the enforcement of wartime prohibition," he said in a statement to District Attorney Swann.

"I never at any time said that I knew of large sums of money, or of any sums of money whatever being paid to anybody for the refusal to enforce wartime prohibition. I did talk, and most freely, and answered every question that Chief Flynn or Mr. Minton asked me, but I never at any time suggested to them or either of them that anybody in the District Attorney's office had asked me not to do my duty in regard to this law."

McCarver said that he had telephoned to the District Attorney because he had read a statement attributed to him implicating a member of the staff of District Attorney Swann as the owner of a café protected by the alleged conspiracy of Government agents and café keepers.

John M. Minton, Jr., special United States District Attorney, who told on Thursday of the alleged disclosures of McCarver, said that he had interviewed a number of lawyers representing restaurant, café and saloon keepers implicated in the alleged whisky graft, but that no developments had taken place. He said that the Assistant District Attorney, mentioned by him on Thursday, had telephoned to him, making an emphatic denial that he had sought to influence any Government official to violate the law.

Graft More Than $50,000.

Mr. Minton was asked how much the graft would amount to. He would not make an estimate, but said that $50,000 would be a low figure. Mr. Minton will begin placing witnesses before the Grand Jury on Monday. Besides a number of restaurant and saloon men, alleged to have contributed to a fund for protection, the witnesses will include chorus girls, who are asserted to have aided the special agents to spend the money. One man, who will be called to testify, is said to be a close friend of the accused Federal agents. This man is said to have placed $30,000 in the bank in the last week and will be asked to explain where the money came from.

More indictments and arrests are probable in a short time in connection with the sale of Federal protection to saloons and cafés, according to the investigators. It is asserted that one member of the conspiracy visited distillers in different sections of the country with offers to deliver Government protection in return for large bribes and to aid them in finding a market for whisky in immune resorts.

Another phase of the investigation, it was said, would be the following up of evidence that Federal agents, commissioned to suppress the drug traffic, had spared illicit dealers who paid tribute to them.

Chief William J. Flynn of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, who directed the investigation which led to the entrapping of men in his own office, said yesterday that it was the first time in his career that he had been forced to "clean house" in such a fashion. He said that during the years he spent at the head of the Secret Service there had never been a scandal of this kind.

The National Civil Service Reform League took occasion yesterday to point to the necessity for having a carefully sifted personnel for the enforcement of Federal liquor laws and to attack the bill now before the President as dispensing with Civil Service.

Brewers Stop Deliveries Monday.

Brewers sent out word yesterday that Monday would be the last day for the delivery of 2.75 per cent. beer, if the Volstead Prohibition Enforcement bill goes into effect, as it will do, unless the President vetoes it. Either his signature or failure to act upon it will make it the law of the land. Brewers will deliver so-called "beer" on and after Monday containing less than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol.

Newark brewers yesterday notified their customers that after today no more 2.75 per cent. beer would be sold to them until the Volstead enforcing wartime prohibition is tested in the courts. Letters were sent to the saloon keepers yesterday advising them of the attitude of the brewers and suggesting that no beer be sold till the test case is brought.

The brewers expressed confidence that the courts would hold the Volstead law unconstitutional, as contended by counsel for the brewers.

WIFE SUES DANIEL G. REID.

Financier Accused of Misconduct in Divorce Countersuit.

Daniel G. Reid, financier, who filed a suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Margaret C. Reid, several months ago on the ground that she went to California for the Summer with a Serbian army officer, was sued yesterday by his wife for a divorce. She alleges that since March 27, 1919, when the couple signed a separation agreement, her husband has been guilty of misconduct with various women who are known to her.

The papers were served on Mr. Reid at his home, 907 Fifth Avenue, by Frank H. Morell, Jr., clerk for the law firm of Blandy, Mooney & Shipman. Edmund L. Mooney, counsel for Mrs. Reid, stated that she returned recently from the West and is now living in New York. He said that the purpose of her suit is to vindicate her name of the charges made in her husband's suit in case he does not promptly press the case for trial.

STOLE $62,000 FROM ARMY.

Ex-Officer Sentenced to Serve Six Years in Federal Penitentiary.

Eric E. Verrill, 26 years old, a former Lieutenant in the Quartermaster's Corps, U. S. A., was sentenced yesterday to serve six years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta for having stolen and cashed army pay checks to the amount of $62,000. Verrill pleaded guilty and sought clemency by saying that a man who knew that he had formerly served a term in prison had blackmailed him.

It developed, however, that Verrill had used $46,000 of the stolen money in investments, purchasing automobiles, in buying old stamps, of which he was a collector, and that $13,000 had been lost in gambling. A large part of the rest of the stolen money was spent in expensive living at Atlantic City, where he was arrested by Agent Peter A. Rubano. Judge Hand carefully investigated the case in order to assure himself that Verrill was mentally competent.

If Verrill's prison record is good he can be paroled in two years. He goes to prison with $300 which he had when arrested, and which the court directed should be returned to him.

PALMER WOULD END PRICE-WAGE CHASE

FAVORS FAIR PRICE BOARDS

They Will Be Formed Throughout the Country, He Says—Massachusetts Cities to Help.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Appointment by the Mayor of each Massachusetts city of a Fair Price Committee to co-operate with the State Commission on Necessaries was decided upon at a Cost of Living Conference at the State House today after A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney-General of the United States, had made a vigorous address. The conference, called by Governor Coolidge, was attended by many Mayors and District Attorneys, members ofthe State Commission on Necessaries, the State Attorney-General, the Federal Marshal, and the Federal District Attorney.

In his address, Attorney-General Palmer demanded the ending of the "vicious circle of higher wages and higher prices," urged increased production, declaring that "idleness is a sin in this emergency," and said that the Department of Justice was making every effort to punish profiteering.

Mr. Palmer said this policy was to be worked out through fair price committees in every city and county in the country.

"The people," said Mr. Palmer, "find themselves chasing about in a every side of the economic fence to and higher wages chasing higher prices for everything, so we have got to the time when we must stop the operation of this vicious circle, when we must ask the patriotic people of America on every side of the economic fence to halt in their desires to better their own conditions selfishly and to look out for the interests of the whole, to hold the line steady until the natural economic forces begin to operate, production begins to increase, and the demands of the public may be met at reasonable prices.

"That time will come when our four millions of men who wore the khaki in their country's defense get back into the great army of industry in America. Americans can produce more in mill and factory, upon the farm and in the warehouses, than any people on earth, and when production begins to boom we can supply America and supply the necessities of other parts of the world.

"Everybody recognizes that the one great thing which will bring back normal conditions to America is a normal production. We may get back to it in the near future.

"The worldwide conditions, the economic causes, these things which are the aftermath of the war, we cannot adequately reach in any campaign by the Government against the high cost of living, but there are men everywhere in all lines of trade, in the wholesale business and in the retail business, who take advantage of these natural causes and natural conditions to add on profits for themselves unconscionably, unreasonably, and unjustly, and seem able to do it because their patrons understand that conditions are bad and assume that 'everybody is doing it.'

"Thank God, everybody is not doing it; ninety-nine out of a hundred in the retail business and in the wholesale business are taking only a fair profit, all conditions considered. It is as much to their interests as it is to the interests of the general public that the ninety-nine men shall see to it that the one man who goes wrong shall be compelled to go straight.

"We have asked the Congress to strengthen the Food Control act by doing two things to it: First, to include in the necessaries of life to be controlled, as defined by the act, wearing apparel; and, second, to fix a penalty for the straight-out profiteering in all the necessaries of life.

"Some will say that is very difficult of inforcement. My answer is that we propose to ask the people in the business to inforce it themselves, so as to avoid the public scorn which will come to them as a class if they do not drive out every man who charges an unjust and unreasonable profit.

"We have also taken advantage of the provisions of the Food Control act which punish hoarding. Already this has had a very material effect by way of reduction of prices in many commodities."

Fatally Stricken in Jury Box.

Edward Berry, 65 years old, of 2,907 Heath Avenue, the Bronx, was taken suddenly ill and collapsed in the jury box in a case before County Judge Louis D. Gibbs in the Bronx yesterday, five minutes after he had been sworn in to take the place of another juror who had reported ill. Berry was taken to Fordham Hospital by Dr. Merkin suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain, and died a few minutes after his arrival at the hospital. The trial was that of Milton Traum, charged with burglary in the third degree.

Fined $1 for Delaying Hylan.

Mayor Hylan was late in reaching his home in Brooklyn from the City Hall on Thursday because Louis Higgleman was driving a brewery truck across the Williamsburg Bridge and the Mayor in his automobile could not pass. A policeman served a summons and Magistrate Short fined Higgleman $1 in the Williamsburg Court yesterday.

DISCUSS SALARY INCREASE.

Teachers Want Instructors of Lower Grades to Receive $2,400.

A mass meeting of teachers, under the auspices of the Teachers' Interests Organization, was held yesterday in Public School 27 to discuss the salary question. Charles W. Rozelle presided. Miss Agnes Craig, counsel for the organization, explained the increase that teachers in the different grades will receive under the new law. She said that she and Auditor Cook of the Board of Education had differed as to how the increment in the salaries should be paid. At Mr. Cook's suggestion a committee was appointed to draw up a friendly question which would be submitted to the authorities at Albany.

The meeting favored an increase of the salaries of kindergarten to 6B teachers to $2,400. Miss Harriet E. Porritt said that if there had been union among the teachers at Albany a more equitable salary bill would have been passed. The meeting voted that the salary of the City Superintendent should be increased so that Superintendents in other cities should not receive higher pay than Dr. Ettinger.

ROBBERS KILL BANKER.

Cashier and Assailant Also Shot In Raid on Pennsylvania Bank.

BEAVER FALLS, Penn., Oct. 24.—Vincent Sakraida, a director of the State Deposit Bank, was instantly killed and his brother, John Sakraida, the cashier, was seriously wounded when robbers attacked the bank here this afternoon.

Four men drove up to the bank in an autpmobile and three entered. They ordered the Sakraida brothers to throw up their hands. Vincent Sakraida reached for a revolver and was shot dead. His brother opened fire, wounding one of the robbers almost at the instant he was shot in the side.

The robbers, assisting their wounded companion, retreated to the automobile and drove toward the Ohio border. They are being pursued by country officers and citizens.

Embargo on Arms for Border.

EL PASO, Oct. 24.—An embargo on the sale and shipment of arms and ammunition on the border was put into effect today by the Southern Department of the United States Army, according to orders received by El Paso district authorities.

HYLAN AND CRAIG RENEW BOARD ROW

MEMBERS DIVIDE SUPPORT

Craig Refuses to Consent to Hearing on Budget Until Public Is in Attendance.

Mayor Hylan and Controller Charles L. Craig, who quarreled bitterly during the last budget hearing, had another wordy battle during the Board of Estimate meeting yesterday. The encounter started over a question of authority for certain actions on the part of Secretary Joseph Haag of the board and lasted until several other members of the board had been drawn into it, some with the Mayor and others with his opponent.

Trouble first began when a communication from the Municipal Civil Service Commission was read informing the board that the State Civil Service Board had granted the reclassification applied to the exempt class for two positions under the Board of Estimate. These two positions, Secretary and stenographer to the Court House Committee of the board, were formerly under the Court House Board, the Board of Estimate having taken over the court house work.

"I would like to know," inquired the Controller, "by what authority and by whose direction, the Secretary made this application. I contend he had no authority to take this step. The charter expressly provides that the Secretary to the Board of Estimate can take no actions on matters of this kind without first being authorized to do so by this board. To my knowledge that authorization was never given."

"I don't think that is necessary," said Mayor Hylan.

"Well, it is necessary," replied the Controller. "Furthermore, these two items have been included in the 1920 budget without my knowledge and sanction. The Finance and Budget Committee didn't authorize the inclusion of these positions in the budget, and yet I find them in there."

President Maurice B. Connolly of Queens then entered the discussion on the side of the Mayor by pointing out that Secretary Haag had been Secretary of the board for many years under both Republican and Democratic administrations.

"If the Controller has any charges to make why doesn't he do it?" added the Mayor.

"I haven't any charges preferred," declared the Controller, "but I am not going to hesitate a minute to call the attention of the members of the board or of the public to any illegal acts."

"Make your charges now, Controller. Make them now," said Mayor Hylan.

"I don't need any suggestions from you, Mr. Mayor," answered the Controller.

"When you can run your office, the Chamberlain's office and all other offices of the city government you will be happy," said the Mayor.

The item on the calendar, being for the information of the members, was slated to be filed and the Mayor made such a motion. Controller Craig demanded a roll call on which Presidents Boyle of Manhattan, Connelly and Van Name voted with the Mayor and Presidents Riegelmann of Brooklyn and Bruckner of the Bronx with the Controller.

The Mayor said the motion had been carried and the Controller declared it had been lost. The latter, however, did not press his point.

Just before adjournment Mayor Hylan announced that he had the heads of his departments present to present statements to the board as to how they could reduce their request for appropriations and he asked that they be heard.

"The budget hearing has been put off till Monday, and the public so informed," said the Controller. "I move that the hearing of the Commissioners be put off until that day."

Mayor Hylan protested, arguing that it would only take each Commissioner a few moments to present his case, but when Controller Craig insisted that he personally meant to inquire into each item mentioned the Mayor acquiesced in adjournment. The hearing on the budget of the Board of Education comes up Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

SURGEONS RECEIVE 400 AS FELLOWS

American College Concludes Its Clinical Congress with Reception of Candidates.

BRITISH GUESTS HONORED

Distinguished Service Medals Presented to Sir Anthony Bowlby and Sir Robert Jones.

The American College of Surgeons concluded its clinical congress with a convocation at the Waldorf last night, at which 400 American surgeons were received in fellowship, honorary fellowships were conferred upon distinguished foreign surgeons, and, by direction of the President of the United States, the Distinguished Service Medal was pinned upon the breasts of Major Gens. Sir Anthony Bowlby and Sir Robert Jones of the British Army Medical Service.

The 2,000 surgeons present from all parts of the United States and Canada heard with profound attention a comprehensive review of the surgical lessons of the war, compiled by Sir Anthony, and the Presidential address of Dr. William J. Mayo, who devoted himself to a discussion of primary educational reform in its relation to university education.

The delegates were all in red-faced gowns and red-tasseled caps when Dr. Franklin H. Martin presented the 400 candidates who were received into fellowship. Fifty of the candidates came from the army and fifty from the navy. The rest are in civil practice.

Amid the hearty applause of the delegates and the visitors who crowded the boxes, Major General Ireland then pinned the distinguished service medals upon Sir Anthony and Sir Robert after reading a letter from Secretary of War Baker in which the Secretary regretted that the President's illness made it impossible for him to confer them in person.

Sir Anthony Bowlby: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services to the United States. An eminent consulting surgeon, and while serving with the British Expeditionary Forces in France with untiring zeal he devoted his time and energy toward co-operating with and unreservedly placing at the disposal of the American Expeditionary Forces his eminent talents, broad experience and knowledge of general conditions in preventing wastage among our forces from wounds and disease. His research work in wound bacteriology and evacuation resulted in the saving of many lives among our sick and wounded.

Sir Robert Jones: For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services to the United States. An eminent orthopedic surgeon and chief of the division of orthopedic surgery in the British Army service, he placed at the disposal of the medical service of the American Expeditionary Forces his eminent talents and broad experience in standardizing methods of treatment of the sick and wounded, and took an active personal interest in class instruction of American medical officers in this very important branch of surgery.

In delivering the fellowship address Sir Anthony, who enjoyed perhaps the most comprehensive and extended view of the wartime lessons of that art than any other individual, said that the whole standard of wounded treatment had been raised so that today no surgeon would say, "You cannot expect to treat war wounded the same as you would those hurt in civil life." These improved methods he said, paid the army and the country. He dwelt upon the greater prevalence of shock among war wounded who already are ofttimes suffering from various kinds of exhaustion and said in discussing the advance made in overcoming this condition that Doctors Crile and Cannon were among the American surgeons who had done excellent work in studying its physiology. He talked at length upon the improvements in first aid treatment and transport, expressing the hope that these might be applied extensively in peace times, particularly in treating those injured in remote places. In this respect he said it was particularly important that surgeons learn and apply generally the apparatus developed during the war.

Newark Woman Tells of Talking to Boy Who Said He Was "Billy Pittsburgh."

WAS CRYING FOR "MAMA"

Interviewer Did Not Know of Kidnapping — Baby and Woman Companion Disappeared.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, Ohio, Oct. 24.—Billy Dansey, the three-year-old boy who was kidnapped by an unknown woman from his home in Hammonton, N. J., fourteen days ago, was in this city Oct. 15. This statement is verified by Mrs. Mary Ellsworth Fuller, prominent in charity work in this city.

Mrs. Fuller states that on Wednesday morning, Oct. 15, while at the Baltimore & Ohio Station in this city, a woman alighted from the train from the east accompanied by a boy who appeared to be about three years old. The child was crying because the woman had slapped and in other ways used forcible means to quiet him. Meanwhile the little fellow was calling for his mother.

Mrs. Fuller inquired what was the matter. The woman answered that the child was sick and that she was taking him to his mother, but did not say where. Then Mrs. Fuller asked the child what his name was. He replied "Billy Pittsburgh" and that he was "Mama's boy." The woman then asked for a dry goods store, to which they went, and the woman purchased underclothes and clothing for the child. Later the pair disappeared.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 24.—The parents of little "Billy" Dansey, the two-year-old child who was kidnapped on Oct. 8, tonight wait in hourly expectation of hearing of the arrest of the kidnappers and of his recovery by the police.

Gradually the police searchers for the child are closing about the woman who, new discoveries indicate, has the child in her possession, according to Prosecutor E. C. Gaskill.

PROPAGANDA IN PALESTINE.

American Delegation Reports German and Turkish Agents Active.

Members of a delegation sent to Palestine for educational and relief work by the Anglo-American Society reported by cable yesterday to the society's headquarters here that they had reached Jerusalem. According to the message the high cost of living has reached its zenith there. Hotels charge a minimum of $100 a week and travelers heat their rooms as best they can, as coal is unobtainable and the Turks burned everything wooden in sight.

William D. McCracken, head of the delegation, reported that Palestine was infested with Turkish and German agents engaged in organized propaganda against the British authorities. Mr. McCracken said these agents made special efforts to reach American tourists and spread fictitious reports of uprisings in Egypt and alleged imperialistic aims of Great Britain.

FEDERAL BUDGET REFORM.

The same newspapers that reported the passage in the House of the bill to reform the Federal budget by a vote of 283 to 3 reported a horrible example of the necessity of it in a deficiency bill of $42,000,000. The bill started in the House, as the law requires, but the Senate added $28,000,000, or twice as much as the House proposed, and for items which no competent budget-maker would overlook. For example, there is nothing to take anybody by surprise in the item of $17,000,000 for the completion of the Alaskan railroad. If the amount ought to be allowed, the House ought to have known of it. In like manner there is no condemnation of $15,000,000 for the army aviation service in saying that it ought to have found a place in the regular appropriations rather than in a deficiency bill, although the urgency of the item needs no emphasis.

Another amendment calling for approval in substance, though not in form, was an addition to the House's provision of $200,000 for enforcement of the laws against trusts. The Senate altered this "so as to make it "available for use in prosecutions "against labor organizations or "against producers of farm products "who organize for the purpose of "obtaining and maintaining unreasonable prices for their products." It might seem as if nobody could object to that, and yet a similar proposal has failed even in the current session. The House dropped the provision that anti-trust funds should not be used in prosecuting labor or farm organizations, and, in the words of the American Federationist, "the day "following the labor group had the "clause restored." It is quite the usual thing now to pass exceptions with laws, and it is becoming a habit to enact each year that funds provided for prosecutions under general laws shall not be used against favored classes.

Even general approval of the idea that the laws should be enforced impartially cannot cloak the obnoxious practice of enacting legislation in the form of riders, or additions to appropriation bills. No budget committee could be induced to propose such legislation, and no budget reform will be complete which does not take away the power to amend budgets, for the power to add a good amendment is also the power to make obnoxious amendments. There is a fair promise that budget bills will have a better start hereafter, but the need remains to protect the process clear up to the final signature. Deficiency bills for scores of millions, and containing new legislation only doubtfully germane, are scandalous, irrespective of the substance of the proposals.

STRANGE CAMPAIGN ARGUMENTS.

The war that changed so many things leaves the Staats-Zeitung unchanged. Everything and everybody must be regarded not from an American but from a German point of view. Justice NEWBURGER must not be re-elected. His qualifications, his service, his ability, experience, and integrity are not considered. Mr. BAINBRIDGE COLBY is his political manager. And who is he? He has been guilty of admiring Colonel ROOSEVELT earnestly. He is a "political nomad." He left Colonel ROOSEVELT to become Kriegs-Hilfs-Manager for Mr. WILSON. He has said unkind things about German-Americans. "Americans of German descent," says the Staats-Zeitung ironically, "will need only to hear "that BAINBRIDGE COLBY is the man-"ager of the NEWBURGER campaign to "rush head over heels to the polls to "vote for NEWBURGER."

And worse remains behind. JAMES W. GERARD is financial manager for the candidate to be tabooed by "German-Americans." Mr. GERARD, who insisted on being the American Ambassador to Germany and not a German Ambassador in Germany, is of course beyond forgiveness. Aside from his Americanism in Germany, he wrote a book in which "he threw mud "at everything that is German or even "sounds German." Consequently, "every American citizen of German "origin will hasten to the financial "aid of JIMMY GERARD and his candi-"dates."

If the Staats-Zeitung were published in Berlin, if the election were in Berlin, a more thoroughly and absolutely German opinion could not be uttered. A candidate must be voted down by citizens of German origin if some of his managers and friends were not true to Germany in the war. How many embittered and incorrigible Germans of the Staats-Zeitung type are there in the First Judicial District? Mighty few, probably.

JAMES MONROE'S HOUSE.

The house at the corner of Prince and Lafayette Streets where JAMES MONROE passed his last years and died will be sold at public auction on Nov. 12. This house, 63 Prince Street, was built by SAMUEL L. GOUVERNEUR, President MONROE'S son-in-law. Mr. MONROE died in it July 4, 1831. Fourteen years ago the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Scenic and Historic Society set on the wall of this house a tablet briefly summarizing the great posts held, the great deeds done by JAMES MONROE.

Of all the illustrious achievements of that soldier, diplomatist, statesman, the Monroe Doctrine is the imperishable memorial. The house where this man, whose name is known to every American citizen and all over the world as the proclaimer of a cardinal doctrine of American policy, should be preserved for the veneration of future ages. Had Mr. MONROE been a Frenchman the house where he died would have been made a national monument. Cannot our patriotic and historical societies, even in the short time that remains before the auction, raise by their own means and by public appeal and subscription the sum necessary to preserve the Monroe house, to save New York and the United States from the shame of allowing the destruction of this relic and remembrancer of a great American and a vital American policy? It should be saved. It should continue to stand among business buildings, a historical and patriotic monument too precious and too sacred to lose.

THE ALLIANCE AND THE LEAGUE.

Professor PHILIP MARSHALL BROWN of Princeton should perhaps not be regarded as an opponent of the League of Nations, since he says that there seems to be no alternative to its adoption; but this somewhat grudging acceptance, combined with considerable criticism and insistence on extensive reservations, would seem to put him in the position of unbenevolent neutrality. The more interest, therefore, attaches to his vigorous support of the proposed Anglo-French alliance. Those who favor the alliance and oppose the League seem to be few in number, but include that part of the bloc opposed to the League which is actuated by the most respectable motives—by the genuine fear, however mistaken, that we are endangering our own interests, moral and material, by meddling in something that is no affair of ours. "Ideal-"ism must be tempered with com-"mon sense"; "we must not meddle "with the domestic politics of Europe"—those phrases have been much misused, but there are men to whom they represent an honest reaction to what is seen as a real danger.

Professor BROWN, one of these men, says that the League's obligations are "vague and open to speculation," but that the obligations of the alliance are very definite. He would make the terms of the alliance still more inclusive; he would provide that "in the "event of any controversy threaten-"ing the peace of the world, we "would be willing to concert meas-"ures with England and France to "avert such a danger." The language of this might seem "vague and open to speculation" to pessimistic persons, but Professor BROWN does not seem to anticipate any divergence of opinion among British, French, and American statesmen as to what controversies may threaten the peace of the world, and what measures should be concerted to avert the danger. "We share each other's "joys, each other's burdens bear; "and often for each other flows the "sympathizing tear." There will be a unanimity of right opinion, unparalleled in the previous history of international relations, but easily attainable now.

The alliance, further, "would have "the distinct merit of not embroiling "us in the European set of interests "and European quarrels." In its present form, being merely a defensive alliance against an unprovoked attack on France by Germany, it would involve us in only one particular European quarrel, to be sure; and that is the sort of quarrel in which the great majority of those Americans who did not want the Germans to win the recent war feel that we ought to be involved. But Professor BROWN would expand it to allow France, England, and America to take joint action whenever any controversy threatened the peace of the world. This would surely involve us in European quarrels as much as the League. When the Austrians sent their ultimatum to Serbia in July, 1914, not many of them intended to disturb the peace of the entire world if they could help it, and still fewer would have admitted such a purpose. From the revelations of VON TIRPITZ, the Austrian Red Book, and other evidence made public recently it appears that not many Germans, even, deliberately intended a war for world conquest at that time. What they intended was a cheaply glorious conquest of Serbia, combined with a diplomatic humiliation of Russia, and they felt so sure of their ability to whip the world that they were willing to try it rather than be turned aside. Here is an excellent example of a European quarrel arising out of a European set of interests which ultimately involved the whole world. Professor BROWN can hardly expect his alliance to wait until some ambitious Power formally announces that it is going to conquer the earth.

Finally, the League is absolutely dominated, he holds, by America, France, England, Italy, and Japan. It is an alliance of five, not the alliance of three, which he would prefer. But surely the peace of the world may be better preserved by an alliance of the five strongest Powers than by an alliance of only three of them, which issues its own orders without attempting to get the other two in line. Moreover, the League contains some twenty-odd smaller States, who seem to feel that it will give them sufficient advantages to compensate for the preponderance of the five great Powers. This confidence, it is not too much to say, is based on the provisions for orderly and definite procedure laid down in the League covenant. The smaller States might or might not support a benevolent Anglo-American-French despotism, and they would be the less likely to do so since its functionings in any conflict of interest would have to depend on brilliant improvisations instead of rules fully known beforehand.

Professor BROWN properly says that we should still be the friend of Europe, but as a matter of method he prefers the smaller alliance. The League will do everything that his narrower alliance will do, and more besides; he seems to want the substance of the League, but he doesn't want to call it the League. And as a matter of fact we ought to have them both—the alliance as a temporary reinforcement, probably unnecessary, but contributing to the same end. It would be interesting to learn how many of the enemies of the League share Professor BROWN'S enthusiasm for the alliance; it has lain neglected on the Senatorial doorstep for a distressingly long time.

THE LEGION IS AMERICAN.

Few features of the steel strike have been more disquieting than the fact that a parade of strikers at Gary was led by a group of former soldiers in uniform. It was uncomfortably reminiscent of the great strike in Winnipeg last June, in which 2,000 former soldiers marched in behalf of the strikers, while the British flag was attacked and patriotic buttons were torn off the coats of officials.

Like the Winnipeg strike, the steel strike was fomented among foreign-speaking aliens and by means calculated to inflame cupidity and class tyranny. At Winnipeg, it is true, the agitators had especially favorable material to work with. In Canada a clear distinction exists between the majority of patriots who volunteered and the minority of slackers who held back until they were conscripted. The slackers were well known to the inciters of revolution and were easily assembled.

As to American conditions General WOOD brings important evidence. At Gary he summoned a number of the men in uniform and questioned them. They said that they had joined the parade in an effort to restrain violence. Many of them belonged to the unions, but they also belonged to the American Legion. In Omaha General WOOD had a similar experience. Members of the Legion "gave a splendid "demonstration of the fact that their "service in the war had enhanced "their sense of responsibility." In the Winnipeg strike the same truth received a dramatic demonstration. At first the Great War Veterans' Association stood neutral, restrained by the fact that their sympathies as to the strike were divided and by the obvious inexpediency of engaging as a body in a cause of public policy. But when the revolutionary purpose of the strike became manifest, and was brought home to them in the fact that the supply of milk for their children was cut off and the whole community threatened with starvation, they mustered a parade of 4,000 in uniform. The known character of the paraders and the disciplined precision of their marching, contrasting as it did with the appearance of the slackers, so impressed the community that the strike came to a speedy end.

Nothing could be more unfortunate than that any organization of soldiers should take sides in a political cause or in any legitimate and orderly economic conflict. But as a fountain-head of disciplined patriotism the veterans of the Great War are an invaluable asset and may well prove a decisive factor in these troublous times. It was a fine thing our Canadian cousins did when they mustered their strength at the crisis and turned the scale by force of their numbers and their soldierly bearing. It was possibly a finer thing when members of the American Legion marched with the strikers, impartial as to the issue of the strike, but pledged to the cause of law and order.

THE GRAND ALLIANCE.

Only a few obstacles will have to be surmounted before achieving the grand alliance by which 4,000,000 voters already federated in the labor unions are to be reinforced by 4,000,000 voters in "one big union" of farmers. When these obstacles are "negotiated," as sporting writers say in describing a race over hurdles, no grouping of employers and public will have power to block the millennium.

The obstacles in this race for power have the advantage of being open and obvious. The laborer's increasing demands as to wages register themselves automatically in the cost of the farmer's clothing, his tools and machinery of all sorts, and in the rates he pays for transportation; the laborer's increasing demands as to hours arouse the resentment of a man who has often to work twelve and fourteen hours a day or see his year's crops ruined by bad weather. The happier lot of the laborer, furthermore, drains the country of "help" so that even the fair prospect of two-dollar wheat is shadowed by the size of the farmer's payroll. Per contra, if the farmer gets what he wants for his crops and his live stock, the laborer is burdened by the cost of his own food and clothing. When, as happened during the war, both city and farm worker gain their demands, the right line of advance is converted into what both are already denouncing as a vicious circle.

There are other hurdles which are not so obvious, perhaps, but which threaten none the less to entangle feet leaping toward the millennium. The heart of the city worker is set upon saving daylight, whereas that of the farmer is set upon saving his boots from the early dew. Soon there will be a city time set at distracting odds with the time of the country. As against this, it is true, the farmer has his cider which works overtime in twenty-four-hour shifts until it has a good 8 per cent. kick in it, whereas the laborer shouts "No beer, no work!" out of a throat increasingly parched. But, as the most elementary moralist is aware, two wrongs do not make one combined and harmonious right.

The present indications are that the labor unions, from which the project of this grand alliance emanates, will have to practice considerable patience in conciliating the farmer. Yet there is no reason for concluding that they are not prepared to do it. At the Industrial Conference in Washington a decisive majority of delegates was on the side of labor's dubious proposal as to collective bargaining, while even in the group of employers there was a majority of only one vote against it. Yet the unions bolted the conference, refusing to spend even the smallest portion out of their stock of patience and the spirit of conciliation. Obviously, they were keeping it all for the coming negotiations with the farmers.

MR. SHEA'S DEMANDS.

The Railroad Administration's Board of Working Conditions heard some very frank language from Mr. TIMOTHY SHEA, Chief of the Firemen's Brotherhood, when he addressed it in Washington on Thursday. On the subject of an increase of wages—still another increase on the ground that the cost of living was too high—Mr. SHEA said:

> If I cannot get it out of this conference, it may be necessary to use other means, but I am going to get it.

The Chief of the Firemen's Brotherhood was not in a mood to discuss the financial condition of the railroad companies, whether they could afford, under Government or private management, to pay the increase that was to be demanded. "I am going to get it;" he gave notice; that is to say, if it were refused the railroads of the country would be tied up until the companies surrendered. Mr. SHEA'S plan, of course, included all railroad workers, including the shopmen. He would find it difficult to prove his case; that is to say, that his firemen were really underpaid and unable to make both ends meet, were victims of economic injustice. But then he would not attempt it, as appears from the following statement to the Railroad Administration Board:

> I think we have reached a period of our life when the laboring man must enjoy necessaries and luxuries. I do not think the time is at hand when the American workingman should be required to make any great sacrifices now. They have made their sacrifices.

If Mr. SHEA had the war in mind it should have occurred to him that the great body of the American people, and not least the unorganized middle class, have made their sacrifices. Necessaries, of course, all men who labor must have, but luxuries not many of us can command. The automobile was the other day included among the luxuries that members of labor unions should have and enjoy. Some of them, no small number, have earned enough in the last three or four years to buy and use automobiles, but it is still true that the great majority of the middle class are not owners of pleasure cars. The members of labor unions have not been discriminated against in this respect. If Mr. SHEA'S firemen must have such luxuries, the desire for a substantial increase of pay is accounted for, but it is probably the case that most of the firemen are satisfied with a living wage, and, like many salary earners of the great middle class, are not indulging in dreams of automobiles as their right.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Mystery Partly Cleared Up.

Now that what seems like, and presumably is, a frank and complete statement in regard to the hitherto mystifying case of ROBERT MINOR has been made by the Secretary of War in response to the request of the Senate, all of the more disquieting theories of the action taken and not taken by the military authorities can be dismissed.

MINOR was charged with complicity in a Spartacide plot, concocted in Düsseldorf, to corrupt the American Army of Occupation in Germany by spreading Bolshevist propaganda among the soldiers. This, as the report of the Adjutant General declares, was an accusation as serious as could have been brought against a man; conviction would, or at any rate might, have meant the infliction of the death penalty on the offender. The evidence immediately obtainable against MINOR consisted, however, of testimony given by a single man, described as a "detective and informer," and while there was no doubt in the Adjutant General's mind of MINOR'S guilt, he feared that a trial, whether it resulted in conviction or acquittal, would be utilized in a highly undesirable manner by what he called "a dangerous element in the United States."

To the civilian mind the reason given for releasing MINOR seems inadequate and distinctly humiliating, but the military authorities took a different view and MINOR was released. So far the story is comprehensible enough, but as much cannot be said for the next chapter. Hardly had the man been released before evidence fully corroborative of what had been said by the single witness was obtained, but nothing was done with it, and MINOR remained at liberty. No explanation of that is offered in the Secretary's communication, and yet the question is a highly interesting one, and there will be much regret that it has been left unanswered.

Bolshevism Still His Ideal.

As the War Department, under advice from the Adjutant General, was so apprehensive of what would be said and done by a "dangerous class in the United States" if MINOR was put on trial with only weak evidence against him, it might have been expected to have fears at least equally great of what use that class would make of failure to proceed against him when evidence that was not weak had become available. MINOR himself, naturally enough, was not taught caution by his experience abroad, and since his return to this country not only has he associated constantly with the class to which the Adjutant General referred, but in frequent public speeches he has been preaching exactly the doctrines and making exactly the exhortations that were contained in the address to American soldiers which he was charged with having prepared for the Düsseldorf Spartacides.

Only this week in Chicago he made before the local Federation of Labor an impassioned defense of Bolshevism and the Bolsheviki, denounced the capitalists of the world for uniting to destroy Russia's Soviet Government, and prophesied the speedy extension of that sort of rule to the rest of Europe, and later to this country. His hearers seemed to like his eloquence; at any rate, they applauded it.

That MINOR is a particularly important or dangerous person need not be contended, and nobody is thirsting for his blood, but he is as dangerous and important as his abilities permit, and that the immunity accorded to him abroad was judicious is still—well, something less than obvious.

A Comparison Serves Its Purpose.

There is adroitness as well as a just grievance in the letter sent to the Board of Estimate protesting against the smallness in the proposed advance in the salaries of public school teachers. This communication begins by commending the board for raising the pay of street cleaners $300 a year and that of firemen and policemen $250, but then it hurries on to say that in comparison with these increases those of only from $35 to $70 accorded to the teachers seem incongruous and inexplicable.

Especially is the difference impressive in the case of the street cleaners, for, as the teachers say, it does not take seven years of preparatory training to give competence to sweep a street. As usual in such comparisons, however, there is an element of fallacy in this one. The teacher has both a present and a future which he or she would not exchange for those of the street cleaner for a considerable advance in immediate payment.

It is a fact, however, that the teacher deserves from the beginning of service a wage decently proportioned to the requirements of the position, and $35 or even $70 is not enough to make up for the increased cost of necessaries now prevailing.

No Outside Pressure Was Needed.

As is said by the United States Attorney for the Eastern District, it is not surprising that in an organization as large as the Department of Justice two or three men should have succumbed to the temptations created for them by the Wartime Prohibition act. And because it is not surprising is the reason, no doubt, why nobody was surprised by the revelations of the week as to the bribe-taking and the bribe-giving that have been going on.

And it really is to the credit of the department, as Mr. ROSS claims, that the disclosures were made by its own officials, and that they have taken energetic action in the way of a house-cleaning. There has been no guarding of the department's reputation at the expense of its character, and while it is improbable that all the guilty—they simply must be more than two or three—will be brought to justice, and still less probable that all the potentially guilty will be discovered and dismissed, still, for a while, at least, there will not be the almost open defiance of law that has seriously lowered respect for all law in this vicinity for months past.

For that period the price of "protection" is likely to be prohibitive.

GENERAL CONVENTION ENDS

DETROIT, Oct. 24.—Adjourning to meet in Portland, Ore., in 1922, the Triennial General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America late today ended the most momentous session of its history.

In the closing service of the convention the Church was called on to take its full part in the new era and in solving the problems of the period of reconstruction.

The convention just closed made Church history, leading men of the Episcopal Church declare, and adopted legislation destined to place me communion on a broadened plane in the eyes of the entire Christian world. They cite the following action, as marking progress along four general lines:

First, the almost complete reorganization of the Church through the creation of an Executive Council and the granting of increased powers to provincial synods.

Second, the broadening of the Church's outlook on social matters, industrial questions and international affairs.

Third, the general approval of the movement toward Church unity by amendment to the Church Constitution to make possible the proposed concordat with the Congregational Church whereby ministers of that Church may be ordained in the Episcopal faith, these amendments also making possible similar agreements with other denominations.

Fourth, the broadening of the worship of the Church by the revision and enrichment of the Book of Common Prayer.

Board's Proposal Fails.

Overlooked in the press of final business, the proposal of the Board of Missions that it be authorized to co-operate in the Inter-Church World Movement failed to obtain action, although almost unanimous approval of the movement was voiced by the delegates.

The greatest interest by church people and the convention delegates was shown today in the selection by the House of Bishops of Bishop Thomas F. Gailor of Tennessee as Chairman of the new Executive Council which will handle the business of the Church after Jan. 1 next. Bishop Gailor will hold office until the next convention. He becomes by virtue of the office executive head of the Church, Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle of Missouri remaining its ecclesiastical head as presiding Bishop, although eventually the two offices will combine.

Bishop Gailor's election as Chairman of the council will take him from his diocese, of which Coadjutor Bishop Troy Beatty automatically will become Bishop.

Believing that the ministry of healing is a mission of the Church and that its inclusion in the work of the Church will add to and help hold the present membership, the convention appointed a commission to inquire into the question and report at the 1922 meeting.

The House of Bishops referred to the council an investigation of work among negroes, and a suggestion that a conference of racial representatives be held in each large city to consider greater social justice.

Ask Clemency for "Objectors."

A resolution asking "discriminating executive clemency" for "political prisoners," including conscientious objectors, introduced by Bishop Benjamin Brewster of Maine, was adopted in the House of Bishops but almost unanimously voted down by the House of Deputies. It was characterized by General Charles M. Clement of Harrisburg, Penn., as "an insult to every man who wore the uniform."

The Rev. Arthur W. Moulton, rector of Grace Church, Lawrence, Mass., was elected by the House of Bishops to be Missionary Bishop of Utah to replace the late Rev. Thomas J. Garland, Suffragan Bishop of Pennsylvania, who declined the election.

The new council, which, on Jan. 1, becomes the ruling body of the Church and under which all Church affairs are to be handled, also was elected. It is made up as follows:

The closing service of the convention was held in St. Paul's Cathedral, the Bishops enrobed, clerical and lay delegates attending. The pastoral letter was read by Bishop Charles H. Brent of Western New York, and Presiding Bishop Tuttle pronounced the benediction.

Federal Judge Mayer signed an order yesterday permitting the city to file with Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, a claim against the company's subsidiary operating the subways for $1,990,800 for damages due to the delay in carrying out the terms of the rapid transit contract.

The amount was fixed by the Chief Engineer of the Public Service Commission and was to be allowed the company in the settlement of accounts between the city and the company. But the city, on the ground that the allowance was insufficient, brought suit in the Supreme Court to have the allowance set aside. This suit is still pending. The purpose of permitting the city to file the claim with the receiver is to protect the city's rights in the matter.

SHORE MEMORIES.

Refresh me with your joy.
What though these hours too swiftly wing?
Short bliss can never cloy.
I taste my sweets with deep delight:
Can not a memory mock Time's flight?

Dear beach, your sands of gold
Shall glint in ceaseless flow
Through my life's glass. Right dear I hold
That ridge where dark pines grow
To make your brightness seem more bright.
As day is fairer for the night.

And, oh, you waves, swell high!
Weave wild, melodious spells,
Whose vibrant echo shall not die,
But, like deep-chiming bells,
Ring through my dreams by night and day,
And bid them charm my cares away.

So, sands, and curling wave,
I voice no sad farewell;
The "joy of living" which you gave
Within my soul shall dwell;
And if, forgetful, I am sad,
Ring out your chanson: make me glad!

HOSPITALS SEEK $1,000,000.

Fund to be Divided Pro Rata According to Free Work.

To raise $1,000,000 or more to help meet the deficit of $3,000,000 of the forty-six hospitals in Manhattan and the Bronx doing free work, the United Hospital Fund announced yesterday that during the week of Nov. 17 an intensive campaign will be conducted from headquarters just established at 261 Madison Avenue. Robert Olyphant, President of the fund, in a statement issued last night, said that all the hospitals uniting in this appeal had pledged themselves not to undertake separate solicitations to meet their urgent needs for free work, but to rely upon the $1,000,000 for all necessary expenses.

Distribution of the $1,000,000 will be on the basis of free work carried on in the various institutions. The money will be apportioned by a committee headed by the Mayor, and composed of the President of the Chamber of Commerce, the President of the Merchants' Association, Otto T. Bannard, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., Arthur Curtiss James, and James Speyer.

Maintaining these forty-six hospitals last year cost $9,073,065. Against this they received $4,247,440 from paying patients, and $1,836,929 from endowments, leaving a deficit of $3,288,696, just about the cost of their free work.

The cost of providing for free ward patients, for which the United Hospital Fund seeks this $1,000,000, has risen tremendously. It cost $2.02 a day for each patient in 1914. It had risen to $3.17 in 1918, and for this year it is estimated at $3.50. Last year these United Hospitals provided 1,232,078 days of free treatment.

The hospitals uniting in this campaign are: General Hospitals—Mount Sinai, New York, St. Luke's, Presbyterian, Post-Graduate, Lenox Hill, Roosevelt, Lincoln, Lebanon, Beth Israel, French, Flower, Sydenham, St. Mark's, Knickerbocker, Hahnemann, Volunteer, Polyclinic and Park.

Women and Children—Lying-In, St. Mary's, Woman's, Nursery and Child's, Sloane, Infirmary for Women and Children, Babies', Manhattan Maternity, Misericordia, Jewish Maternity, and Hospital for Women.

Special Hospitals—Orthopaedic, Ruptured and Crippled, Deformities and Joint Diseases, N. Y. Eye and Ear Infirmary, Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat; Ophthalmic, Knapp Memorial, Skin and Cancer, House of Rest, Consumptives, and Neurological Institute.

Chronic and Convalescent—Montefiore, Home for Incurables, Isabella Home, House of the Holy Comforter, and St. Andrew's Convalescent.

To direct the raising of the funds necessary to cover the free work, a special campaign committee of one hundred has been appointed. The members of the committee, representatives of the boards of hospital trustees and interested citizens, are:

Henry J. Fisher, Chairman; Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Mrs. J. T. Atterbury, J. S. Berliner, George Blumenthal, Mrs. Sidney C. Borg, James McVickar Breed, William C. Breed, Miss Mary W. Booth, M. N. RED CROSS DRIVE BEGINS.

Delegates Meet to Plan Campaign for 20,000,000 Membership.

A conference of delegates from 216 Red Cross chapters in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut for the purpose of discussing and completing plans for the Third Red Cross Roll Call, which will start on Nov. 1 and continue until Armistice Day, Nov. 11, was held yesterday by the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The National Red Cross is after a new membership of 20,000,000 members. The ambition of the Atlantic Division is to swell its membership to 5,000,000. In the rear of the ballroom where the convention is taking place, thirteen information booths are installed where literature on any subject required is furnished.

H. J. Rogers, Assistant Manager of the Atlantic Division, announced that because of the various strikes, beginning with the printers' trouble and running through the longshoremen and expressmen's strike, the division had been handicapped in getting out the supplies needed for the Roll Call drive. But, he said, all chapters within reach of the motor corps had received theirs. He said that General O'Ryan, who was to have presided, had been lost somewhere between New York and Manitoba and could not get to the city in time. Mr. Rogers then outlined briefly the peace program, which includes the continuation of military relief for soldiers and sailors still disabled, home service, nursing and generally anything that the order may do to carry on the work of benefiting mankind.

Colonel John Van Schaick, Jr., Red Cross Commissioner to Belgium, dwelt on the democracy of the rulers of Belgium and their part in handling the difficult problems of their stricken land. He also spoke of what had been done by Americans. He said the work over there and on this side was not finished and would not be until every human being needing help shall have received it. Joseph Hartigan of the Government Loan Organization said there were 4,000,000 foreign-born persons in the Atlantic Division alone, who read, spoke and followed the editorial policy of the 175 foreign language publications in the district. He said they were better organized than any other portion of the population of America. He said there could be no question of lack of loyalty to their adopted country on the part of the great mass of them and added that every man had the right to a love for his native land.

Major Bartholo Peterson of Jamestown, N. Y., formerly assistant Chief of Staff of the 27th Division, told what the American Legion was doing to push the Red Cross Roll Call. He said the service men had said they would put it across or go back in the army.

H. L. Elias, County Chairman of the American Legion, expressed the hearty support of the American Legion, which, he said, had pledged 100 per cent. membership in the Red Cross.

HONOR PONT-A-MOUSSON.

PARIS, Oct. 24. (French Wireless Service.)—Premier Clemenceau has signed a decree awarding the War Cross to the City of Pont-a-Mousson, southwest of Metz, for its sufferings during the war.

The city, which lay on the edge of the salient of St. Mihiel, occupied by the Germans continuously from the early days of the war until the successful campaign of the American Army, was subjected during that time to 234 bombardments. More than 30,000 shells fell upon the city, destroying over 80 per cent. of its houses.

Nevertheless, the city remained in French hands except for a single week in September, 1914, when the Germans swept down to their repulse before Toul and Nancy.

SET THE CLOCK BACK ONE HOUR TONIGHT

HYLAN SIGNS ORDINANCE

Before you go to bed tonight turn your clock back one hour, for at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning the one hour of light stolen from Father Time on the first Sunday in March will be paid back and the Federal Daylight Saving law, through the action of Congress, will cease to exist.

New York City, however, will not be without daylight saving next Summer, for Mayor Hylan yesterday approved the daylight-saving ordinance adopted by the Board of Aldermen two weeks ago. The ordinance giving this city daylight saving was introduced in the Board of Aldermen by Robert L. Moran, President of that body.

Marcus M. Marks, President of the National Daylight Saving Association, predicted yesterday that the extra hour of light would be enjoyed next year, not only in this city but throughout the East and in many of the large cities and industrial centres of the West.

"The New York Daylight Saving ordinance is for seven months so as to conform with the New York State Daylight Saving law, which will be in operation next year for the same period," said President Marks. "But when the State Legislature convenes in January at Albany, efforts will be made to amend the law to five months from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September, which is the way the ordinances read in other cities and towns where they are about to be adopted. At the same time the New York City ordinance, which was introduced by President Robert L. Moran of the Board of Aldermen, will be amended.

"As proof of the demand by a great majority of the people for the continuance of daylight saving, we can cite the fact that New York City, by the unanimous vote of the Board of Aldermen, has adopted a Daylight Saving ordinance for next year; that New England, as a unit, will have daylight saving next year; that the industrial centres of New Jersey—Hoboken, Jersey City, Newark, and Trenton—have initiated campaigns under the direction of the National Daylight Saving Association to retain the extra hour of light.

"Throughout Pennsylvania, with Pittsburgh blazing the trail, daylight saving ordinances in the industrial communities and cities will be in effect next year. A referendum in Baltimore showed that five out of every six want a daylight saving ordinance. Its passage is assured.

BEAT AND ROB STATIONER.

Bronx Man's Fight for $10 May Cost Him His Life.

In trying to prevent two hold-up men from stealing $10 from the cash register in his stationery store at 4,723 White Plains Avenue, the Bronx, John H. Holmes was so badly beaten yesterday that surgeons in the Fordham Hospital said his recovery was doubtful. The thieves stole the money from the register, as well as some goods from the shelves.

Holmes refused to put up his hands upon command, and, instead, attempted to kick one of the men, who began to beat him with the butt or his revolver. He did not recover consciousness until after the robbers had left the store. After he had given the alarm he became unconscious again, and ambulance surgeons from the Fordham Hospital said that he was suffering from a fractured skull.

Two men were arrested a few minutes after the robbery by Policeman William Wittman of the Wakefield Station, one of whom, who described himself as William Joyce, of Utica, having a pistol in his possession. He was held on a charge of violation of the Sullivan law, as well as on charges of assault and robbery. The other man who was arrested said he was Frank Callahan of 372 Degraw Street, Brooklyn. According to Captain Henry Duane, in command of detectives in the Bronx, Joyce confessed his part in the hold-up.

Burglars entered the shirt factory of Bobb & Bassing, at 120 Wythe Avenue, Brooklyn, on Wednesday night, and stole between $6,000 and $7,000 worth of shirts. They used two trucks to carry the shirts away. One of the owners of the shirt factory notified the police at the Bedford Avenue Station, who referred him to the Headquarters of the 16th Inspection District at the Clymer Street Station. There he was told to say nothing, and the report of the theft was suppressed.

Three men whose names were withheld were being held by the police yesterday in connection with the theft of $12,054 from a paymaster of the Emergency Fleet Corporation in Brooklyn on Feb. 14 last. The police said that the arrests had been made by detectives in Brooklyn on Thursday night, and that two other men were under surveillance.

District Attorney Lewis said yesterday that he had evidence which, he believed, would cause the arrest of a man on the charge of murdering Mrs. Emma R. McDonald, whose body was found in the Flatbush sand dunes on Wednesday night. He said he had found a man who had seen Mrs. McDonald in the vicinity a few minutes before the murder is believed to have been committed. The description of her companion is said by the police to fit that of the man who called for her earlier in the evening at 65 Sackman Street.

CALLS JERSEY PIVOT STATE.

Stokes Says Democrats Will Win in 1920 if They Carry It This Year.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 24.—Commenting today on the report received at Republican State Headquarters that the Democratic campaign in New Jersey would be financed from Washington, Republican State Chairman Stokes said:

"I am not at all surprised at this news. They are interested because the result in New Jersey this year is the opening gun of their campaign for 1920.

"If New Jersey goes Democratic, the result will be an unqualified indorsement of the Administration and national Democratic policies, to wit: Their foreign policy in connection with territorial adjustments abroad, the League of Nations without reservation and without change, the policy of free trade, of the high cost of living, of enormously high taxation, of inefficient railroad management, of Governmental interference with business and private enterprise, and with bureaucratic instead of representative government. All these policies will be indorsed by a Democratic victory in New Jersey, and will surely portend the election of a Democratic President in 1920."

PRINCE OF WALES WILL VISIT CAPITAL

MARSHALL TO RECEIVE HIM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Authoritative announcement was made tonight that the arrangements for the visit of the Prince of Wales to the United States have not been changed, and that he will visit Washington for a few days in November. It is expected that he will arrive here about Nov. 10, and that he will probably be in Washington about three days.

While no official announcement was made, this statement of the case was obtained tonight in an informed quarter:

"As the illness of the President makes it impossible for him to receive guests personally, the stay of the Prince of Wales in Washington will be somewhat shorter than originally intended and will correspond with that made by the King of the Belgians under the same circumstances, but in view of the fact that the bulletins of the President's condition continue to be favorable, it has not been thought necessary to modify the arrangements which had already been made for the Prince's visit to the United States."

The King of the Belgians is due to arrive in Washington on Monday evening, Oct. 27. Announcement has already been made by the White House that Vice President Marshall has been asked to represent the Government of the United States when King Albert is here. Vice President Marshall will act in the same capacity when the Prince of Wales arrives.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred upon King Albert by George Washington University. A special convocation has been arranged for the conferring of the degree to be held at Continental Memorial Hall on Thursday, Oct. 30, at 2:30 o'clock. King Albert has consented to accept the degree. The invitations will be limited to the trustees, faculty, students and friends of the university.

Trinity College will confer upon the Queen of the Belgians the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature, and the Catholic University of America will confer upon King Albert the degree of Doctor of Laws. Cardinal Gibbons will attend the ceremony at the Catholic University and at Trinity College.

FOKKER PILOT LOOMS IN SEA-TO-SEA RACE

By flying 1,491 miles from San Francisco to North Platte, Neb., in about eleven hours actual time Lieut. Col. H. E. Hartney, the only flier who has had any success with the German Fokker, has become a contender for a place in the army's 5,400-mile ocean-to-ocean airplane reliability contest. An official announcement upon the flight of Colonel Hartney was made yesterday by the Contest Board of the American Flying Club.

Unfavorable weather held Colonel Hartney at the North Platte control station yesterday, where, reports said, he was putting his German plane into condition in the hope that he would be able to cover 1,210 miles to Mineola in a single day's flying. Colonel Hartney had reported on Sunday that his machine was in good shape, although it had already been flown many hours beyond the usual life of an airplane, and that he expected to bring it through the contest.

Members of the Contest Board said that if Colonel Hartney should be able to bring his battered captured plane through to Mineola in a single day he would undoubtedly make such speed that he would win first place on the point of actual flying time. The winner of the race now on the point of actual flying time is Lieutenant Alexander Pearsons, Jr., who took the honor from Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, the preacher-aviator, who remains undisputed winner on the point of elapsed time.

Only five fliers remain in the race, all others having been disqualified by failure to start their second ocean-to-ocean flights within the time limit or having been wrecked. Two aviators were reported yesterday as having withdrawn from the race because of damage to their machines. They were Lieutenants W. C. F. Brown, who fell near Reno, Nev., and T. V. Hynes, who went to the ground near Rawlins, Wyo. Neither pilot was injured.

The fliers who remain in the race are Colonel Hartney, Lieutenant D. B. Gish, Lieutenant H. W. Sheridan, Captain Frederick Steinle, and Lieutenant R. M. Bagby. All are in the Middle West, racing for their ocean goal with only a few control stations separating the contestants.

GERMAN OPERA SUNG AGAIN.

Police Disperse Crowds and Make Arrests as 'Die Fledermaus' Is Given

Police on foot and mounted men of the New York Police Department, reinforced by military and naval police, kept breaking up the crowds which gathered outside of the police lines around the Lexington Theatre last night, where "Die Fledermaus" was sung in German.

Encouraged by the comparative quiet at the performance on Thursday night, a much larger crowd was present at the opera last night, the audience numbering more than 1,000. Everything was peaceful inside the theatre throughout the performance.

The naval police from time to time raided crowds which gathered outside of the police lines and arrested groups of sailors. Many ex-service men put on their uniforms and joined the groups which gathered to protest against opera in German, but the lessons of previous clashes with the police generally led them to keep order. In most crowds the majority were children.

The effort of the city and of the administration to stop the performances will be resumed today, when an argument will be made before Justice Giegerich to set aside the injunction which at present restrains the police from stopping the operas in German.

Johann Strauss's "Die Fledermaus," an operetta of famous waltzes, polkas, and other dances of other days, once given at the Metropolitan by Heinrich Conried, was newly staged at last night's performance, making the fourth work sung in German in the Star Opera Company's four days there. Mme. Ober was Prince Orlofsky, and the Misses de Pasthory and Szecsy were Rosalind and Adele, mistress and maid. The men singers were Messrs. Lippich, Kurt Goritz, Ludwig Eybisch, Bayer, Hofmann, Lehrmann, and Christmann. Louis Koemmenich conducted.

WOMEN INDORSE JUSTICES.

Municipal League Adopts Resolutions to Support Newburger and Smith.

The Woman's Municipal League of the City of New York, at a meeting yesterday, adopted resolutions indorsing Justices Joseph E. Newburger of the Supreme Court and Richard H. Smith of the City Court for re-election, on the ground that deserving judges should be continued on the bench, irrespective of party affiliations. The league also indorsed Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia and City Magistrate Henry H. Curran, Republican candidates for President of the Aldermanic Board and President of the Borough of Manhattan.

Miss Bertha Rembaugh, candidate for Justice of the Municipal Court in the First Manhattan District, was indorsed by the league on the ground that "it is in the interest of public welfare that women be represented in the judiciary."

It was announced at the headquarters of Philip J. McCook, Republican candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court, in the Hotel Manhattan yesterday that George S. Hornblower, who has been a Democrat all his life, had declined an invitation to become associated with the campaign committee formed to aid in the election of Justice Robert L. Luce of the Supreme Court, one of the Tammany candidates, and had announced that he would vote for Justice Newburger and Major McCook.

A Non-Partisan Judiciary Club has been formed at Columbia University in support of Justices Newburger and Smith. The club will hold a rally at Earl Hall in the university grounds at noon on Tuesday. Dean Harlan F. Stone of the Law School will preside.

JUDGE J. HENRY WILLIAMS.

Pennsylvania Superior Court Jurist Was a Prominent Mason.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Judge J. Henry Williams of the State Superior Court died in a hospital here tonight after an illness of two weeks. He was about 55 years old.

Judge Williams was elected to the Superior Court bench in 1915, and his term would have expired in 1926. Because the general election is so close at hand there will not be sufficient time to arrange for the election of his successor, who will be appointed by Governor Sproul to serve until November, 1920.

Before his election to the bench Judge Williams was widely known as a lawyer. He was Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Pennsylvania and assisted in editing the American Encyclopedia of Law.

RUN OF 265 IS RECORDED

Willie Hoppe retains the 18.2 balkline billiard championship. When Welker Cochran defeated Jake Schaefer, 400 to 257, at the Hotel Astor last night the National 18.2 Balkline Billiard Championship Tournament was decided in favor of Hoppe. Regardless of how the match between Hoppe and Schaefer results tonight, Willie cannot be relieved of the crown which he has worn for fourteen years.

Today Hoppe has won five games and lost none. Schaefer has won three and lost two and Cochran has won four and lost two. Should Schaefer succeed in taking the measure of Hoppe tonight, the champion would have lost only one out of six games, while Schaefer would have lost two out of six.

Hoppe not only wins the title but he also captures the first prize of $2,500.

At what has happened that happened. There were few billiard fans in this city who expected Cochran to defeat Schaefer, despite the nine brilliants that Cochran showed in his morning game yesterday against Slosson, when he ran out the game with an unfinished run of 265 points, which is a new high-run record for a championship tournament or a championship game. Schaefer was generally favored to win and make the last match of the tourney longer the deciding one—that is, deciding to the extent that he (or for the championship might have existed if Jake succeeds in beating Hoppe.

Hoppe's Throne Unshaken.

To date Hoppe has defeated Cochran, Yamada, Sutton, Morningstar and Slosson. Schaefer has been beaten by Morningstar and Cochran. Cochran has been defeated by Hoppe and Sutton.

Last night Cochran had his stroke working and Schaefer did not. That tells the story of the victory of the "boy wonder" and the elevating of Hoppe to the highest pinnacle in balkline billiards.

Throughout the tournament Hoppe has displayed a superiority that cannot be questioned. From the outset his cue has dominated. He has been king in every respect. At all phases of balkline playing he has demonstrated that he is in a class by himself. There is none near him. The others are experts, but he is ultra-expert. In short, he is the last word in this style of playing.

At nurse shots, gathers, draws, follows, masses and cushion caroms, in fact, in everything that goes to make the 18.2 game the scientific test of skill that it is, Hoppe is supreme. Although Hoppe did not have to win the game that gave him the crown, there is nothing of the fluke about his achievement. The fact that he has been able to go through the tournament, meeting and defeating five of the strongest players in the world, with scarcely a struggle, is conclusive proof that the championship rests where it belongs.

Outwardly Schaefer was calm last night, but inwardly a storm must have been raging. He had no control whatever of the balls. His work was a pitiful exhibition, except in the seventh and ninth innings, when he scored 95 and 50 points, respectively. He tried hard to make his stroke behave and to get control of the balls, but it was futile. His eye of his game and his form would not return to him.

Getting off well in the second inning with a run of 90, Cochran played almost brilliantly. He was steady in most of his turns at the table. His stroke was even and rarely did the most difficult shots offer obstacles too great for him to overcome; in fact, when he missed, it generally was on the easiest of shots.

Aside from the record high run Cochran had made in the morning had rubbed him with the confidence he had lacked in his earlier games in the tourney. He played with the calm precision of a man believing he could make any shot that confronted him.

Schaefer's Playing Ragged.

At the outset of the evening's match between the two youngsters in the tournament, Jake Schaefer and Welker Cochran, it appeared that young Jake had checked his stroke with his hat and coat. It is true he did not get many of the breaks and the balls rolled against him, but his playing was ragged and far from what is expected of a player boasting the rating he does in the billiard world.

In great contrast was the playing of Cochran. The same confidence that enabled him to make his run of 265 in the morning still lurked in his cue and he quickly drew away to a substantial lead. His stroke was delicate and even, his eye unerring, his execution excellent and his nursing almost perfect. Where Schaefer experienced great difficulty in trying to gather the balls, Cochran got them together quickly and exercised great control over them.

Cochran won the bank and selected the spot ball. He made one and missed. Schaefer made 21 and then failed to get the balls out of balk. Cochran followed with a run of 99, made by nursing the balls at the head of the table.

In the seventh inning, Cochran let out another speed notch and plucked 138 points before missing on a simple open-table shot. During this run the same perfection of billiard play that had featured his work earlier in the day was conspicuous. Not the least hesitancy did he manifest. He stroked quickly and with precision. As a matter of fact, however, he actually made but 167 points on this run. His first point was a gift from Schaefer. On his sixth turn at the table Jake failed to hit either ball, giving Cochran a point.

Makes a Return Gift.

Cochran squared the account in this respect for, when he missed on his 169th shot, he, too, failed to touch either object ball, and Schaefer was presented with a point at the start of his seventh inning. In that session Jake made a run of 95. For the first fifteen shots he played open billiards before he gathered them. Once bunched he played them well. After the 95th point the balls were lined up on the short rail at the head of the table. There was no chance to make a massé. Schaefer elected to play a two-cushion time shot out of the corner at the foot of the table. He missed by an inch.

Schaefer again showed a flash of form in the ninth inning. He made 50. It was chiefly by close playing that he got the points. In the tenth he made 21, falling down four times on comparatively easy shots. The score then stood 308 to 279 in Cochran's favor.

In the eleventh and twelfth rounds Cochran collected 28 and 27 respectively, a total of 55 buttons.

The score by innings:

Cochran—1 99 3 0 13 14 168 0 5 0 28 27 3 19 20. Total—400. High runs—168, 99, 28. Average—34 10-13.

Schaefer—21 1 0 21 2 7 95 1 50 21 0 7 30 1. Total—257. High runs—95, 50, 30. Average—18 5-14.

Cochran Makes a Record.

Welker Cochran made a record high run for championship balkline billiards yesterday morning when he ran out his game against George Slosson with an unfinished run of 265. Higher runs than this have been made at 18.2 balkline, but they have not been recorded in championship play.

The recognized world's record is 308, made by Willie Hoppe in 1915 in the handicap tourney held in this city. But that was not a championship event. He also made a run of 307 in the tournament in Chicago in 1906. Neither was that a championship event. A championship tourney had been staged in New York just previously and the players went to the Windy City to perform in a series of exhibition matches. Of course, both of these runs were made under championship conditions—that is, championship rules governed the play. In an exhibition match Louis Curé ran 622 in Paris, but it was not accepted as a record anymore than Hoppe's 507 made against Juan Vargas in a practice game in Brooklyn two weeks ago was recognized as a record. Yet both of these runs are supposed to have been made under championship rules.

The previous American record made in a championship tournament was held by George Sutton. In 1906, in the championship tournament held in Madison Square Garden, he ran 284. It was in the same game that Sutton defeated Hoppe and established his world's record average of 100 in a 500 point game.

Thus Cochran's run of 265, while not the recognized world's record high run, is the best run ever made in a championship tournament or a championship game. Furthermore, it must be remembered that it was an unfinished run. When he made his 265th count the balls were bunched and he could have continued scoring.

By running 265 Cochran bettered the previous high run of the tournament of 165 made by himself on Thursday afternoon against Koji Yamada.

Five Points a Minute.

Yesterday morning, Cochran was at his best. It took him nine innings to warm up, but once loosened up, he played a quantity of balkline, and played it quickly. It took him just one hour to make 265 points, an average of nearly five points a minute. Shots of almost every description were shown by the youngster from Marion, Iowa, but principally it was an exhibition of nurse shot and the most delicate of strokes. Not more than ten times during the frolic did Cochran have to drive the first object ball the length of the table. Throughout he kept the balls gathered inside the balkline at the foot of the table.

Until he started on the rampage, Slosson had been able to hover within striking distance of the youth, who is but a few months more than one-third his age. When Cochran went to the table for his tenth inning the score stood 155 to 117 in his favor.

Cochran soon gathered the balls and kept them together until he had scored 135 points. It was then that he was compelled to drive a ball the length of the table for the first time. He got them together again on his 138th shot and nursed them until his 235th, when they spread. The next seventeen points were made on open table work, but at 250 he had gathered them and held them together until his 400th point had been registered.

The score by innings:

A Hard Game to Lose.

By losing the final game on his schedule to Koji Yamada in the afternoon, George Sutton missed his last chance to grab one of the four prizes to be won. It was a tough game for Sutton to lose, for at one time he led by a score of 233 to 166. He seemed to have the game well in hand. Up to that time, his playing had not been flashy, but it had been fairly consistent. He was not in his best stroke, far from it, but managed to do well enough to take the lead in the fourth inning and hold it until the seventeenth.

On the other hand, Yamada appeared hopelessly off form and there was every reason to believe that he would be beaten. Quite as much to the surprise of Yamada as any one else, the little Japanese found his stroke in the fifteenth inning and got back in the game by running 105 points. He took the lead in the next round by making 115. The score then stood 281 to 256. After that Sutton could not get going and he succumbed, 400 to 256.

After the game Sutton said: "I had a perfect stroke while practicing in Chicago, but it left me as soon as I arrived here. Only for short periods at a time have I really been in stroke. This afternoon I used four different kinds of strokes, trying to improve my execution, but it was no use."

The score by innings:

Yamada—11 4 42 2 3 32 7 44 3 1 0 13 0 1 3 105 115 6 2 6. Total—400. High runs—115 105 44. Average 29.

Sutton—0 36 1 58 2 33 37 67 0 1 18 2 3 41 37 2 1 5 15. Total—356. High runs—37 58 41. Average—18 14-19.

Lineups Bother Hoppe.

While Hoppe had a comparatively easy time defeating George Slosson in the second afternoon game, the champion did not display his best form. The score was Hoppe, 400; Slosson, 138, indicating more or less of a picnic for Hoppe, but it took Willie nine innings to complete the game. He was bothered by frequent lineups, and at times was forced to make difficult shots. His average might have been considerably better than 44 4-9, but in the sixth inning, when he had the balls in excellent position for a good run, Hoppe miscued on his ninety-eighth shot. He made the point, but failed to get the balls out of balk.

Charley Peterson, the referee, counted the ninety-eighth point, but Hoppe walked away from the table. Evidently Peterson, for the first time during a particularly hard week of work, lost track of the number of shots in balk. It showed that Hoppe was keeping close count and realized that the point was illegal.

Until the sixth inning, Slosson was in front. In the sixth, however, Hoppe made his run of 97 and forged to the front, never to be headed thereafter. He finally ran out the game with an unfinished run of 108.

It was Slosson's last game of the tournament. It was the sixth straight defeat for "The Student." It was also Hoppe's fifth straight victory. Slosson was not able to get going throughout the tourney. Discussing it after the game, he said:

"In practice in Boston, I seemed to be at the top of my game. I ran 333 and I averaged 62 for four games. I was sure that I was in stroke when I came to New York. I am at a loss to explain my showing here. I am convinced that Hoppe is in a class by himself. He seems to be right at all times."

The score by innings:

Slosson—12 76 14 9 5 6 0 27. Total—138. High runs—76, 27, 14. Average—17 2-8.

SCOTCH VERDICT IS FIRST ACROSS LINE

Shows Surprising Burst of Speed to Win by Ten Lengths on Empire City Course.

Quite a number of chauffeurs were missing from their regular stations along Broadway yesterday and the reason for their absence was disclosed at Empire City, right after the running of the Yonkers Consolation Handicap, in which Scotch Verdict romped home an easy winner by about ten lengths at the odds of 10 to 1. Scotch Verdict is owned by Lawrence Fay, who, besides being a horseman, is also a chauffeur and he brought a crowd of his friends to the Yonkers course to back his horse in the feature race of the day.

This accounted for a demonstration, which took place in front of the main stands, just after Scotch Verdict crossed the finish line. Fay's friends began to cheer wildly and then their enthusiasm over the victory reached such a height that they put Fay on their shoulders and tossed him into the air and otherwise accorded him the honors of a hero. By this time, Scotch Verdict had been brought back to the judge's stand and, as Jockey Duggan dismounted, he was the recipient of three lusty cheers from the merry group.

However, Fay's joy was of brief duration, for before Scotch Verdict had got back to his stable the stewards made an investigation into the race and announced that the further entries of Scotch Verdict would be refused during the meeting and that the license of Trainer G. H. Morton had been suspended and his case referred to the Jockey Club. No reason for this was given in the announcement, but it was said that the action was not taken because of the form of the horse, which ran a very dull race the last time he went to the post.

Leads Tom McTaggart Home.

Scotch Verdict led home Tom McTaggart which was the favorite and which took the place from Blairgowrie. War Machine, Daydue and Rockport trailed in in the order named. Though this was the feature of the day, all the high-class horses named for it had been withdrawn. Hollister, which was the only stake horse named for the event, had been assigned an impost of 129 pounds in an effort to make something like a contest out of a race that brought selling platers to the post with a stake horse. This condition was due to the fact that all of the high-class horses have been sent to Maryland or have been retired for the season.

Fay bought Scotch Verdict but recently and made the trip to Yonkers in style yesterday to see him run in the stake engagement. Scotch Verdict was so little thought of by the regulars at the track that he was almost entirely neglected and ruled at 10 to 1 and better throughout. However, when he came on the track, it was evident that he was quite fit and anxious to run, for he reared about and it was all Jockey Duggan could do to quiet him at the post.

When the barrier went up Scotch Verdict broke in front of the others and rushed to the rail position, got the lead and was well out in front making the turn below the stands. Tom McTaggart was right after him with Blairgowrie third. But, to the surprise of those who had backed the favorite and overlooked the outsider, Scotch Verdict set a furious pace around the turn, and, by the time he reached the back stretch, was five lengths in front. His speed was amazing in light of some of his other races when he could not keep up with ordinary selling platers. Scotch Verdict was certainly in a running mood this time.

Through the back stretch, he increased his lead with every stride until the race had ceased to be a contest at the far turn. By that time Scotch Verdict was leading by eight lengths and was running stronger than ever. Mountain made a dash at the leader with Tom McTaggart, but it was a fruitless effort, for the favorite could not gain a yard. On the contrary, with his last efforts he continued to draw further back. Scotch Verdict raced at top speed through the stretch and was a winner by ten lengths. Blairgowrie got up in the last few strides and gave the favorite a strong battle for the place. Tom McTaggart gaining the decision by only a neck.

Only One Favorite Wins.

The muddy track caused numerous scratches but the events were well filled despite this. The cheap horses had the day practically to themselves and, as usual under such circumstances, form was not generally worth much. Only one favorite came home in front. That was M. Shea's Drummond, which captured the Albion Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth in the last race. He defeated Herolsme, Crystal Ford and Sweet Tooth. Though Drummond won handily, he met a real tartar in Herolsme and the latter fought it out to the very end after leading all the way to the last furlong. Buxton had Herolsme two lengths in front at one time, but the pace began to tell in the stretch and Drummond moved up steadily until he caught the leader and took command of the situation. Crystal Ford was third, ten lengths back of the second horse. He found the weight, 128 pounds, entirely too much to manage over the distance and was never a contender, while Sweet Tooth was outclassed.

Fred Housman's American Soldier showed decided improvement in the first race against a field of seven juveniles when he ran away from the others to win by six lengths. Eastern Glow was second and Belgian Queen third. Locust Leaves, which had shown fine speed in real tests recently and which was favorite in this event, was fourth, some distance back, and, though getting away to a good start, was never up among the leaders after the first sixteenth. American Soldier was not slowly, but Butwell took him up through the backstretch, and at the far turn he caught Larghetto, which was tiring from setting the pace. American Soldier then romped away to win as he pleased.

John Shaughnessy's Title graduated from the maiden class in the second race by defeating a field of cheap platers in a maiden three-year-old race at six furlongs. Title was another of the day's long shots, as he closed at 8 to 1, while Joe Joe and Different Eyes, which were second and third respectively, were the choices.

Tires in Muddy Going.

Different Eyes got out in front at the start, but soon tired in the muddy going and gave up the lead. Joe Joe raced close to the pace all the way, but Title moved to the front at the head of the stretch and closed with such a rush that he had an advantage of six lengths at the finish. Joe Joe was the best of the others and was second by two lengths.

The Crown Stable's Uncle's Lassie ran a good race in the third event, which was a six-furlong sprint, and won handily from Back Bay and Marmite, among others. Uncle's Lassie seemed to like the going and stole a lead at the start, which she increased as she went along until she was running all alone at one time. Though Back Bay is an excellent mudder, he could not get up to the leader, but managed to hold second position safe at all times.

W. J. Riedel's Belle Roberts was much the best of those which went to the post in the fifth race at a mile and a sixteenth and gained the decision over Paddy Dear by six lengths. Koh-I-Noor was third. Belle Roberts went to the front in the back stretch and moved away easily after that. Koh-I-Noor tired in the stretch, after trying to follow the leader and Paddy Dear was an easy second by four lengths.

The victory of Drummond, with Kummer up in the last race, brought a protest from Jockey Butwell. Kummer and Butwell are leading for the prize which will go to the leading jockey at this meeting. An apprentice allowance had originally been claimed for Drummond and T. Rowan had been engaged to ride the horse. Rowan was ill yesterday and when he was unable to ride, the claim for allowance was waived and Kummer was substituted, with the consent of the stewards.

COBWEBS IS VICTOR IN LAUREL FEATURE

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 24.—H. P. Whitney's Cobwebs, which was a sensation among the juveniles early in the season, proved today that she is again at top form. She had little difficulty in taking the six-furlong dash for two-year-old fillies, which was the feature of the day, defeating some good youngsters. Cobwebs scored with four lengths to spare from N. D. Smith's Mildred, while Hal Parr's Violet Tip was third.

Cobwebs was regarded as one of the best youngsters in the Whitney barn at the outset of the season but she was one of the many which suffered from influenza during the summer and was not able to continue her racing. Others in the Whitney stable took much of the prestige that had come to Cobwebs and she was almost left out of calculation until she came back here in such good form.

Cobwebs assumed the lead at the start and had the race in hand all the way. Ambrose rode her easily through the final furlong. Mildred shook off Limerick Lass in the final furlong and took second handily, while Violet Tip moved up to third after being last most of the way.

Searchlight III., which has recently come into the possession of S. C. Hildreth, scored an easy victory in the final race at a mile and a sixteenth, defeating Widow Bedotte and Queen of the Sea. Searchlight had the race in hand all the way. He broke in front, took the lead and steadily moved away until he had two lengths to spare at the end. Queen of the Sea came from behind in the stretch and made a game effort to get up, but could not catch the leaders and was third, four lengths back of Widow Bedotte.

Invades Jungle Without Trepidation —Panthers Tackle Golden Tornado from Georgia.

New York City becomes a real football centre today, with Cornell meeting Dartmouth at the Polo Grounds, Columbia facing Amherst at South Field, and New York University tackling Rensselaer Polytechnic on Ohio Field, not to speak of a little encounter to be staged across the river at Hoboken by Stevens Institute and Rhode Island State College. Judging by the crowds that were turned away when Columbia played Williams last week, there are enough football fans left in town to fill the smaller fields to their capacity, and to make quite an impression on the huge spaces of the Brush Stadium as well.

Cornell and Dartmouth present an attraction that should lure many a lover of the game, quite aside from any sentimental interest in the institutions represented. The big Green team from Hanover has been reputed one of the best of the season, and its victory over the 100 per cent. veteran aggregation of Penn State last Saturday seems to confirm the theory suggested by its earlier and more one-sided triumphs. Although without the services of its regular ends today, Dartmouth will go into action with a strong front, and a quiet confidence in her ability to keep her slate clean. Those who can remember back far enough may recall the brilliant exhibition of open football offered by Dartmouth in defeating Princeton on this same field some years ago.

Coach Spears, the former all-American guard, is inclined to favor a line-plunging attack, but he has taught his charges plenty of football, and they will take a plot of beating.

Cornell Gaining in Strength.

Up to last Saturday Cornell also had a clean slate, including a victory over the strong Williams team. But in Colgate the Ithacans struck a snag, and were trailed in the dust by what appears at present to be the best offensive combination in the East. Since then, however, Speedy Rush's red-jerseyed warriors have shown marked improvement, particularly in the development of an aerial attack, and it is through their forward passing, open formations, and the kicking of Shiverick that they hope to make things interesting for the New Englanders this afternoon. It is just possible that Cornell, with her fighting spirit aroused, might stage a real upset, and in any case the battle should be well worth a trip to the Polo Grounds. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 P. M.

At the same hour Fred Dawson's slowly developing Columbia squad will face a real test on Morningside Heights. Amherst is another of the few undefeated elevens of the year, and, while none of her victims represents the top class of the gridiron aristocracy, nevertheless her score against Trinity, for instance, was larger by 20 points than that of Princeton against the same team.

Amherst, however, barely defeated New York University by a safety, and Bowdoin by a field goal, so that her team seems a fairish dependable proposition than was offered by Williams last Saturday. It must be remembered also that while Columbia lost that game by the apparently one-sided score of 23 to 0, the play was for the most part very even, only one of the winning touchdowns coming as the result of consistent and sustained ground gaining. With the progress shown in practice recently, Columbia has reason to look for a decisive victory at South Field today.

N. Y. U. Jinx Has Been Busy.

New York University has been unfortunate thus far in running into a series of defeats by narrow margins, two of her three games having been played away from home. But she has not yet shown any signs of inherent weakness, and the encounter with Rensselaer Poly this afternoon should give her a splendid opportunity to start the winning habit. Comparative scores would seem to give the engineers an advantage on paper, for they defeated Hamilton, which in turn disposed of the local university. But with Frank Gargan, formerly of Fordham, added to the coaching staff, and the infusion of new material as well as a greater determination into the squad, New Yorkers have a right to expect some encouraging results from the battle upon the Heights today.

Whatever metropolitan football enthusiasm is not concentrated on the unusual array of local competition is likely to turn in the direction of Princeton, where the Tigers are being cornered by the relentless attack of Larry Bankhart's Colgate machine. No team, not even Brown or Cornell, has yet been able to stop this combination of speed and power from scoring at least two touchdowns, and Princeton has a sturdy defense indeed that can hold that veteran backfield in check, even on Jungletown's home gridiron. Bill Roper has been experimenting with various shifts in his playing material and is obviously dissatisfied with the results obtained by every Princeton lineup to date. But his team has escaped defeat thus far, with Lafayette providing the only real scare on its schedule; and if the Colgate menace can by any chance be passed to safety today there will be prospects of a brilliant record for the Orange and Black in the games to come. In the face of actual facts, however, as presented in the records of both teams, the possibility of a Princeton victory this afternoon seems remote.

Yale and Harvard are both more comfortably situated for the day, the former having Tufts as an opponent, with the University of Virginia visiting the stadium at Cambridge. Neither the Blue nor the Crimson has reason to worry over the outcome, in spite of the sensational upset with which Yale was presented by Boston College last week.

Cavanaugh's Men Attack Cadets.

The latter team continues its strenuous schedule by taking on the Army at West Point this afternoon, and another spectacular victory by Frank Cavanaugh's stars would not be at all surprising. Syracuse may find Washington and Jefferson a stiff proposition, for the Pennsylvanians have not yet been scored on, and number Carnegie Tech among their victims. But since disposing of Glenn Warner's Pittsburghers last Saturday Buck O'Neill must be credited with having developed one of the truly great teams of the year, and no ordinary opposition will hold the Orange in check from now on.

Pennsylvania, holding the high scoring record of the Eastern season, may encounter plenty of trouble in facing the fighting Lafayette aggregation today. The Eastonians outplayed Princeton two week ago, although losing by the close score of 9 to 6, and it is a tradition that they always play their best against Pennsylvania. If Folwell's eleven scores decisively over its old rivals this afternoon the victory will put Philadelphia's football representatives at the top of the heap without much room for argument.

In the West a crucial contest is on the cards when Michigan meets Ohio State at Ann Arbor, for it is the latter team that "Hurry-up" Yost must defeat if he hopes to win a conference championship this year. With the Ohio team built up around Chick Hartley, the All-American half back, it looks like an even argument.

CRIMSON SUBS TO PLAY.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 24.—If handling a football team carefully for a week and specializing on speed for three days' practice will serve to get an eleven to show a midseason punch, the Harvard team should set a fast pace tomorrow in its game against University of Virginia. The Southern team is reported to be light, but the coaches will not mind this, as so many of the men are still more or less tender. Fast football, rather than a test of endurance, is what is wanted just at this time, as the team is being shaped to meet Princeton two weeks hence. Coach Fisher will send in the same rush line that he used against Brown last week, with the exception of having Hubbard at right tackle.

If Kane had not hurt his ear again he doubtless would still be in his place, but Hubbard has been regaining his earlier speed and efficiency very satisfactorily all week. As he was considered one of the best of the tackle candidates when the season opened, the team as a whole is not likely to be handicapped by the shift in the line.

During the week Captain Billy Murray, because he has played in every scrimmage and has driven himself hard in order to get back where he was before he was hurt, has picked up his own game, and also has the new set of backs working well as a combination.

A. Horween, slow to strike his stride, is expected to show a lot of power and defensive ability as he starts his first game tomorrow, and with Hamilton and Humphrey, two passers and kickers, in the backfield line, Harvard will be equipped to play almost any variety of football it likes.

N. Y. U. ATTACK STRONGER.

Local Eleven Is Confident of Victory Today Against Rensselaer.

Final practice in preparation for today's game with the R. P. I. eleven was held by the New York University football team yesterday on Ohio Field. No strenuous work was done, but Coaches Longwell and Gargan sent the men through a long signal drill.

The attack of the Violet eleven, which was rather weak in the Wesleyan game last week, has been greatly bolstered up. A new set of formations, put into effect by Gargan, has been designed to utilize more fully the different abilities of the back field. These formations were run over by the team yesterday and they worked smoothly. They are entirely different from the plays used by the New Yorkers last week.

A hard game is looked forward to by the local team, but the New Yorkers are confident of victory. The eleven from Troy has defeated the Hamilton aggregation, which beat the New Yorkers two weeks ago. The Violet team has improved greatly since that defeat, however, and little can be determined by this comparison.

Head Coach Longwell has not definitely determined who is to start today. There is some uncertainty as to who shall fill right end, left guard and one backfield position. Thompson, who has been out for over two weeks with a bad leg, will probably start, despite the fact that he has a slight limp. Levin will relieve him if necessary.

The guard position is left open by the absence of Jack Adams, also on the hospital list. Martindale will probably be Longwell's selection. The extra backfield place will probably go to Horrigan, who has been away from practice this week as a result of a slight injury. He appeared on the field yesterday and seemed fit, so will probably be on hand at the starting whistle.

The probable lineup will be as follows:

Parkhurst and Thompson, ends; Baker and Story, tackles; Guiney and Martindale, guards; Brin, centre; Jackson, quarter back; Cann and Weinheimer, halves, and Horrigan, full. This combination was used yesterday and seems the logical choice.

PRINCETON ON EDGE FOR COLGATE GAME

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—This is the eve of Princeton's first big game of the year. Football enthusiasts in the East will shift their interest to the Palmer Memorial Stadium tomorrow afternoon to follow the progress of the clash between the Orange and Black eleven and Colgate's big Maroon team. Special trains will leave the Pennsylvania Station for Princeton at 9, 11 and 12.

In former years this would have been the time of the Dartmouth game and more excitement would have manifested itself than is the rule in the preliminary games, but the interest in the outcome of tomorrow's game which is displayed on the campus approaches in intensity that evidenced before a contest with the Crimson or with Old Eli.

Colgate comes here with an unbeaten team, one which has already crushed Cornell by 21 to 0. Whether or not the Tigers, with a green and untried team, can check the rush of the New Yorkers is a question which, when answered, will probably indicate pretty distinctly where this year's championship is going.

Roper Not Saying Much.

Bill Roper, Princeton's head coach, was not in a prophesying mood this afternoon at practice. He refused to express an opinion on the probable outcome of the game, but he did say that he was well pleased with the progress made by the team this week and that the men would make a good showing tomorrow.

He let his 'Varsity men off with a light workout today and sent them to the showers an hour earlier than usual. The 'Varsity and the second eleven lined up against each other for a kicking-off drill to start the day, with Keck on the operating end of the first team. A long signal drill followed. There were no changes in the lineup, and it is safe to assume that the team that has taken the field as the 'Varsity for the last three days will open against the Hamilton collegians tomorrow.

The line has been driven to the limit this week and beneficial results are apparent in the way the forwards charge together on the offensive and break through on the defense. If the Tiger linemen can hold their own tomorrow the struggle will be a fierce one all the way. Wittmer, who has been at full back all week, went through a long punting session this afternoon and he was getting good distance. If he goes out Trimble, who, by his great individual work, contributed largely to the victory over Rochester, will take up the kicking burden.

The water-soaked gridiron hampered speedy work and practice was called off for the day after Jack Strubing had sent the 'Varsity through all its scoring tactics.

Second Visit of Colgate.

The only other time that Colgate has sent a football team to Princeton was in 1911 when Eddie Harts's Tigers took the New Yorkers on for a 31 to 0 victory. In 1917 Anderson and Captain West of the Maroon team came up here with an officers' team from Camp Dix to go down to a 7 to 0 defeat before the Orange and Black informal outfit.

The teams will line up tomorrow as follows:

PRINCETON.		COLGATE.
Bigler	L. E.	Harris
Keck	L. T.	West
Dickinson	L. G.	Martin
Callahan	C.	Burton
McGraw	R. G.	Woodman
Parisette	R. T.	Wooster
Williams	R. E.	Cottrell
Strubing	Q. B.	Anderson
Trimble	L. H. B.	Watkins
McPhee	R. H. B.	Laird
Wittmer	F. B.	Gillo

ELIS ARE NOT FEARFUL.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 24.—Tufts College, which plays here tomorrow, is a newcomer on the Yale football schedule, but the Eli coaches tonight did not fear another such upset as Boston College produced last week.

Today's practice was another bill of signal work and breaking through, with special attention to the formations which have been taught during the past two weeks. A more effective protective formation for the punters has been devised, and close attention to this was a feature of today's drill. Jack French, who will do the Yale distance kicking tomorrow, was again the centre of the formation. Herbert Kempton and French are likely to be called upon for drop-kicking attempts.

Uncertainty regarding the Yale lineup will prevail until the game begins tomorrow. The coaches are in doubt about starting Dickens at tackle, but tonight indications were that Walker and Dickens would be the selections. The coaches have not decided whether to use Acosta at guard or tackle. A combination which is favored for tomorrow is that of Galt at right guard, with Acosta at left guard.

Webb, who has rapidly developed from a fourth to a second string player, is favored to start tomorrow's game at full back, with Jack French and Paul Crane as his two companion backs. There is just a possibility, however, that Aldrich will be selected for one of the backfield places. Yale has a hospital ward filled with backfield cripples, including Jim Braden, Thorne Murphy, Joe Neville, Bob Lay, and Donald Welles. Chester La Roche has been on the third eleven all the week. Herbert Kempton has been kicked to run the eleven tomorrow, with Jim Neville as substitute. La Roche, who is a veteran of two seasons, must convince the coaches of improved field generalship before he can be reinstated as first string quarter back.

YALE.		TUFTS.
Reinhardt	L. E.	Cahma
Walker	L. T.	Fasioli
Acosta	L. G.	Huggins
Galvin	C.	Pryor
Galt	R. G.	Beecham
Dickens	R. T.	Sellew
Allen	R. E.	Riordan
Kempton	Q. B.	Sanford
Crane	L. H. B.	Thornton
French	R. H. B.	Keefe
Webb	F. B.	McNamara

TUFTS HAS CONFIDENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 24.—The Tufts football eleven, in fine trim, displays unbounded confidence that it will turn back the Yale Bulldog at New Haven tomorrow. Tufts has a rugged eleven, heavy, fast and with a lot of power. Its coaches express themselves with a confidence equal to that of the players as to the outcome of tomorrow's game.

The Tufts team has this season shown a splendid power of attack and it does not conceal the belief that it will meet with success against the Blue in carrying the ball. As it was uncurated the first of the season it looked like a wonder, then came accidents to the stars and the team had its troubles, but for tomorrow's battle these stars are again back in the lineup.

Past players like Cahoon, Galloway, Shellew, Thornton and Mitchell, in practice the past few days, were apparently as good as new and the team has now reached the very top of condition.

The Tufts contingent is conscious of the fact that it is catching Yale at a disadvantage, the latter eleven being handicapped by the loss of many of its first-string men, and is prepared to press this advantage to its utmost. A record delegation of Tufts students will go to New Haven with the team to see the battle.

COLUMBIA TEAM IS WORKED IN SECRET

Secret practice yesterday marked the end of Columbia's preparation for the game with Amherst this afternoon on South Field. At the conclusion of the Freshmen-Hamilton Institute battle, Head Coach Fred Dawson banished all the spectators from the field and with no alien eyes looking on gave his charges their final instructions.

The secrecy extended even to the lineup, which was in doubt at the end of the practice. No important changes are anticipated, however, unless Modarelli should be started at right guard in place of Hinch.

Amherst will have its full strength. Davison, the left end, who was shaken up in the Trinity game, will be in shape for today's encounter, and the backfield is intact. Zink will be at quarter back, Glenn Card and Captain Phillips at the halves, and Demarest at full back.

With memories of Benny Boynton still fresh, Columbia will be on the watch today for one Zink, who performs at quarter back for the visiting team. He is still remembered on Morningside Heights as the particular star of last year's game, when Amherst was beaten by a 21-7 score by the S. A. T. C. team. Zink tallied the only touchdown for the losers and was a thorn in Columbia's side. He is said to be playing an even better game this season.

There is no lack of confidence on Morningside Heights, despite the discouraging result against Williams. A hard-fought game is the prediction, with the odds even. It is an open secret that Coach Dawson expects good things today and the campus seems willing to accept his word for it.

Elaborate precautions will be taken to handle the large crowd that is expected. An extra force of guardians will be stationed at strategic points around the field and every effort will be made to keep the sidelines clear of those who are forced to stand. The sale of tickets was said last night at the athletic office to be as large as that last Saturday, when all records for Columbia were broken. The game will begin promptly at two o'clock.

For the first time in the history of American college football a reigning monarch will be a spectator. King Albert of Belgium, his Queen and the Crown Prince will be present this afternoon at the Columbia-Amherst game at South Field. The King is to address the Columbia University trustees in the University library, where he will be received by President Nicholas Murray Butler, and later will cross 116th Street to South Field, entering by the main gate, and will view the contest from the box of honor along the side lines.

Kennedy	L. E.	Davison
Tower	L. T.	Vail
Forsyth	L. G.	Reusswig
Klenninger	C.	Olsen
Hinch	R. G.	Barney
Scovil	R. T.	Clark
Weinstein	R. E.	Brisk
Quigley	Q. B.	Zink
Canapary	L. H. B.	Card
Shaw	R. H. B.	Phillips

The first of the four important intercollegiate football games scheduled for the Polo Grounds this season will be played this afternoon by the teams representing Dartmouth and Cornell. Dartmouth is the favorite, as the Green eleven has made a more impressive record to date than have the Ithacans, but Coach Rush has given his charges special work for today's game and the Cornell eleven can be expected to give the New Englanders a hard fight.

Dartmouth is unbeaten to date, having defeated in turn the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College team, Norwich University, Massachusetts Aggies and Penn State. Cornell has played three games, defeating Oberlin and Williams, and then losing to Colgate. During the last few days the coaches have devoted considerable time to eradicating faults which cropped out in the Colgate game and a stronger Cornell team is looked for at the Polo Grounds this afternoon.

The Cornell attack is built around Shiverick, the star quarterback of the up-State eleven. Shiverick was a star at Ithaca before he entered the service and he has been playing this year up to his old-time form. He is a drop kicker of marked ability and Dartmouth is likely to be scored on if the Cornellians get the ball within forty yards of the Hanover goal posts. Shiverick is also a great runner in a broken field, a fine tackler and is clever in the use of the forward pass.

Big Jim Robertson, left halfback of the Dartmouth eleven, is also a drop kicker of merit, and with these two in the game there should be plenty of spectacular football at the Polo Grounds. Cannell, quarterback, and Robertson are the headliners of the Hanover squad.

The two football squads, each accompanied by about 600 students, arrived here last night on special trains and are quartered at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The Dartmouth contingent brought along a band. Cornell dispensed with the music but brought down Touchdown III, the bear cub which is the official mascot of the Ithacans. The band and the bear will be side features to the gridiron struggle this afternoon. Each football squad numbers about thirty players, with Coaches Spears and Rush in charge. Today's game will start at 2 o'clock.

The lineup of the teams and the officials will be as follows:

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 24.—On the eve of the battle with Boston College on the Plains gridiron here tomorrow the Army football men went through a light workout. There was no scrimmaging, but the punters, McQuarrie, Clark, Lystad, and Warren, were sent through a long kicking drill, with the forwards going down under the ball, and the 'Varsity was driven through a half hour's snappy signal practice, during which all the plays to be used tomorrow were rehearsed with painstaking care.

Although Breidster is still the only regular not back in the lineup, the big fellow's guard position is being well cared for by Bryan, who will start tomorrow's game. The Army is in fair physical condition, and expects to give the collegians a hard fight, although the most optimistic of the Army's supporters hardly expect the soldiers to down the conquerors of Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24.—The steady rain prevented the Navy squad from engaging in a scrimmage in preparation for the Bucknell game. However, the A. squad went on the field yesterday afternoon for a short time, running through such offensive plays as were found to be weak in the scrimmage on Wednesday. The coach then went through a long blackboard talk on the defense for the game. The entire squad took such light work as making sure of signals and passing the ball, in spite of the fact that Alford was calling signals.

The authorities are not sure yet whether Alford's injuries will incapacitate him for the game. Bucknell undoubtedly will present a stiff opposition to the midshipmen, as indicated by their playing against Lebanon last Saturday. The men here are well aware of the fact that it may be one of those games in which the breaks may count.

REYNOLDS AND KNIGHT OUT.

Favorites Eliminated in Atlantic City Golf Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 24.—In two matches carried to the home green, Walter Reynolds of Aronimink and Fred Knight of Whitemarsh, the favorites, were defeated in the second round of the Fall golf tournament at the Country Club of Atlantic City today. E. C. Clarey, the sturdy Bala player, who gave a good account of himself in the national championship at Oakmont, defeated Knight. Reynolds lost to D. R. Meigs of Seaview.

Earlier in the day James C. Parrish, Jr., of the National Links was downed by Frank W. Harper of Trenton. Another Trenton golfer to come through was Chester L. Maxwell, who won in the afternoon over H. K. Read of the home club. Prior to that Maxwell had defeated Frank Donahue, the Buck Hill Falls entrant.

Maxwell will meet Meigs in the upper semi-final bracket, which leaves Clarey and Harper to fight it out on the lower side.

First Sixteen.

FIRST ROUND—Walter H. Reynolds, Aronimink, defeated Herbert C. Buchanan, Shackamaxon, 3 and 2; D. R. Meigs, Seaview, defeated T. B. Wootton, Atlantic City, 5 and 4; H. K. PROAL IS VICTOR IN N. Y. A. C. GOLF

Defeats Hamilton by One Stroke in Notable Match and Reaches Semi-Final Round.

Contrary to expectations, there were few defaults yesterday in the opening of the match playing for the New York A. C. golf championship, and three full sixteens congregated at Fox Hills on Staten Island to show their wares. W. L. Richard, the medalist of Thursday, cavorted along through the first and second rounds and landed feet first into the semi-final round. Pierre A. Proal of Deal also came on into the chosen quartet, and this morning the two will fight it out for the honor of entering the final round to be played at 2 o'clock this afternoon. In the lower half of the draw, the two semi-finalists are A. Elliot Ranney of Greenwich and C. H. Jennings of St. Andrew's.

A good many of the Mercury Footers stumbled yesterday. They like golf next best to sprinting and their other accomplishments, but they found playing in match rounds rather a harder matter than in the qualifying round. Take Eddie Driggs, for example. This former Princeton half back felt good and proud of his 88 on Thursday, and yesterday morning he got a little more chesty after putting out Theodore Cassebeer of Oakland by 1 up, after twenty holes.

Ranney Defeats Driggs.

In the second round match, however, Eddie had something on his hands in trying to oust Ranney, one of the Greenwich leaders, and he wasn't so successful. Ranney won on the fifteenth hole, 4 and 3. R. L. Spotts, the trap-shooter, was another who failed in the second round test, losing to Richard. Arthur McAleenan, Jr., bumped smack up against difficulties in the morning round. He found Janney too strong for his game and lost, 4 and 3.

L. A. Hamilton, the Garden City golfer, had a day full of events which kept him hustling out of one difficulty into another. In the first round Hamilton was matched against Wesley M. Oler, Jr. At the turn matters looked bad indeed for Hamilton. He was three down and Oler was doing his best to keep him knuckled under. After the tent, owever, Hamilton began to pull out in good form, and he finally won out on the home hole by 1 up. Oler took an 83 for his round.

In the afternoon round Proal was Hamilton's opponent and the gallery at Fox Hills could not have asked for a better match. Hamilton took the first hole, four strokes to five, but Proal then took three in succession and rounded the turn 1 up, after Hamilton ad won the eighth in birdie figures. Hamilton looked even better on the last nine holes, winning the tenth, to put the match all square, losing the eleventh, but winning again on the thirteenth, and again squaring the issue. The Garden City player then doubled up, winning the fourteenth and taking the lead by 1 up.

Advantage Switches Again.

Again the advantage switched back to Proal's favor, when the Deal golfer won the fifteenth, four strokes to five. For the second time Hamilton went to 1 up by winning the sixteenth. But the final two holes baffled him. He needed five for each of them, whereas Proal took the regulation par fours and won by 1 up. At the home hole both were on the edge in two. Hamilton put his approach put five feet short and Proal ran up to about eighteen inches. The latter sunk his ball without batting an eyelash, but Hamilton missed his tap.

Proal—
Out	5	5	4	5	3	5	3	4	4	5—40
In	6	5	4	5	4	4	4	4	4	6—42—82
Hamilton—

In	4	6	4	6	4	5	5	5	5	—42—81

The scores:

First Round—R. L. Spotts, Fox Hills, defeated H. L. Stratton, Siwanoy, 2 and 1; W. L. Richard, Engineers, defeated Max B. Kaesche, Jr., Westchester County, 4 and 2; Pierre A. Proal, Deal, defeated R. Collier, Dunwoodie, 4 and 2; L. A. Hamilton, Garden City, defeated Wesley M. Oler, Jr., 1 up; C. Morris, Dunwoodie, 3 and 2; Captain S. M. Milliken, Scarsdale, defeated M. J. Grammont, Fox Hills, 3 and 2; A. E. Ranney, Greenwich, defeated Arthur McAleenan, Jr., Hollywood, 4 and 3; E. H. Driggs, Jr., Engineers, defeated Theodore Cassebeer, Oakland, 1 up, (20 holes.)

Second Round.—Richard defeated Spotts, 3 and 4; Proal defeated Hamilton, 1 up; Jennings defeated Milliken, 5 and 4; Ranney defeated Driggs, 4 and 3.

CAPITOL THEATRE OPENS TO THRONG

"Largest in the World" Is a Magnificent Picture House Finished in Empire Style.

The Capitol, New York's newest, largest, and most pretentious picture theatre, at Broadway and Fifty-first Street, last night opened its doors to the public. Its vast auditorium was filled with a crowd unusual for its size and the number of well-known persons present.

Although motion pictures are to be featured at the Capitol and may be said to form the main body of its entertainment, the new theatre depends even less than its predecessors—the Strand, the Rialto and the Rivoli—upon the screen alone. The principal numbers on its program last night, and for the next week, were Douglas Fairbanks's most recent picture, "His Majesty, the American," and a spectacular "Demi Tasse" revue staged by Ned Wayburn, in a dozen scenes, with ten principals and a chorus, the music and lyrics for which were composed by Rennold Wolf, Dave Stamper, Leo Edwards, and others.

Elaborate as the program was, however, the interest of last night's audience was first centred on the magnificent theatre itself. One is impressed first with its size, some idea of which may be conveyed by figures. It is advertised as "the largest theatre in the world," and probably no house will dispute the claim. Its seating capacity is said to be more than 5,300, and this may be compared with the capacity of the Hippodrome, which is 4,623; the Metropolitan Opera House, which is 3,800, and Carnegie Hall, which is 2,6.2. Compared with other motion picture theatres in the city the Capitol's figures are even more imposing. The Strand seats 2,989, the Rivoli 2,206 and the Rialto 1,960.

But the size of the Capitol cannot be considered apart from its splendid interior decoration and arrangement. It is finished generally in the Empire style. The entrance lobby, with walls of marble, is in gold glazed with green and a shade described rather accurately as café au lait. The main lobby is walled with walnut, and the ceiling is ornamented with Roman gold and café au lait tints. Within five panels are inclosed murals by William Cotton, an American artist.

From the main lobby a marble staircase rises to the grand promenade, which has an arched ceiling decorated in ivory and gold with cameo panels. On the wall is another mural by Mr. Cotton which is seventy-two feet long. The promenade is furnished with divans and chairs for the comfort of those waiting or resting.

The auditorium of the building is, of course, its most spacious apartment. The orchestra will seat 2,750 and the balcony about as many more. There is no gallery. The balcony is supported by an application of the cantilever system, and no pillars rise from the orchestra floor except at the sides. The great ceiling is divided into one great and several smaller domes, and gold and café au lait predominate in its coloring, as in the treatment of the walls and proscenium, the opening in which is sixty-one feet wide and fifty feet high.

Conspicuous in the fittings of the Capitol are French rock-crystal chandeliers. Eleven of these hang from the main ceiling and others are distributed in the promenade and main lobby. They were cut and arranged in their present form by Black & Boyd, and it is reported that their value is $75,000.

The total cost of the theatre building is announced as more than $2,000,000. The site upon which it was erected is said to be worth $3,000,000. The architect for the building was Thomas W. Lamb and the interior decoration is the work of Cooper, Sampietro & Gentiluomo.

The organ was built in Brattleboro, Vt., and is the largest ever made by the Estey Organ Company.

The program last night was composed of nine numbers. After an overture played on the organ came news pictures, and then "Tone Poem After Sunset," played by Pryor's band, which will provide music for the theatre regularly. Next was Gounod's "Mireille," sung by Lucille Chalfant, and after it the "Capitol Color-Land Revue," a beautiful Prizma picture. Pryor's band, led this time by Arthur Pryor himself, contributed several selections which were enthusiastically applauded, and after it came a series of amusing pictures including sketches from life by Hy Mayer. "The Eternal Triangle," a Universal comedy in which dogs were the almost human actors, and scenes of Ned Wayburn directing rehearsals for the revue.

And then the revue. "Demi Tasse" apparently doesn't mean small and after all of the big things, for the revue might be a show in itself. It is spectacular, pleasingly costumed, and some of its scenes are noteworthy, even as compared with Broadway's best. There is a lovely setting by John Wenger, entitled "Shadowland," and "Milady's Dressing Table" is an altogether dainty act. The finale employs "The Capitol Tower," a typical Ned Wayburn creation. It includes a double spiral stairway which revolves, illuminated, while loaded with twinkling star-girls.

The performers are clever, and some of them sing and dance excellently. They are Paul Frawley, Lucille Chalfant, Muriel de Forrest, Dorothy Miller, Janet Stone, Pearl Regay, James Toney, Cass Freeborn, Mae West, Will Crutchfield, and Ann Norman.

The entertainment came to a late end with "His Majesty, the American." This is the first of the pictures released by the Fairbanks-Pickford-Chaplin-Griffith combination, and shows Douglas Fairbanks in a more than characteristic role. He is a sort of composite American of the decidedly strenuous life. Joseph Henaberry, one of the best directors who ever worked with Fairbanks, was the man with the megaphone.

The Capitol was erected through the initiative of Messmore Kendall, a lawyer and capitalist, and it is owned by the Moredall Realty Corporation, of which Mr. Kendall is the president. Edward Bowes is the vice president and managing director of the theatre. On his executive staff are John Wenger, art director; Arthur Pryor, musical director; Ned Wayburn, stage director; Charles Reis, house manager; William J. O'Brien and Edward Berry, assistant house managers, and Ben H. Atwell, director of publicity.

'THE GEISHA' GAYLY REVIVED

American Singers in Musical Comedy of the Late 90s at Daly's.

"The Geisha" sold out the Park Theatre last night, or so nearly that, as to put this musical comedy of Sidney Jones, Owen Hall, and Percy Greenbank, of the late 90's at Daly's—the pre-"Florodora" period—back into the running today with the American singers' Gilbert and Sullivan revivals, such as their current "Pinafore." As chief of geishas, O Mimosa San, there appeared the Lady Tsen Mei, born in Canton, brought up in Pittsburgh, and bearer of degrees in Western learning, for she is said to be a Bachelor of Arts of Pennsylvania, and Bachelor of Laws of Columbia.

Tsen Mei sang the jewel of Asia with a voice of individual, even of exotic quality, without the shrill artificialities of the Oriental stage. She was quaint and pretty, too. It was perhaps in deference to her that the girls in the Tea House of 10,000 Joys wore satin robes patterned rather on Chinese pajamas than Japanese kimonos, but the tea garden was a true picture of cherry blossom time, and Nippon itself might have sent the bouquets of chrysanthemums that were carried to the footlights.

From Cora Tracy in royal purple butterfly attire to Gladys Caldwell as Molly Seamore and Frank Moulan as Wun Hi —recalling Minnie Ashley and James Powers—the thirty members of Mr. Hinshaw's cast gave a good account of themselves. There was lightness and charm among the geishas, while the English sea lads, Morton Adkins, Bertram Peacock and others, supplied a sturdy contrast and some British humor. Ralph Brainard sang Capt. Katana, and Herbert Waterous was Marquis Imari, in whose more noble gardens the festivities ended. The production was staged by Charles Jones, and the conductor was John McGhie.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Governor Smith tonight sent a letter to ex-Senator James A. Foley, candidate for Surrogate in New York County, which read in part:

"It is the unanimous opinion throughout the central part of the State, not only of Democrats, but also of Republicans, that your absence from the Senate will be a distinct loss to the State itself. You leave Albany with a reputation for progressive legislation. It is widely said on all sides that the City of New York loses one of the best champions it ever had in either house of the Legislature. Your battles in the interest of the people of the city, resulting in substantial gains to them, particularly the telephone rate reduction, were fought without noise or glamour.

"It is the opinion of all that you will grace the bench of the Surrogates' Court, where integrity, diligence, experience and intelligence are requisite. You deserve well of your constituency, which in reality is the whole County of New York, and any person that urges that they are lacking in a proper sense of appreciation is really without knowledge of our old town."

Names State Aviation Board.

ALBANY, Oct. 24.—The appointment of this State Aviation Commission was announced by Governor Smith tonight to make a study of the regulation and promotion of aeronautics and report to him suggestions for legislation.

Colonel Jefferson De Mont Thompson, Chief of the Air Service of the New York City Police Reserves; Colonel Archie Miller, commanding Air Service activities at Hazelhurst Field, Long Island; Robert Graves of New York City, prominent in aeronautic circles; Senator Frederick M. Davenport, Clinton, and Assemblyman John F. Shannon, Troy.

MUSIC

Lester Donahue and Cecil Burleigh.

Lester Donahue, who has made a pleasant impression by his piano recitals here in previous years, played again in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. He did not appear to so good advantage as he has before in Busoni's arrangement of Bach's prelude and fugue in D major. There was a nice sense of tonal values and color, but there was too much technical inaccuracy in his playing of it.

In Chopin's B minor Sonata Mr. Donahue made a promising start, but lost himself in the mazes of the first movement. After a manly apology to the audience, which was received with applause, he found the way again and finished it, and the other three movements, in a performance that hardly scaled the heights on which the music moves. Mr. Donahue plays in an unaffected style, with an unquestioned musical feeling, but it seemed as if he had not made the progress as an artist that his excellent beginning entitled him to. His program included a group of Debussy numbers, a polka by Rachmaninoff, and Palakireff's "Au Jardin" and "Islamey," the last named being a piece to test the courage of the stoutest hearted.

In the evening Cecil Burleigh, a young American violinist with American training, gave a recital in which he showed a free and energetic style, possessing a certain engaging buoyancy and spirit, and also not a little breadth, yet somewhat lacking in finish. Mr. Burleigh has a dexterous and elastic bow arm, but his intonation was not, last evening, always perfect, especially in his playing of double stops and in the execution of rapid passage work.

His program contained Handel's D Major Sonata and two movements by Bach, the rest being his own compositions, his second concerto and a group of short "characteristic" pieces, "poems" [illegible] pictures. Mr. Burleigh's music is not unknown to New York but the concerto was heard here for the first time. It is based almost wholly on themes of an Indian character, though as stated in a note upon the program no authentic Indian motives are used. Mr. Burleigh has had no difficulty in mastering the idiom, however, and his first movement, particularly, is a well made specimen of what may be done with this material, always intractable and hard to manage. There are imagination and skill in the way it has been treated, and while the movement is not exempt from some of the monotony that is a part of the Indian musical scheme, it is effective.

There is less value in the other two, though the listener eagerly seizes upon a theme in the last that brings him back to the white man's way of musical thinking. The movement, called a "chant," is unpretentious and pleasing, hardly developed beyond the form of a song.

McBRIDE'S POLICY

THE extravagantly high premiums that are being charged for theatre tickets at various offices all over town discourages theatre going, hurts theatre management and therefore impels us to repeat our long established policy to our patrons.

Our fixed charge for service of fifty cents per ticket over box office prices is the cornerstone upon which our business was founded forty-six years ago, and we limit ourselves to that moderate amount.

A recent law fixes that amount as the standard. This was our practice long before the law.

With the high cost of living we appreciate the theatre-going public cannot afford unreasonable prices for amusement and we want our patrons to know that so far as McBride's is concerned there is now no higher cost of tickets over box office prices than heretofore.

We are the same people who started this business, father and sons, and we propose to continue to deserve the approval of the theatre-going public and the theatre management by standing for a square deal—a square deal to one and all alike—by making theatre going a real pleasure and not carrying with it a feeling of injustice in ticket buying.

Our policy is to stabilize the business for the benefit of all.

URGES RESTORATION OF TRADE FREEDOM

'SEE CREDIT' FOR EUROPE

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 24.—Adopting, unanimously, a resolution calling for the ending of Government control and restriction on commerce and industry, the International Trade Conference ended tonight its week of discussion of world trade problems. The meeting also went on record as favoring the establishment of a world chamber of commerce and delegates from France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium were appointed to co-operate with American delegates in the work of the actual forming of the international commercial organization.

The final meeting, held on the Million Dollar Pier, drew an attendance of several thousand. Alfred C. Bedford, Chairman of the Board of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, presided. He predicted disaster unless "strikes now threatened" were called off. Besides him the speakers were William G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Harry A. Wheeler of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Mr. Bedford declared that the deliberations of the conference had been very fruitful" and said that there was no doubt in his mind regarding the future safety and prosperity of Europe. As he put it, his faith in world commerce had been renewed through the reports of the foreign delegates submitted at the meetings

"We have laid here," he said, "the foundations for the establishment of a permanent international commercial organization, a permanent medium through which the business men may co-operate in promoting intelligent and broad-minded commercial development in behalf of the prosperity of the world. This is a great achievement, and one of the foundations on which we shall hope to build a great structure of international good-will."

Mr. Bedford also said that the conference had clarified the problem of international credit, and also served to indicate the way the American people could be of the greatest service in aiding in the reconstruction of Europe. He declared that to lend to Europe the credits needed for next year, a total of about two billions, would require "saving by everybody," and added that the credit must be extended, for the "salvation of Europe is the salvation of America."

"Our people," he continued, "must also realize that if we are to be able to save the 'wherewithal' with which to bring about the prompt restoration of the productivity of Europe it cannot be accomplished by turmoil and strife at home."

To Meet Credit Needs of Europe.

Final reports of committees appointed to investigate various elements of commerce were submitted at the morning and afternoon sessions. All of them were adopted. Chief among them was the report of the Committee on Finance and Credit, headed by James S. Alexander, President of the National Bank of the Commonwealth in New York.

The Financial Committee reported that the credit needs of Europe could be met. It recommended that steps be taken to expedite the speedy passage of the Edge bill, and to encourage the formation of large corporations for financing foreign trade under such legislation. The report also stated that the situation presented by the state of trade between America and Europe was not one of finance purely, but rather a great world problem not to be solved by a single plan, but with the co-operation of the investment bankers, exporters, producers of export goods and the American investor.

The report stated that the world situation today presents the greatest financial problem of history," but that "with the very difficulty of the problem there goes a challenge to the skill, the ingenuity and the public spirit of America." The report advised the appointment of a committee to work out a plan from the material gathered at the conference.

Under the auspices of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the foreign delegates will tour the industrial centres of the country, starting Monday. The first stop will be Philadelphia, where they will visit the Hog Island shipyards and witness, with King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, the launching of a United States Shipping Board vessel.

Busby Rejoins Police Force.

George Busby, formerly a Police Lieutenant in the Bomb Squad, re-entered the service yesterday after a year's absence. He was assigned to the Homicide Squad. During the last year he has been an Army Captain in the Quartermaster Corps, stationed at Governors Island. Busby has been connected with the Police Department for twenty years. He was sent to the Homicide Squad in 1914, but he may be able to solve some of the murder mysteries that now baffle the police.

SHERIFF MOLLIFIES JUDGE.

Appearing before Judge Louis D. Gibbs, in a Bronx County Court, in answer to a summons directing him to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court for his alleged refusal to abide by an order to take a prisoner to the Post-Graduate Hospital for examination, Sheriff James F. Donnelly, of Bronx County, yesterday told the Judge that he had since taken the prisoner in question to the hospital as directed, and that he had no intention to show contempt. He said it was agreed that, if in the future there were any controversies between him and the court as to the legality of a court order on the matter in question, it would be brought to the Appellate Division for decision.

Judge Gibbs said he, too, was satisfied to let the Appellate Division decide the matter in the future. The dignity of the court had been vindicated, he added, and the contempt proceeding could be regarded as closed.

Donnelly had been ordered by Judge Gibbs to take a prisoner to the Post Graduate Hospital for an examination as to his mental condition. The Sheriff had refused to take the prisoner anywhere except to Bellevue Hospital on the ground that it was the only hospital with a prison ward.

Government Buys Hospital Site.

The Federal Government, through Assistant United States District Attorney John Ryan, has taken over the property at Hudson and Harrison Streets formerly used by the New York Hospital as a house of relief. As soon as the transfer is completed the Government will use the property for its Public Health and Marine Hospital service. The price was $225,000.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....5½@5¾ p.c. for the best names
Thursday .....5¾@6¼ p.c. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Combed Fine Goods Up.

The advances made during the week have carried fine combed cotton cloths to record levels. One of the staple combed lawns, for instance, has been raised from 30 to 35 cents. This, it is believed, has set a new mark since civil war days. Combed sateens have also shared in the advance to a similar extent. The demand is described as very large from all quarters and, despite the high prices asked, goods have been moved at the new quotations.

Ask Better Class Overcoatings.

The situation in the overcoating branch of the piece goods market is a reflection of the universal desire for goods of better quality. The higher grades are active, after a spell of dullness, and the medium and cheaper goods are not considered desirable. Conditions in the men's wear branch of the trade are thus found similar to what prevails in the dress goods line, where the heavy weight, cheap materials are going by the board in favor of lighter and better-made fabrics.

Types of Winter Hats.

In a line of Winter hats now being shown all the popular furs are made up in combination with duvetyn and brocaded fabrics. Brocades are especially emphasized for both street and evening wear, and stress is also laid on the use of mole, squirrel, and seal. Toques and off-the-face shapes predominate for street wear. Combinations are also offered in fur and leather, including some little trotteur hats made of all the dark popular shades combined with fur. There are little crushed turbans, chin chins, and tam turbans on which the leather is used for the crown with a soft furry band next to the face to give a soft effect.

Prices on Airplane Linens.

Prices on the British airplane linen, for which they are agents in this country, it was stated yesterday by the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission Company, will be announced on Monday. Samples will be distributed in about a week's time. Two to three hundred thousand yards of the material will reach here shortly on the Mauretania. All grades of the linen will be shown in samples bleached and dyed by the Bradford Dyers' Association. A large number of inquiries have been received regarding the fabric, and it is believed that even though the amount is large it will be quickly sold.

Increase Equals Former Volume.

The weekly reports received here by the partner in a clothing concern doing business in the South show remarkable gains. The last one put the increase for the period at more than $4,000. In view of the fact that before the war the total year's business was about $200,000, on the present basis the weekly increase amounts to that figure. Plans are being laid by this firm to buy as heavily as possible for the coming Spring season, as prospects are considered good, and last year it was found that ability to sell was limited only by the quantity of merchandise on hand.

Brogues and Woolen Hose.

A style very popular in London at the present time has "caught on" in this country, and the combination for men of brogues and woolen hose is making excellent headway. As a measure of economy the style commends itself, because the Summer oxford can be worn for weeks longer than it would be otherwise. But sellers of woolen hose do not profess to see such economy as the reason for increased sales of their product. Rather, in their opinion, is it the desire of men to adopt a little style change or the sort when it appears attractive. Another reason put forward is that many men found the woolen army sock a very comfortable article and are continuing to use it now that they are back in "cits."

Weak Work and Prices.

There is now a feeling among women's garment manufacturers that the factor of increased cost, due to the establishment of the week-work in place of the piece-work system, may play a more important part in high prices than it was realized. This point has occurred to some of the leaders in the trade who have not been entirely satisfied that the cost of raw material and other items was alone at the basis of values. Accustomed to piece-work prices which enabled them to know with the best accuracy just what production cost them, some of the manufacturers, it is explained, may have added unconsciously to their profits when dealing with the new system that does not show costs so easily and correctly.

Gray Goods Prices Stay Firm.

Not so much activity was apparent in the local gray goods market yesterday as on some previous days, but prices remained firm and, in the case of sateens, an advance was made of a cent a yard. In the printcloths 29-inch 72-76s sold from first hands at 24 cents for delivery up to March and 68-72s in the same width went at 23½ cents as far forward as June. Both first and second hands sold 38-inch 64-60s up to March at 18¼ cents, while Southern 39-48s in the same width were held at 15¾ cents. Five-yard sheetings were disposed of by second hands for nearby delivery at 16 cents and 5.50s were dealt in in a large way up to March at 14½ cents. Some fine-yarn goods sold at prevailing prices. In the tailors' specialties the demand continues better than the supply.

Many oil tankers for the Texas and Mexico oil trade are under construction, or about to be built, at Baltimore shipyards. The Baltimore Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co. is building four 6,000-ton and six 10,500-ton tankers, all for the Government, and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation is building five 10,000-ton vessels for the Shipping Board and two for the Standard Oil Co.'s local plant, and within a few weeks expects to complete terms for the construction of a fleet of 20,000-ton tankers. Both companies for years have been turning out these vessels regularly. The capacity of tankers for ocean trade has shown the same rapid increase noticeable in the rail tank car.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

A deduction to be drawn form yesterday's stock market was that over-zealous speculators had been taught a little caution by the precipitate reaction of Thursday, while underlying conditions had been improved. Prices showed considerable strength after a period of hesitation after the opening; in fact, threre were notably strong spots among the miscellaneous industrial shares, but business was orderly throughout the day and few issues were subjected to an organized upbidding. Railroad stocks gave a good account of themselves. In brokerage offices discussions were heard over the progress at Washington in formulating legislation for returning the carriers to their quondam ownership and control, and the drift of comment indicated hope that before many days news would come of much progress upon the measures now under consideration. The turnover of stocks was about 2¼ per cent. less than the day before, and the bond market also disclosed a contraction of dealings. Railroad bonds in the active group were mainly in the convertible class. Call money loaned at 5 and 4½ per cent.

The character of the stock market persuaded many confirmed bulls that Thursday's set back had been in the nature of a "shakeout" of inadequately protected accounts whose difficulties came from too great a hurry for large profits. The renewed advance of the more prominent stocks—among them numerous issues of new appearance on the Stock Exchange—was no more directed by outside events than any part of the earlier rise of the week and the week before. It may be said that the major following of the current market is influenced to a greater extent by the record of the ticker itself than through conditions of industry and finance, present or of the near future. At the same time it would be reflective of prejudiced opinion to assume that no firmer an underpinning of the market exists than is supplied by grasping speculators, for evidence comes from many quarters that stock has been bought in quantity by far-sighted traders who calculate in terms of months and base their calculations upon basic phenomena. Such holdings have no part in day to day fluctuations, except to help limit floating supplies of stocks, and they reflect a long-range view of the country's possibilities for business, crops and production and sale of raw materials. The register a belief that labor troubles will later meld into better co-operation between employers and employes.

The foreign trade figures for September came in for considerable study. Bankers who echo the opinion expressed by Dwight W. Morrow before the Trade Conference at Atlantic City, that the United States needs to import quantities of foreign goods in order to help correct a distorted situation of international finance, found indication that the movement was showing its head. Imports of $435,000,000 in the month exceeded by more than $90,000,000 the previous high record, established last July. The greatest month of last year was $322,800,000 in May, and prior to the outbreak of the war the $200,000,000 mark was never reached by a wide margin. The movement which resulted in a trade balance smaller than that of any month since 1915, with the exception of two or three, was all the more noteworthy, inasmuch as exports of September were on a broad scale also, amounting to $593,000,000.

Agricultural Shows Surplus.

The International Agricultural Corporation for the year ended June 30, 1919, reports a surplus of $1,537,858, or the equivalent of $11.78 a share on the preferred stock, after all charges and Federal taxes. In the preceding year the surplus was $1,044,933, or $8 a share. The gross profits were $4,745,553, or a gain of about $230,000 over 1918.

TRUMBULL DRAFTS A RAILROADS POLICY

LATTER TO ACQUIRE STOCKS

Government to Give Guarantees for New Issues—Provision for Profit-Sharing.

Frank Trumbull, President of the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Hocking Valley Railway Companies, has forwarded a plan for the solution of the railroad problem to the Chairmen of both the Senate and House Committees on Interstate Commerce. It provides for co-operation among the carriers, the establishment of an Independent Federal Transportation Board, the organization of from twelve to eighteen Federal corporations to acquire existing companies on the basis of a valuation of their stocks, and the readjustment of rates, so that the yield would be at least 6 per cent. net operating income in each region, with a fair distribution of earnings above this minimum.

The plan, which has been read by a number of bankers, who are understood to consider it favorably, provides in part:

"First—Establish an independent Federal Transportation Board in Washington, consisting of not over five members, chosen from the fields of railway operation, railway labor, commerce, agriculture and banking, appointments to be made for a long tenure, with salaries sufficient to command the best administrative talent. This Federal Transportation Board to relieve the Interstate Commerce Commission of its present executive and administrative functions, and to have such new functions as Congress may determine, and to be particularly charged with financial responsibility in the interest of the whole public, and to have the supervision of all railway security issues.

"Second—New Federal corporations not less than twelve nor more than eighteen in number, to be organized by the Federal Transportation Board. These corporations to be empowered to issue stock or obligations, to acquire the stocks, and wherever desirable the obligations of existing companies. Titles to the properties themselves could be taken later, if desirable, subject to debt then outstanding. The Federal Transportation Board to determine the grouping of roads into twelve, or not more than eighteen, competitive systems. Stocks of existing companies to be acquired by these new companies—observing allotment of existing lines to the new companies as decided upon by the Federal Transportation Board.

Adjustment of Incomes.

"Acquisitions to be made upon the basis of fair value of the stocks—net corporate income for a fair period to be a prominent factor. Adjustment of incomes to be made so as to allow, on the one hand, for investments which had not fructified, and on the other hand for deferred maintenance and depreciation, if any. Acquisitions to be made under direction of the Federal Transportation Board, by agreements with the present owners or by arbitration or condemnation.

"Third—As private investors are asked to contribute capital, either as now existent or for new purposes, the Government should contribute security, particularly as the Government has complete control over revenue and in the public interest is taking more and more control over operations. The Government should have responsibility as well as power. It should for the public welfare get 'under' the railroads as well as over them. The Government would have to furnish money if private investors do not. The stocks of the new corporations should therefore be guaranteed by the Government, the rate of guarantee to be such as will sell the new stocks at par at time of issue. Coupled with this should be a profit-sharing arrangement as hereinafter suggested.

"Fourth—The Interstate Commerce Commission to act as a quasi-judicial tribunal and to have charge of accounts; also to be supported by regional commissions. Rates to be so adjusted as to yield at least 6 per cent. net operating income on the railway property of a region. State commissions not to be abolished.

"Fifth—No new or branch line of railroad exceeding —— miles in length to be constructed without a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the Federal Transportation Board.

"Seventh—Directors of new corporations to reside in territory served by them, and to be made up of representatives of the shareholders, the workers and commercial and agricultural interests. Directors to be paid sufficient salaries to command the best talent for administration, and not to have any conflicting interests.

Explains British Act.

On this point Mr. Trumbull says that under a recent act of the British Parliament a Ministry of Transport (Cabinet office) was established, with powers similar to those of the Director General of Railroads in this country. Under this act all powers relating to transport of existing Government departments are transferred to the new Ministry. He explains the powers of the new Ministry briefly and in his ninth and last provision for a plan of railroad co-operation in the United States says:

"If the stock has a true earning power of 6 per cent. per annum and its value be determined by capitalizing that—it would receive in par of stock of the new Federal corporation.

If capitalized on a 5 per cent. basis, 120
If capitalized on a 6 per cent. basis, 100
If capitalized on a 7 per cent. basis, 85.71
If capitalized on an 8 per cent. basis, 75

"If the true earning power be 18 per cent. per annum, it would receive in par of stock of the new Federal corporation:

If capitalized on a 5 per cent. basis, 360
If capitalized on a 6 per cent. basis, 300
If capitalized on a 7 per cent. basis, 257.14
If capitalized on an 8 per cent. basis, 225

"If the true earning power be 3 per cent. per annum, it would receive in par of stock of the New Federal corporation:

If capitalized on a 5 per cent. basis, 60
If capitalized on a 6 per cent. basis, 50
If capitalized on a 7 per cent. basis, 42.86
If capitalized on an 8 per cent. basis, 37.50

Continuing, Mr. Trumbull says:

"It is impossible to state in advance what the aggregate of new stock values would be under methods suggested herein, but to illustrate the general theory of the program, and only for that purpose, the following figures are set down.

A Solvent Situation.

"The net income of the railroads of the United States available for interest for the calendar year 1917 (last year prior to Government operation) was $938,750,000. Requirements for interest on debts were $477,600,000; remainder, $458,150,000. Any financier would say that this is, as a whole, a solvent situation.

"At the highest prices quoted during the three-year period ended Dec. 31, 1916, the value of the common and preferred stocks aggregate about $6,500,000,000.

"Guaranteed dividends of 5 per cent. per annum, subject to super tax, on an equivalent amount of the new Federal corporation stocks, issued in exchange, would require $325,000,000, leaving a surplus of $131,150,000 to be divided between (1) the holders of the stocks of the new companies in order to retain private initiative, and enterprise; (2) the railway workers, or to be paid into pension or insurance funds for their benefit; and (3) the Government. The stocks of the new companies having been accepted by the holders, subject to provision for profit sharing, that feature would be automatically legalized.

"Every facility should be given railway employes for the purchase by them of the new stocks, either for cash, or under partial payment plans. It is significant that it would be a doubtful kindness to railway workers to urge them to hazard their savings in the stocks of existing companies. The share paid over to the Government should be used by it, first, for making up the deficit, if any, in guarantees to particular new companies, the remainder to be disposed of as Congress may direct."

The foregoing plan is presented by Mr. Trumbull not with the idea of a re-establishment of railway credit in this country. It was prepared while the writer was resting in England during the last six months. In connection with the framing of his plan Mr. Trumbull, who has just returned from England, says:

"I believe the American people would be as proud of prosperity for the whole transportation industry as of prosperous banks, and under no condition could the welfare of their carriers be much more of a political football than it has been for the last fifteen years. Great things have been done under private ownership but great things are not being done, and will not be done, under a partnership in which some of the parties have all of the advantages of regulation, and others all of the advantages of the law of supply and demand—without in either case any of the risk."

$8,686,710 SURPLUS FOR CORN PRODUCTS

PLANTS WILL BE ENLARGED

Company Will Spend $7,500,000 on Improvements at Edgewater, N. J., and Pekin, Ill.

The report of the Corn Products Refining Company for the first nine months of this year, which was issued yesterday, shows a surplus of $8,686,710 after charges, Federal taxes and preferred dividends. This is the equivalent of $17.45 a share on the common stock. For the corresponding period of last year the surplus available for the common was $5,685,961, or the equal of $11.82 a share.

The report shows net earnings, these being computed after deducting charges for maintenance, repairs and estimated excess profits taxes, of $11,658,892, as compared with $8,629,584 in the corresponding period of 1918. The surplus available for the common stock in the present report is the highest that has ever been recorded in any corresponding nine months' period.

The company proposes to spend about $7,500,000 on improvements and extensions at its plants at Edgewater, N. J., and Pekin, Ill., so that the total refining capacity will be approximately 150,000 bushels a day. Included in the plans is a project for building one of the largest piers in the world at the Edgewater refinery, this alone to cost $2,250,000.

The money to finance these improvements will be surplus that is expected to result from the sale of the Novelty Candy Company, the National Starch Company, and the Granite City refinery. The money received from the sale of these properties will be placed in a fund and used for the retirement of whatever bonds outstanding are a lien on the plants which were divorced under a dissolution order by the Government. Until this has been accomplished, it is said the company will not use the surplus funds as outlined. The terms of the Granite City sale provide for the Corn Products Corporation to lease and operate the property at a yearly rental of $1,000,000, until Oct. 1, 1920, when it will receive the selling price of $3,500,000.

The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, reports net profits, after Federal taxes, of $916,309. This compares with net profits of $926,945 in the second quarter. Taken on the basis of the quarterly reports, the net profits for the nine months of this year are $2,839,278, after providing for Federal taxes. In 1918 the net profits were $4,450,289, but only three months' Federal taxes were deducted. The unfilled orders on hand Sept. 30 amounted to $14,542,704. At the close of September, 1918, they amounted to $32,382,835.

TO RAISE $25,000,000.

Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation Will Float New Bond Issue.

New financing to the extent of $25,000,000 was announced yesterday by the directors of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation. This will take the form of 10 year 7 per cent. bonds, convertible into common stock at 80. A special meeting of the stockholders of the corporation will be called within a short time to pass on the proposal. Hayden Stone & Co. and J. and W. Seligman will head a syndicate to underwrite the issue.

It is stated that the money obtained by the bond offering will be used to increase working capital and that none of it will go for extensions or betterments. Their lack of working capital was one of the items to which attention was called in the report to George W. Goethals, who investigated the company some time ago.

This is the second proposal for new financing that has been put forth by the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation this year. Several months ago there was a proposal to float a bond issue of $25,000,000, but this was abandoned, even though the approval of the stockholders had been obtained. In the annual report for last year the floating indebtedness of the company was placed at about $22,000,000. Since that time the debt has been greatly reduced, it is said.

STATE BREWERS MEET.

Will Discontinue Delivery of "Intoxicating" Beer to Dealers Tonight.

The delivery to dealers of beer containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol will be discontinued tonight, and the delivery of bottled beer will probably be discontinued next week, according to a statement made by R. J. Schaefer, President of the New York State Brewers' Association, at a meeting of the brewers held yesterday at 109 East Fifteenth Street to consider the Volstead Prohibition Enforcement bill. The meeting was attended by brewers from Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, Troy, New York City, and Brooklyn.

Mr. Schaefer, who presided at the meeting, said: "The brewers will abide by the provisions of the Volstead bill, which prohibits the manufacture of a malt beverage which contains one-half of 1 per cent. or more of alcohol. Congress has defined beer having one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol as intoxicating. It is not for me to characterize this interpretation of the word 'intoxicating' in the War Prohibition act or to dilate upon the legality of the act itself. That remains for the courts and for the people, whose rights and liberties are infringed upon as well as ours. Until the Congressional ban upon beer of a greater alcoholic content than less than one-half of 1 per cent. is lifted by Presidential proclamation or judicial decree, it is our advice, and I know it will be our resolution, not to manufacture and sell any other product than that permitted by the said act."

BANK ADDS FIVE DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors of the Liberty National Bank was increased yesterday by the election of five former directors of the Scandinavian Trust Company, which recently was absorbed by the Liberty National. The new Directors are Alexander V. Ostrom, former President of the Scandinavian Trust Company and now a Vice President of the Liberty National; Frederick W. Wrosled of Bennett, Wrosled & Co.; C. M. McNeill, President of the Utah Copper Co.; Jeremiah Milbank, Alexander R. Nicol, and E. A. Cappelen-Smith.

The Norwegian Advisory Board, which formerly acted for the Scandinavian Trust Company, will act in similar capacity for the Liberty National Bank. The board consists of Christian Bonge of Bergen, S. E. Dahl and G. K. Hegge of Christiania, K. Jebsen of Bergen, Viktor Plahte of Christiania, and C. Thaulow of Trondhjem.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Strikes in various parts of the country are a curb on the satisfaction which might ordinarily be expressed over the evidences of business activity, according to Dun's Review in its weekly survey of conditions. In discussing the situation the publication says:

Developments at the Industrial Conference in Washington, which it was hoped would promote more settled conditions, have not been reassuring, and the uncertainties of the labor situation nearly everywhere prompt hesitation and act as a check on new enterprise. The largest bank clearings ever recorded for the period continue at various important centres, the total this week at twenty leading cities in the United States amounting to $8,647,934,940, which represents increases of 28.3 and 51.1 per cent. respectively over the corresponding weeks in 1918 and 1917.

Bradstreet's says:

Prices as a whole, however, are steady, and official and other price comparisons, while reflecting a fair lowering of food price levels at wholesale since Aug. 1, point to only a slight net reduction in the entire list, with retail prices slow to follow wholesale quotations downward. Manufacturing, though crippled by strikes or labor inefficiency, ranges from fair to active, with a majority of reports indicating efforts being made to fill piled up orders. The above refers to what might be termed present demand. The future, however, seems to present a rather different picture, mainly because of the increasingly arbitrary attitude of organized labor. Meeting this attitude of organized labor and threats of "direct action" by the unions is an undeniable stiffening of the attitude of employers in nearly every line, which makes the future industrial outlook an unusually clouded one.

General Chemical Profits Decline.

The report of the General Chemical Company for the first nine months of this year shows a surplus, after charges and Federal taxes, of $3,196,932, or the equivalent, after preferred dividends, of $15.20 a share on the common stock. In the corresponding period of last year the surplus was $4,647,148, or $23.98 a share. The total profits were $4,851,932, whereas in 1918 they were $6,462,148, and in 1917 $7,226,780.

Coca Cola Sales.

The net profits of the Coca Cola Company for the first nine months of this year were $3,946,174, or the equivalent of $6.84 a share on the common stock after preferred dividends. The gross sales for the period were $18,918,709, as compared with $10,125,023 in the corresponding period last year.

ANOTHER HIGH MARK IN OCTOBER COTTON

FEW CONTRACTS OFFERED

The feature of yesterday's cotton market was the flurry in October contracts, which were only kept from going even higher than they did by the application of the 200-point rule. Yesterday, being the last day in which dealings were permitted in October contracts, there was an early scurry on the part of some belated shorts to cover, and when it was found that there were exceedingly few contracts being offered, the bidding became feverish and the price rose to a new high record of 37.25, as against the previous high of 36.05, made on Wednesday.

October had opened up about 35 points at the start and was selling in the neighborhood of 35.80 when the flurry started. The price was rushed forward rapidly until the high record was reached, and after the 200-point rule had been put in force the quotation went back to around 37.10, where it closed at noon. This was practically on a parity with spot cotton, which was quoted at 37.20, also a new high record for the year and an advance of 85 points on the day.

Other options were also strong, although not nearly so sensational as October. Further bad crop reports and a strong trade demand were the factors which produced yesterday's strength. The labor situation was generally ignored, in contrast to its reception of the day before, and the improved tone of the stock market appeared to influence some Wall Street buying.

In trade circles it was said that there was an unusually good foreign demand, both here and in the South, and reports were current of buying of spots in the South for German account, as well as for the account of several of the European neutrals. Southern spot markets were strong, and some good advances were recorded.

In the late afternoon there was some reaction from the early high figures, mainly inspired by a feeling of caution in anticipation of today's ginning report, which some expected would be bearish. Also, there was considerable profit-taking on the early afternoon bulge, but, so far as could be judged, there was little short selling. The late reaction took the market down from its earlier gains of 50 to 65 points to about a parity with Thursday's closing figures, but at the close December and January made fresh gains of 30 points or more, while March and the other far months showed only nominal changes on the day.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,015 packages. Prices advanced 1c on fine and fancy grades of creamery, which brings the quotations up to Wednesday's figures. Trade was better and there were more reserved offerings. Medium qualities are also stiffening somewhat under export buying. Ladies steady. Packing stock firm. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 70½@71c; extras, 92 score, 70c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 68@69c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 59@61½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 54@57c; lower grades, 51@53c; unsalted, higher than extras, 73@74c; extras, 72@72½c; firsts, 64@71c; seconds, 58@62c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 68@69c; good to prime, 63@67c; common to fair, 51@62c; renovated, extras, 57c; ladies, current make, firsts, 49½@50½c; seconds, 48@48½c; lower grades, 46@47½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 48c; No. 2, 47c; lower grades, 44@46½c; creamery, held, higher scoring, 64½@65c; extras, 63¼@64c.

EGGS.—8,453 cases. The general market for fresh gathered eggs continues quiet, and although receipts have been lighter this week there is still considerable accumulation of average good, prime, and lower grades of fresh gathered stock pressing for sale at comparatively easy prices. There is a fair demand for really fine to fancy qualities, but the offerings appear to be sufficient for the needs of the trade at unchanged prices. Storage eggs firm, with a continued steady fair demand. Nearby white eggs are in light supply, most of the stock recently delivered by the express companies has been of more or less defective quality and poor condition, and sales of these are at very irregular prices. Strictly fancy goods are scarce and values for such are fully sustained. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 69@70c; extra firsts, 65@68c; firsts, 61@64c; seconds, 55@60c; undergrades, 45@54c; dirties, No. 1, 50@52c; No. 2 and poorer, 43@49c; checks, good to choice, dry, 42@45c; undergrades, 36@41c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 53@54c; firsts, 51½@524c; seconds, 47@51c; undergrades, 32@46c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, fancy, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 69@96c; fair to prime, 70@92c; gathered white, common to prime, 65@93c; pullets, 65@70c; Pacific Coast whites, express, fancy, 85c; freight, 86@92c; storage, 85c; other Western and Southern, gathered whites, 65@85c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby, hennery browns, fancy, 74@76c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded, fancy, 70@73c; fair to prime, 62@68c.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Heavy offerings of American Smelting and Refining, based in large part on belief that the confused marine and general labor situation may cause extensive delay in the conversion of the company's copper metal into cash, brought a net loss of 3⅞ to 69 in that stock on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday, with others of the copper group moving down from 1 to 2 points in the general list adversely affected by the attending liquidation. There were early gains of from 2 to 7 points in the active motor and steel shares, with considerable recession from the highest figures during the final hour. The initial feature was a 9-point advance to 64¾ in Middle States Oils, in which issue there has been netted a gain of about 30 per cent. in less than ten days.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The ten-story Corcoran apartment house, on the northeast corner of Fifty-eighth Street and Sixth Avenue, which the New York Athletic Club seriously considered purchasing last Spring as an addition to its clubhouse, adjoining, was sold yesterday by the William E. Burgess estate to Everett and L. Randolph Jacobs, operators.

The building occupies a plot fronting 100.5 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on the street. It shows an annual rental of about $85,000 and was valued at $850,000. The purchasers will remodel into small suites. The Coronet was completed about eighteen years ago. John Finck negotiated the transaction.

Broadway Corner Bought for Improvement.

The group of buildings at the northwest corner of Sixty-seventh Street and Broadway, fronting 85 feet on Boardway and 131 feet on Sixty-seventh Street, has been sold to a client of William B. May & Co. by the Coastwise Warehouse Company. The property was held at $450,000. The buyer will erect a three-story fireproof building on the site, arranged for restaurant purposes.

Women's Work Exchange Buys $225,000 Site for New Home.

As a site for a new building the New York Exchange for Women's Work has purchased the property at 539 and 541 Madison Avenue, between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Streets, which has been held at $225,000. The deal was arranged by Pease & Elliman, the seller of 539 being the 539 Madison Avenue Corporation, and the seller of 541 the King Estate.

The site measures 50 by 100 and is at present improved with two four-story and basement buildings. The building committee of the exchange, of which Mrs. W. Gilman Thompson is Chairman, plans to reimprove the property with a six-story structure, which is to be ready for occupancy next May, when the association's lease on its present home expires. For its Forty-third Street property, recently sold, the association received $350,000 from the Oceanic Investing Company, netting it a handsome profit over the original purchase price.

Water Street Sale.

Charles F. Noyes Company sold for Elizabeth Harper to A. Berry Company the property at 341 Water Street, a lot 25 by 80 improved with a five-story building. New York Fur Auction Sales Co. Buyer of Big Building.

The New York Fur Auction Sales Company is the buyer of the five-story building at 212 to 232 West Twenty-sixth Street, sold last week. A lease held by a member of the Moritz Cohn estate, which sold the property, does not expire until 1921, and it is possible that the fur sales company will not be able to obtain possession until that time. It is planned to house both the warehouse and salesroom in the building. A new structure may be built.

The property has a frontage of 223.3 feet on the south side of the block between Seventh and Eighth Avenues. It extends back 98.9 feet. The building now nets a rental of $10,000 yearly.

GOVERNOR REMOVES SHERIFF OF NASSAU

OTHER CHARGES SUSTAINED

Investigator Finds That Sheriff's Wife Sold County Food to Prisoners.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Governor Smith tonight removed Phineas A. Seaman as Sheriff of Nassau County, basing his action on the findings of Joseph M. Proskauer, named by the Governor to investigate the office. In his report, Commissioner Proskauer declares that the suicide of Dr. Walter K. Wilkins, who hanged himself in the jail, was due to the negligence of the Sheriff.

The charges were made by the Nassau County Association, and after they had been presented to the Governor Mr. Proskauer was named to look into them and report.

Mr. Proskauer in his report reviews the evidence taken, and says that Mrs. Seaman, wife of the Sheriff, sold county food to the prisoners. "The question arises," says the Commissioner, "which I do not here decide, whether under the county law it is not illegal to sell to any criminal prisoners special food. Mrs. Seaman purports to have kept the proceeds of these sales intact in her bureau drawer with the intention of accounting for them finally to the county. It is certainly open to serious question whether the Sheriff has any right to take the county food and engage in the business of selling it."

It was also found by Mr. Proskauer that the Sheriff procured deputy sheriffs to act at county fairs, paying them $3 a day for their work, while he collected $5 from the association desiring this special service.

In conclusion Commissioner Proskauer writes:

"I disclaim any intention to judge the Sheriff by the standard of requirement of him of harsh, abusive or rigorous treatment toward his prisoners, inconsistent with modern tendencies of prison reform. But I do not believe that a humane and forward-looking policy of modern prison reform requires or is consistent with such negligence and misconduct as is disclosed by this record. Humanity and the spirit of helpfulness do not require that convicted criminals visit places of public amusement and go upon extended excursions outside the jail for personal entertainment; nor do they forbid reasonable watchfulness and supervision.

"The term of office of Sheriff Seaman expires on the 31st day of December next. He thus has less than three months to serve. The apparent hardship of removing him from office so near to the end of his term must in my judgment be overborne by the consideration that it is impossible to acquit him of these charges without encouraging similar conduct on the part of other sheriffs in the State.

"For the reasons stated, I report that in my opinion the charges against Sheriff Phineas A. Seaman have been sustained, find him guilty of these charges and I recommend that he be removed from office."

CAPT. JOSEPH E. DAVIS TO SUCCEED SEAMAN

Captain Joseph E. Davis, head of the Blaine Coal Mining Company, with offices at 1 Broadway, New York, who lives at Brookville Farm, Glen Cove, said last night that the Governor had called him by telephone from Albany to ask if he would be willing to succeed Sheriff Seaman in Nassau County. Mr. Davis said he had agreed to take the office.

Captain Davis is a Yale graduate in the class of 1900. He is a member of the Riding, Knickerbocker, Turf and Field, Racquette and Tennis, Columbia, and Yale University Clubs of this city. His New York home is at 525 Park Avenue.

The new appointee is prominent in Nassau County. He is interested in all sorts of sports, is a member of the Meadow Brook Hunt Club, where he was master of hounds at one time. He is also a member of the Piping Rock Club and the Nassau Country Club. He is a Republican and a member of the Nassau County Association.

Mr. Davis is well known throughout the county as a horseman, and has ridden many winners in steeplechase events. He is a native of West Virginia and a nephew of the late United States Senator Elkins. His wife, formerly Miss Mary C. Maxwell, was a society leader in Brooklyn.

Ex-Sheriff Seaman expressed surprise yesterday that Governor Smith had thought the evidence sufficient for his removal. "I have not heard officially of my removal," said the former Sheriff, "and I am very much surprised at Governor Smith's action. I felt that the evidence did not justify my removal, as there was nothing brought out at the hearing that would reflect discredit on me. I did no more than the Superintendent or the Warden of any institution in the State in the case of prisoners who could be trusted.

"All I tried to do was to better the conditions of prisoners sent to jail, and if Governor Smith wants to remove me for trying to make better men of those prisoners I am willing to abide by his decision."

Sheriff Davis will fill out the unexpired term of his predecessor, which expires on Dec. 31 of this year. His successor will be elected on Nov. 4, and will take office with the new year. In view of the fact that he had not been officially notified of his appointment, Mr. Davis declined to make any comment on his policy. He said, however, that he did not intend to remove any of the present staff of the Sheriff's office.

"I am afraid I do not know much about the job," he said, "but I am going to do my best."

MAJOR KELLY'S NAME RULED FROM BALLOT

The name of Major Michael A. Kelly, lone candidate of the Liberty Party, was ruled off the official ballot yesterday through a decision handed down by Justice Giegerich of the Supreme Court. Major Kelly is the last of a number of independent candidates who, it was feared in Tammany circles, might draw from Tammany's strength on Election Day, to be eliminated. With these out of the race, the way is open for a straight-out contest on party lines during the closing week of the campaign between the Democratic and Republican candidates for city offices.

Among the Tammany workers the decision naturally was hailed with delight. The Republicans were probably not so well pleased, although they professed to have no reason for fearing the effect of Major Kelly's elimination as a candidate. The Republican leaders expected Major Kelly, as a candidate for President of the Aldermanic Board, to poll at least 100,000 votes, each of which they have claimed would be tantamount to one-half vote for their candidate, Major Fiorello H. La Guardia, thus practically wiping out the handicap with which the Republicans start a city campaign when running a straight ticket.

Justice Giegerich rendered his decision after listening to argument by John J. McGinniss, counsel for Major Kelly, and Theodore T. Baylor, formerly counsel for ex-State Senator William M. Bennett, who appeared for Joseph P. Haggerty of 166 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, who as a taxpayer asked that Kelly's name be not printed on the ballot. The contention made by Mr. Haggerty's counsel that the nominating petition of Major Kelly did not have attached to it a sufficient number of valid signatures to meet the requirements of the Election Law was sustained by an examination of records in the office of the Board of Elections, which showed that although there had been 3,491 signatures to the Kelly petition a great number of these were defective, while in other instances signatories had failed to qualify as voters by registering, leaving Major Kelly 84 short of the 3,000 signatures required to render the petition valid.

FROM A SOLDIER'S HEART

By HAROLD SPEAKMAN

1st Lieutenant, 332nd Infantry, U. S. A.

You will want to read and to keep this sincere and beautiful story of our lads in the lone American Regiment which fought on the Italian Front. Do you know that long after the Armistice they climbed the high mountain-passes of Jugoslavia to help put down a full fledged revolution and get food into Cettinje, the starving Montenegrin capital?

And finally, after four months in Dalmatia and the Balkans, when at last they sail for home and the transport is coming through the Narrows, you will feel with them the deep, intense joy of the homecoming, and of seeing the great Goddess standing there in the harbor—waiting. "Where's the Old Girl?" they asked affectionately, as they looked for her.

STAR DUST FROM THE DUGOUTS

A Reconstruction Book

Peter Clark MacFarlane, friend and fellow-worker with Stidger, says in his introduction to this book: "The author of this book is himself a speck of Star Dust. He is a big, husky fellow with a big heart. His warm, impulsive nature sent him to France, leaving a wife and baby behind him. There that same nature sent him into the line of duty at the far front. . . . Stidger was always seeing the deeps in hearts. He has touched this war with his human hands; he has measured the current of its emotions through his heart, and some of that touch, of that measure, is here in the book, told with a simple sincerity that is power."
